BILL IN SENATE SEEKS $75,000 FOR MARCHERS

Costigan Measure Would Give Sum at Once to Aid Veterans.

ARMY THROWS OUT TWO RED AGITATORS

Hurley Orders Bed Sacks to Be Distributed From Fort Myer Depot.

A Federal appropriation of $75,000 to provide for the veterans of the bonus army of occupation who have converged here to demand inmmediate payment of the bonus was asked in a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Costigan (Democrat), of Colorado.

The bill is the result of an assertion by Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, that the Federal Government and not the District should pay for maintenance of the veterans. The bill calls for an appropriation of $675,000, which includes $600,000 sought by District relief agencies to care for the District's unemployed.

To expedite consideration of the bill, Senator Capper (Republican), of Kansas, will call witnesses to appear tomorrow before the Senate District committee to testify as to the need for the bill. Among those scheduled to be called are Gen. Glassford, Senator Costigan and George Wilson, chairman of the Board of Public Welfare.

Senator Costigan asked that the sum of $75,000 be made immediately available for "transients and homeless persons in the District." He mentioned that the measure would provide for the veterans now here as well as all transients.

Other Brigades to Come Here.

That the charity agencies of the city will be unable to maintain the men for any great period became patent last night, with reports coming from all quarters of the country that brigades were being formed to march here to "stay until the bonus is paid." It is estimated that there are 1,300 now in the city.

The $75,000 maintenance item would be taken from Treasury funds not otherwise appropriated, while the $600,000 would be taken from the combined revenues of the District. Gen. Glassford has said he will have to evict the men when funds are exhausted, unless Congress gives them aid, while Walter W. Waters, head of the Oregon group of 300, declares his men will stay here "until 1945," if necessary.

Attempts of Communists to inflame the men are being dealt with summarily by "kangaroo court-martials." Two men who were distributing red literature in the billets at Twelfth and D streets southwest, were given a hearing by the soldiers. They were convicted and sentenced to 10 welts over the back with a strap. The sentence was executed and the men thrown from the quarters.

Senator Costigan's bill asks that the $600,000 for District relief be made available for use in direct or work relief to unemployed residents of the District. A similar bill, excluding the $75,000 veterans' relief provision, is now in the hands of a Senate District appropriations subcommittee. The House recently killed a like measure.

Hurley Orders Bed Sacks.

Secretary of War Hurley yesterday ordered 2,000 bed sacks to be distributed to men from the supply depot at Fort Myer. His action followed a request of Gen. Glassford. Straw is needed for the sacks before they will be usable.

According to information received here 1,600 were removed from trains west of Chicago. The Associated Press says 300 reached Bay St. Louis, Miss., from New Orleans; a group of 200 was en route across the Nevada desert in box cars, and another group of 300 is organizing in Cleveland.

There were no definite assurances of the number which will arrive. W. C. Cox, advance man for the Oregon delegation, estimated that 7,500 will be in the Capital at the end of another week. By actual count, according to Patrolman James E. Bennett,

Fascist Plot to Crush Czech Regime Bared

Prague, Czechoslovakia, May 30 (A.P.).—The newspaper Ceske Slovo reported today the uncovering of an abortive Fascist plot to overthrow the Republican regime in Czechoslovakia and proclaim Johann Gadja, Bohemian leader of the National Socialist party, king.

The newspaper said independent investigations revealed that the Fascists had the revolutionary plan ready when the National Socialist party in Czechoslovakia was ordered dissolved recently. A list of proposed mon-

Speedway Ace Breaks All Records in Test; 26 Quit Grind.

(Associated Press Sports Writer).

Indianapolis, May 30 (A.P.).—With death-defying speed, Freddie Frame, of Los Angeles, roared to victory in the twentieth international 500-mile automobile race over the Indianapolis Speedway today, leaving a string of broken records in the wake of his tiny gray-painted eight-cylinder racer.

Frame, a 37-year-old driver, with ten years of racing experience behind him, smashed all existing records for the 500-mile race when he bounded his little racer over the finishing line in triumph. He covered the 500 miles in 4:48:03.79 to average 104.144 miles an hour, breaking the former record of 101.13 established by Peter de Paolo in winning the 1925 classic.

Less than 44 seconds back of Frame came Howdy Wilcox, Indianapolis youngster, driving his first major race, to finish second. Cliff Bergere, of Los Angeles, a former movie stunt man in flying and automobile crack-

OCEAN FLIER SAVES LIFE BY LEAP IN SEA

Browne, Off for Tokyo, Uses Parachute as Refueling Wrecks Plane.

Seattle, May (U.P.).—Nathan C. Browne, Texas cow puncher, leaped to safety in a parachute today when his heavily-loaded monoplane, Lone Star, crashed into Puget Sound at the start of his second attempted nonstop flight across the Pacific in quest of $29,500 in prizes.

Frank Brooks, professional parachute jumper and stunt man, who was in the Lone Star's cabin, likewise took to his parachute and together the airmen fell into the water. Both parachutes failed to open until the fliers were dangerously near the surface.

Brown, victim of a series of jinxes, was attempting to refuel over the Sound when a weighted hose from the refueling ship, piloted by Frank Whaley, struck the Lone Star's stabilizer.

The big crimson Fokker dived crazily, out of control. Browne desperately tried to right it. A wing collapsed. Then the ship seemed to fall to pieces.

Seeing all hope of saving the plane gone, the two men jumped. A speeding motor boat picked them up and they were taken to Ballard General Hospital for examination.

Browne had a dislocated left shoulder; Brooke was uninjured. The latter had planned to descend in a parachute after refueling the Lone Star.

"Browne came too close under Whaley's refueler," Brooks explained, laughing at the experience which cost Browne a coveted award and an expensive plane. "The plane nosedived about 700 feet from an altitude of 2,000 feet. When Nat tried to bring her out of it, she started breaking up.

"Boy, the air was filled with wings, struts and wheels. We weren't anx-

Rumrunner Is Seized With $12,000 Cargo

Hither Hills, N. Y., May 30 (A.P.).—The crackle of machine gun fire aroused campers in the State park today, to watch three Coast Guard vessels corner a speedy rumrunner and force her to beach a $12,000 liquor cargo.

The crew leaped out on the sand and escaped, but not before the pilot had been struck in the arm and shoulder by rumchaser bullets, the witnesses said.

6 BALLOONS SAILING BRISKLY NORTHEAST

Crews at Omaha Race Carry Guns as Winds Indicate Landings in Wilds.

Omaha, Nebr., May 30 (A.P.).—Blown northeastward by a strong wind that delayed their take-off almost two hours, six hydrogen-filled balloons late today started from Municipal Airport in the national balloon race, final event of the second annual Omaha air races.

Tracy Southworth, of Monroe, Mich., a member of the Michigan Legislature, piloted the Chevrolet Motor Co. entry, first to take off. It left at 6:48 p. m. (C. S. T.). John E. Engle was Southworth's aid. Next away was the Army No. 1 balloon, 29 minutes later. The last balloon, the City of Omaha, departed at 8:45 p. m.

Due to a shortage of gas none of the big bags was filled to capacity.

The pilot to cover the most distance is to get the third place on the United States team for the international Gordon Bennett Trophy race at Basel, Switzerland, in September.

Officials ordered the crews to carry firearms and a week's emergency provisions, since the prevailing wind from the Southwest indicated they might be carried over the Canadian wilderness.

Capt. W. J. Flood was in command of Army bag No. 1, with Lieut. Maynie McCormick, aid. Commanders and aids of the other craft were Army No. 2, Lieut. Wilfred J. Paul and Lieut. J. H. Bishop; City of Omaha, Eddie Hill, Detroit, and Roscoe Conklin, Omaha; Omaha Junior Chamber of Commerce, Thorvald Larsen and Harold Larsen, brothers; Goodyear VII, Poland Blair and Frank Trotter.

Willys and Wife Leave Warsaw for America

Warsaw, Poland, May 30 (A.P.).—United States Ambassador John N. Willys and Mrs. Willys departed from Warsaw today for the United States, where Mr. Willys will reenter the automobile business.

Officialdom of the capital said cordial farewells, and Marshal Joseph Pilsudski and President Moscicki sent remembrances. The marshal's was a silver-framed autographed photograph, while the president bestowed the Grand Ribbon of Polonia Restituta on the retiring envoy.

Holdup Robs Ticket Agent Of $200, Defying Throng

Express Package Ruse Ends With Old Dominion Railway Employe Left Bound as Robber Takes Loot and Flees.

A ticket agent of the Washington & Old Dominion Railway Co., at Rosslyn, Va., yesterday fell victim to the clever ruse of a daring daylight robber and was left helplessly bound and gagged while the lone gunman escaped through the crowded terminal with loot of $200 in cash.

Hundreds of nearby Virginia residents, returning to their homes from Memorial Day exercises in Washington, swarmed about the suburban railway station, but were unaware of the robbery until District and Arlington County police drew up at the doors.

Benjamin N. Chaney, the ticket agent, was alone in his office shortly after 6 o'clock. Part of his duties are to receive express packages for shipment on the line's trains. As he sat at his desk, the bell over a baggage window rang. A man, carrying a small parcel, stood outside.

Chaney opened the window, a two-piece affair that swings open from the top. The man placed his package on the bottom half, which serves as a counter. He asked that the package be sent to Leesburg, Va.

"I'm sorry", Chaney informed him, "but we have no express service to Leesburg today."

NAZIS HAIL FALL OF BRUENING AS CLINCHING RULE

Hindenburg Also Accepts Resignation of 2-Year-Old Cabinet.

HITLER QUICKLY SEES PRESIDENT ON SHIFTS

Dictatorship Is Held Unlikely as Executive Is Firm on Constitution.

Berlin, May 30 (A.P.)—Dr. Heinrich Bruening and his cabinet stepped aside today, and the Nazis of Adolf Hitler hailed the resignation with the triumphant slogan: "Our Hour Has Come."

But when President Paul von Hindenburg accepted the resignation of the two-year-old cabinet there was no indication the Fascist Hitler would step directly into power.

As conferences progressed throughout the day the impression grew that the Nazis would not immediately cash in on their recent state victories, but that perhaps the next chancellor would be a man whom they could tolerate.

Then, after the Lausanne conference on June 16, there was some talk that the Nazis might assume power—but authorities agreed this was "another question."

Conference Ensues.

At any rate, the little Nazi chieftain was ushered into the president early tonight to confer on the complexion of a cabinet, after hurriedly breaking off his election campaign tour in Mecklenburg. The outcome of the conference was not revealed.

Previously the aged executive had summoned Paul Loebe, chairman of the Reichstag and a power in its biggest party, the Socialist or Social Democratic group.

The Socialist and Nazi leaders, comprising the biggest two parties in the present Reichstag, were understood to have given their suggestions to the president.

Tomorrow the Centrists (Catholics), German Nationalists and the People's party will be heard, as well as the remaining small parties.

Both Captain and Pilot.

Thus it was indicated that for at least another day President von Hindenburg would remain both captain and pilot of Germany's ship of state.

There were many reasons assigned to the resignation of Dr. Bruening, which came after several private conferences between chancellor and president.

Chief among them, however, were the president's impression that the Socialist-Centrist coalition of Bruening no longer represented the will of the people, and his reported conviction that the army was no longer behind the present government in case of uprising.

Too, personal influences were at work during the President's recent

Herriot Calls Berlin Crisis Disquieting

Leader Says War Budget and Hitler Move Must Be Watched.

Paris, May 30 (A.P.).—The German political crisis was described today as "most disquieting" by Edouard Herriott, who is likely to be the next premier of France. In an article entitled "grave situation," published at Lyons, his home town, M. Herriott said Germany's military budget for 1932 and "anti-Polish agitation" by the followers of Adolf Hitler had especially to be watched by France.

Dissolution of the Reichstag and fresh gains for Hitler's National Socialist party in the ensuing German elections were suggested by the newspaper Le Temps as a likely aftermath to the resignation of Dr. Heinrich Bruening's cabinet.

Neither the former German Chancellor nor the Center and Left Republic parties of Germany gained any political benefit for the recent efforts to reelect President Paul von Hindenburg, the newspaper remarked.

Cyrus Curtis Reported In Serious Condition

Philadelphia, May 30 (A.P.).—Cyrus H. K. Curtis, wealthy publisher, who will be 82 years old next month, is reported to be seriously ill at Jefferson Hospital. He was stricken while on his big yacht, the Lyndonia, last week and brought here.

Neither at the Curtis home nor at the hospital could any information be obtained as to the nature of his illness or his condition today. The publisher's business associates professed to have received no word of his condition. Mrs. Curtis was in close attendance at the hospital.

BOWED CAPITAL PAYS HONOR TO FALLEN HEROES

BOYS IN BLUE LEAD MARCH TO GRAVES

Memorial Services Held at Other Shrines; Military Mass at Catholic U.

Slumbering heroes of many wars heard again the "muffled drums sad roll" in honor of their undying achievements for the Republic.

Quietly, yet with martial music, comrades of the fallen hosts trod the grass where sleep the brave in immortality.

To that immortality of courage, sacrifice and loyalty the Nation and the Capital bowed head on Memorial Day.

On the green swelling slopes of Arlington, where rest the Unknown Soldier and myriad comrades, many walked with solemn tread to services commemorating the warriors' deeds.

On each Arlington grave was placed the flag for which each soldier died. On each grave also was left a poppy.

A little group, in hose minds perhaps marched 200,000 other "boys in blue," led a mighty procession of soldiers of the later wars up Pennsylvania avenue and across the Potomac.

Services at Other Shrines.

As they marched toward Arlington, led by the soldiers of the Union, the dead received the tribute of the living in services at other shrines.

At Catholic University 60,000 worshipers gathered in a pontificial military field mass in honor of George Washington. There, before an assemblage which included notables of many countries, Archbishop Michael J. Curley celebrated the mass and led the mighty service.

Duty to affairs of state kept President Hoover at the White House. He took no part in the day's events, but his military aid, Col. Campbell Hodges, carried his wreaths to the Unknown Soldier's Tomb and to the grave of President Wilson, in Washington Cathedral.

At Arlington Amphitheater, former Senator James A. Reed asked an audience, which numbered thousands, "to keep the old faith" of the Nation's founders. Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion, lauded the courage of the war dead and said that members of the legion would make "similar sacrifices" in the event of a call.

Soldiers' Home Ceremonies.

At National Cemetery in Soldiers' Home, a ceremony was marked by the reading of Gen. Logan's order, establishing Memorial Day, by his daughter, Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker. Representative Manlove, of Missouri, made the address.

East-to-West Flier Ends Hop in Texas

Leaking Oil Line Shortens Nonstop Attempt of Bromley.

Amarillo, Texas, May 30 (A.P.).—Harold Bromley, Texas flier, who set out from New York early today in an oil-burning monoplane on a projected nonstop flight to Burbank, Calif., landed at the airport here at 10:35 p. m. (Eastern standard time) tonight. He said he would resume the flight to Burbank tomorrow.

Dallas, Tex., May 30 (A.P.).—S. A. Guiberson, of Dallas, whose company built the motor with which Harold Bromley's plane was equipped for a possible transpacific flight, said Bromley told him in a long-distance telephone conversation a leaky oil line caused him to land tonight at Amarillo. The flier reported he expected to complete repairs and resume the flight to Burbank, Calif., tomorrow, he said.

Guiberson also announced tonight the aviator would attempt a hop from Seattle to Tokyo if his plane was in satisfactory condition on his arrival in Los Angeles.

Grecian Coup Threatens To Form Military Rule

Athens, Greece, May 30 (U.P.).—The threat of a coup d'etat to establish a military regime was revived today in the turbulent Greek political situation.

About 100 followers of Gen. Theodorus Pangalos, former dictator, were reported to have gathered in front of the home of M. Condylis, the chief militaristic opponent of Gen. Pangalos. It was believed they planned to kidnap Condylis. Strong police detachments broke up the gathering, arresting several.

Jugoslav King's Palace In One of 6 Bombings

Short Reign of Terror Grips Belgrade; 4 Suspects Held.

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, May 30 (A.P.). The palace of King Alexander and five other strategic spots in the capital were bombed today.

A short reign of terror gripped the city, until the police explained that the missiles were not extremely dangerous, and were intended more as a demonstration of warning. The king left "for several days' rest" at Niska Vanja, it was announced.

The bomb thrown at the palace injured a passerby.

The others inflicted no injuries, but caused slight property damage. They occurred in a railway station near the military academy, at the senate building, at the ministry of the interior, in front of the newspaper Politico, and in the vicinity of the workmen's insurance office.

Four persons were arrested, including a Hungarian, a Croat and an unidentified woman. The fourth prisoner was named as Jelisije Ljubicic, and he was intercepted carrying a package he said he found in front of the Danish legation. It proved to be a bomb.

G.O.P. CHIEFS BEGIN FRAMING PLATFORM

Hoover and Borah Confer as Garfield and Senate Leaders Talk.

(Associated Press.)

Actual work on the delicate task of framing the Republican platform, with its prohibition plank, began yesterday in conferences at the White House and the Capitol.

James R. Garfield, of Ohio, son of the late President, emerged as the chairman of the all-important Republican resolutions committee and talked with Republican Senate leaders to get their views.

President Hoover called in Senator Borah, of Idaho, the prohibition leader, for another conference and started a new round of speculation on his ideas for the knotty prohibition plank.

Borah, who has drafted a plank outlining his views, maintained silence on the White House parley, but indicated he contemplated no change in his plan to remain away from the convention.

Mother and Son Drown As Rescue Boat Fails

Chestertown, Md., May 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Thersa Roesch, of Philadelphia, and her 17-year-old son were drowned near the Love Point Lighthouse today after a small rowboat in which they had put out from their yacht capsized.

Mrs. Roesch's husband ordered Capt. Edward M. Reynolds, in command of the yacht, to speed to his wife and son when he saw the rowboat turn over, but as they were going to the rescue, the propeller of the yacht snapped and the craft came to a stop about 25 yards from the spot at which the victims disappeared.

SENATE GROUP GETS SAVINGS BILL TODAY

Action Decided Upon After Revenue Measure Seems Sure of Early Vote.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

The budget-balancing economy bill, with estimated savings ranging from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000, will be laid before the full Senate appropriations committee in executive session at 10 o'clock this morning.

The meeting was ordered late yesterday when it became apparent the Senate might finish the revenue bill in another 24 hours. Appropriations Chairman Wesley L. Jones wants the economy measure ready to throw into the breach.

While labor and legion opposition to the bill was crystallizing, even before carefully guarded provisions became generally public, Senate leaders of both parties were preparing to lend every encouragement to this first tangible result of bipartisan cooperation.

Discussing the budget-balancing issue on the floor of the Senate yesterday, Senator Pat Harrison (Democrat), Mississippi, said Congress may raise from $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 more than the Treasury estimated will be required if the tax bill comes up to expected revenues and the Sen-

Alexandria, La., May 30 (A.P.).—Discovery of an opium poppy farm near here and the arrest of Claude Fuqua, chemical engineer and former Texas A. and M. football player, on charges of violating the Federal narcotic act, were revealed today by Federal narcotic agents.

Fuqua was seized Saturday after undercover agents had established his identity as the owner of 2 acres of Chinese opium poppies. The plants were destroyed.

Hurley Raps Garner Public Works Bill as 'Wasteful'

Attacks Speaker's Measure After Conference With Chief of Army Engineers, Whose Office Would Be Heavily Affected by Proposed Legislation.

(Associated Press.)

A slashing attack on Speaker Garner's public works bill as a "wasteful extravagance" was made last night by Secretary Hurley.

The Secretary issued a statement attacking the Garner bill after a conference at the War Department with Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, Chief of Army Engineers, and the general's assistant, Brig. Gen. George B. Pillsbury.

Under the bill, Gen. Brown's office would be charged with expenditure of more than $500,000,000 for public works.

The Secretary said the bill "substitutes wasteful extravagance for intelligent, well-balanced, productive construction." The President, the Secretary said, has sponsored acceleration of public works as an employment aid.

"To create unproductive jobs beyond the capacity of the Government to pay or to construct public works without legitimate return to the American people to foot the bill is wasteful extravagance," Mr. Hurley said.

The Secretary said the work speeded up under the President's program

Mills Preparing List of Additional Levies to Be Offered.

TOTAL OF INCREASE NEEDED UNREVEALED

55 Members of Chamber Pledge Themselves to Fight Sales Levy.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

Total of the billion-dollar tax bill is expected to be boosted considerably as a result of a conference between President Hoover and Democratic members of the Senate finance and special economy committees held in the White House last night.

Just how much more money the senators were told would be required to meet the needs of the Federal Treasury was not disclosed, but the additional levies were reported as ranging from $200,000,000 to $400,000,000.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), of Arkansas, minority leader of the Senate, said at the conclusion of the conference that he believed some progress had been made.

Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who remained with the President for an hour after the senators had departed, said Treasury experts were busy going over the revenue figures and that he would be ready to submit to the finance committee recommendations for additional taxes whenever the committee invited him to do so.

Sales Tax Not Discussed.

The Secretary refused to indicate what his recommendations might include nor would he make any estimate of the additional millions which would be required to achieve a balanced budget. The general manufacturers' sales tax, which was a tense battleground in the Senate yesterday, was not mentioned. Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, author of the pending 1¾ per cent general sales tax amendment, still to be disposed of, was the only minority member of the finance committee who was not at the conference.

Owen D. Young, New York financier and prominent Democrat; George L. Harrison, governor of the New York Federal Reserve Bank; Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, head of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, took part. The Democratic senators who attended included Robinson, Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Tom Connally, of Texas; Cordell Hull, of Tennessee; Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma; Alben Barkley, of Kentucky; William King, of Utah; Walter F. George, of Georgia; Edward P. Costigan, of Colorado; Robert Wagner, of New York; Samuel Bratton, of New Mexico, and James F. Byrnes, of South Catrolina.

Connally Amendment.

One result of the conference is expected to be prompt acceptance by the Senate of the Connally amendment increasing the income tax rates now in the bill. The Connally amendment was to restore the 1922 income tax rates, but would carry the maximum surtaxes to 55 per cent on incomes of $1,000,000 and over.

The Connally schedule was beaten once on the Senate floor, but the Senate voted to reconsider it just before recess at 7:20 o'clock last night, and agreed to vote on the amendment not later than 10:30 o'clock this morning.

Senator Harrison told the Senate the Connally amendment was estimated by Treasury experts to produce more than $100,000,000 above the estimated revenue from the income rates in the bill.

What new taxes will be put into the bill to meet the demand of the administration for additional moneys for the Treasury is not known. The

U.S. WILL NOT SEND GROUP TO LAUSANNE

Attitude Is Strengthened by Plea of MacDonald for General Trade Parley.

(Associated Press.)

Premier Ramsay MacDonald's plea that the Lausanne Reparations conference on June 16 be turned into a general conference on world trade was said yesterday by the State Department to have left unshaken the determination of the United States to remain away from Lausanne.

The United States has never been asked to attend the Lausanne gathering, and if it were asked, State Department officials said, it would not send delegates. This government has held since President Wilson's time that the United States asked no reparations from Germany and, therefore, is not concerned about reparations. It expects to have European nations pay their obligations to the United States irrespective of whether Germany meets the reparations obligations imposed upon her by treaties and agreements settling the Great War.

After the European powers have reached some agreement on reparations and intergovernmental debts, the United States will consider proposals foreign countries may care to make concerning the debts they owe this country.

In his recent visit to the disarmament conference at Geneva, Secretary Stimson refrained from discussing the reparations and intergovernment debt problem and the State Department says he has not discussed this problem by transatlantic telephone or cable since his return from Europe.

Since the first announcement of the Lausanne conference it has been known that after discussion of reparations the delegates would consider plans for betterment of commercial conditions the world over. But reparations so greatly overshadowed the proposed trade discussion and Congress was so hostile to United States participation in reparations discussions that the State Department never considered the sending of delegates to Lausanne.

Credit Convention To Start June 20

Thawing Out Frozen Dollar Will Be Main Topic of Discussion.

How to "Thaw Out the Frozen Dollar" will be the principal topic of discussion at the annual convention of the National Retail Credit Association at the Mayflower Hotel June 20 to 24, according to an announcement by Stephen H. Talkes, secretary-treasurer of the local credit association.

Two thousand of the leading credit executives of the country will attend the conference to study the subject of consumer credit. Attending members will exchange methods of operation, ideas and experiences in credit merchandising.

Members of the local organizations who are arranging the convention are Mr. Talkes, general chairman; Ben Stein and O. W. B. Brown, chairmen of the reception committee; A. Coonin, chairman of entertainment; Adolph Weyl, chairman of display and hotel arrangement; Martin M. Watson, chairman of registration; Leo Baum, chairman of transportation and boat excursion; H. J. Rich, chairman of publicity.

Crusaders Deride Dry Group's Name

"Saracens," Led by Stagg, Means Mohammedans, Lusk Declares.

(Associated Press.)

Rufus S. Lusk, of the Crusaders, last night termed the name "Saracens" given a prohibition organization formed last week by Coach Alonzo Stagg of the University of Chicago, "a fitting name to designate the new group favoring the eighteenth amendment, the law, which has killed Christian temperance with Mohammedan prohibition."

The prohibition group is opposing particularly the Crusaders.

"Saracen means Mohammedan," Lusk said in a statement. "It formerly meant heathen, infidel, pagan. Prohibition is a tenet of the Mohammedan religion.

"Coach Stagg is therefore justified in giving the members of his new group a name that means followers of the great prophet; both teach prohibition.

"The Crusaders can visualize how eagerly sincere drys—and there are millions of them—will take to an organization whose name stands for paganism, ruthlessness and cruelty."

After 40 Years, Navy Band Will Go to Sea

Annapolis, Md., May 30 (A.P.).—For the first time in 40 years the United States Naval Academy Band will go to sea when the midshipmen board the U. S. S. Wyoming Friday for the annual cruise.

Forty members of the band, composed of enlisted men many of whom have never been off land during their years in the service, will accompany the Naval Academy students. Formerly the bands on the ships carrying the midshipmen played for them, but the Wyoming has no musical organization.

Mills Proposals Rejected.

Several tax proposals advanced by Secretary Mills were disregarded by the committee and are not in the bill. These include proposals to tax domestic consumption of gas and electricity and a Federal gasoline tax, among others. What he will recommend to the committee today Mr. Mills refused to say as he left the White House last night. Neither would he say whether he estimated the tax bill was $200,000,000 short of balancing the budget as was stated on the Senate floor yesterday by Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, following a conference at the White House with the President and the Treasury head.

The Secretary, however, made it plain that the United States was not in any danger from the withdrawals of foreign gold from this country, a matter which has been stressed several times by Senator Reed.

Advocates of the general sales tax fought desperately and successfully to stave off a vote and certain defeat on the Senate floor after they had been confronted suddenly by Senator Harrison with a petition signed by 55 senators who said they would vote against any form of the tax at this time because it would delay passage of the revenue bill.

May End "Forcing"

President Hoover had been represented as supporting the tax and to be contemplating sending a special message to Congress urging its acceptance and quick passage of the bill. The fact that the sales tax was not discussed at the conference in the White House, however, was taken to mean efforts to force it into the bill would be ended.

The declaration of the 55 senators against the sales tax was contained in petitions which were circulated by Senator Harrison and Senator Robert M. La Follette (Republican), of Wisconsin.

Language of Petition.

The petitions said that "in order to expedite passage of the revenue bill to balance the budget and to prevent unnecessary prolongation of the debate thereon, the undersigned now declare they will at this time vote against any and every form of a general sales tax in the pending bill." The signers included 35 Democrats and 20 Republicans.

Senator Harrison surprised the sales tax advocates by announcing the result of the antisales-tax poll. Turning to Senator David A. Reed (Republican), of Pennsylvania, and Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts, the Mississippian said the 55 signatures should be "sufficient evidence to convince any one of the futility of continuing the sales tax fight." He proposed the Senate continue in session and complete consideration of the tax bill.

Senator Reed, who had conferred with the President and Treasury officials at the White House earlier in the day, took the floor to plead against immediate decision.

"The trouble with this bill," he said, "is that it does not balance the budget. Even if the Connally amendment to increase the income tax rates were put in it the bill would be something like $200,000,000 short of the required amount, assuming that the economy committee accomplished the utmost it was expected to and saves something like $300,000,000 in Federal expenditures. The Treasury estimates of prospective revenues have become untrue because of a general falling off in business."

Sharp Debate Insues.

Opponents of the sales tax sprang forward with challenges and debate was sharp and warm.

"The Secretary of the Treasury was before the Finance committee repeatedly," Senator Connally said. "If he knew the Treasury estimates were wrong and the senator from Pennsylvania knew they were wrong why have they withheld the information until this last minute?"

"In the last three weeks the picture has changed very much for the worse," Senator Reed replied. "In the last twelve hours the foreign exchange has crumbled against us. Gold is being carried out of the country as fast as vessels can take it. In the last six business days $100,000,000 more has been taken out. Heaven only knows how much more will be taken out this week. We can stand the run for a time, but if it continues we will have to declare a gold embargo or be driven off the gold basis."

Senator Robinson challenged the sales tax proposed by Senator Walsh as likely to add much revenue to the bill. Senator Walsh said it was estimated to produce $325,000,000 and would eliminate other taxes amounting to $292,000,000 already in the bill. Senator Reed said he did not believe the budget could be balanced without use of the sales tax and he did not believe more than $135,000,000 of the excise taxes in the bill could be cut out.

Robinson's Argument.

Senator Robinson protested that at a time when the consideration of the tax bill had been almost completed on the basis of repeatedly given Treasury estimates it was proposed to "undo all that has been done and adopt an entirely new system."

"Let us complete consideration of this measure without further delay. Time is the essential element in the situation," he said.

"Three or four more days will not make a great deal of difference and that delay will not be so important as is a proper balancing of the budget," Senator Reed said. "This bill won't do it."

"Only a few days ago the Secretary of the Treasury repeated to the finance committee his assurance that the Treasury was willing to accept a bill based on the Treasury estimates the senator from Pennsylvania now says are not sound," Senator Robinson insisted.

Senator George said Senator Reed's speech was calculated to do more harm than good. Senator J. Hamilton Lewis (Democrat), of Illinois, protested against efforts of financial and business interests to frighten the country with a threatened panic as a means for forcing acceptance of the kind of taxes beneficial to them.

La Follette Enters Fray.

By that time the Senate was in an angry mood. Efforts to get an agreement to recess and vote on the Connally amendment were met with objections. There were cries of "vote, vote". Senator Connally protested against the "maneuvering" of the sales tax advocates, saying they were hopeful of postponing action until they could get "something cooked up by the Treasury".

Senator La Follette denounced the speech by Senator Reed.

"The speeches by the senator from Pennsylvania," Senator La Follette shouted, "are designed to create not only a national but an international run on our gold. Granting the premise of the administration of the importance of the psychological attitude of the country, it is nothing short of striking a blow for the senator from Pennsylvania to arise and make a speech as he did this afternoon. Senators who are maneuvering for the sales tax do not hesitate to strike at the soundness of the American dollar. Those who delay action on this bill must assume the responsibility for enhancing the panic they already have created in the public mind."

Vote on Amendment Today.

Senator Charles L. McNary (Republican), of Oregon, majority whip, saved the day for the sales tax advotates when he said that he had informed several senators there would be no vote before recess was taken and they had left the Capitol. Senator Connally said 84 had answered a quorum call a few minutes before.

By a vive voce vote the Senate then adopted a motion by Senator Harrison to reconsider its previous action defeating the Conally income tax schedule, and agreed to vote on the amendment itself not later than 10:30 this morning.

The battle over the sales tax had continued intermittently all day. Between times the Senate approved the finance committee's 4 cents a share tax on stock and bond transfers, but disapproved the exclusion of stock loans from the tax. The tax on stock loans is aimed at short selling. Proposals to put back in the bill the House proposal of one-quarter of 1 per cent was beaten, as was a proposal by Senator Clarence C. Dill (Democrat), of Washington, for a one-eighth of 1 per cent tax. The Dill proposal was lost by a vote of 45 to 37, and a move by Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, to increase the tax to 6 cents a share was beaten, 47 to 32.

The committee's proposal for a 3 per cent tax on transport charges of oil pipe lines was approved without a record vote.

Estimate Revision Blocked.

Senator Millard Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, sought adoption of a resolution calling on the Treasury for a last-minute revision of revenue estimates, but this was blocked. Senator Matthew S. Neely (Democrat), of West Virginia, took a good while to berate the Senate for its verbosity in considering the measure.

In the meantime Senators Harrison and La Follette were busy adding new signatures to the pledge against the sales tax. Senator Harrison sought to get an agreement to vote on the proposal not later than 3 o'clock in the afternoon, but Senator Reed Smoot (Republican), of Utah, chairman in charge of the bill, objected. Senator Tydings objected to another proposal by Senator Harrison to limit debate on amendments to ten minutes.

When the fifty-fifth signature had been obtained to the antisales tax pledge, however, Senator Harrison took the floor and flung that fact at the startled sales tax advocates. He proposed that adoption of the Connally amendment be voted immediately, saying it would add more than $100,000,000 to the prospective revenue total in the bill and make the total in the measure $50,000,000 more than the amount the Treasury estimated as necessary.

"Round Robin" Denounced.

Senator Walsh criticized the round robin, saying that it was the "first time indirect methods have been resorted to to prevent frank and open consideration of an important public matter. This round robin is all the more to be condemned because it involves a matter of such vital importance to the business interests of this country.

"If this isn't cloture I never heard of it. It is closing the door to consideration of a matter before it has been brought up. It is like asking a jury to sign a pledge on its decision before it has heard the case. I can not find words to condemn it and the country will deeply resent it."

Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Republican), of Michigan, who was not a signer, replied that those who circulated the round robin had done what was "distinctly an act of useful public service," adding that the "thing of importance above everything else is expedition and for the Senate not to waste time on a futility and there could be no finer culmination of the Senate's action on this national holiday than to complete consideration of this tax bill."

As the bill stood at the end of the day its provisions were estimated to produce $977,500,000, which was $47,000,000 short of the amount fixed as necessary by the Treasury Department.

Tyding's Speech on Tax Held to Cost $200,000

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Smoot of the Senate finance committee estimated in the Senate yesterday a speech by Senator Tydings (Democrat), of Maryland, had cost the Government $200,000.

After Tydings had spent an hour trying to get the Senate to ask the Treasury for new figures on what money is necessary to balance the budget, Smoot said delay in passing the tax bill was costing $2,000,000 a day.

Tydings, he said, had already taken up one-tenth of the day, casting the Government $200,000.

"It's expensive conversation," Smoot added.

Metal Worker Gets Damages.

Charlottesville, Va., May 30 (Special).—Damages of $250 have been awarded G. W. Buck, 72 years old, sheet-metal worker, of Belmont, by a jury in the corporation court in a civil suit for $5,000 against E. J. T. Maupin for personal injuries sustained when struck by Mr. Maupin's automobile June 9.

Third Party Would Win Favor of All Motorists

By JOHN J. DALY

NOW is the time for all good men to come to the aid of the Third Party.

The Third Party always gets started about this time every four years—just before the old-line party conventions warm up the nomination committees.

It seems to be an old American custom, the launching of the Third Party.

If all the Third Parties that were ever formed in America could get together in one grand party, the combined vote, cast at $1 apiece, would not only balance the budget but leave the United States Treasury overflowing with wealth.

The Third Party starts but seldom finishes. Not since the rise and fall of the Whig Party—from 1820 to 1856—has a Third Party come in anywhere but third.

* * * *

NOW, however, there is a man out in Chicago—one of the best-known attorneys in the State of Illinois—Mr. W. W. O'Brien, one of the O'Briens, who nurtures a real idea in starting a Third Party. If he fails to come through, all Third Party advocates might just as well confide the fate of the Republic to the parties of the First and Second part, hereinafter referred to as the Democrats and the Republicans, or vice versa, depending upon the political mind of the reader. The Republican Party to some is First in War, First in Peace, and First in the Marts of Politics. The Democratic Party, to these same people, is second in everything, including the ability to come in out of the rain. There is a third group, though, that sees in both these old-line parties no difference whatsoever, in modus operandi or in belief, and to such the Democrats and the Republicans, the parties of the first and the second part, are just so much anathema, being what the boobery call Wet Smacks.

This Third Party, now being organized by one of the O'Briens of Chicago, has an entirely new and novel idea with which to solicit the support of the masses.

Hundreds of motorists, fined for overtime parking and for all-night parking, are asked to bring their tickets—their traffic court summons—to the attorney, O'Brien, "who has promised to fight them without cost."

* * * *

ALL this Third Party needs do is line up 47 good lawyers—if there are that many good lawyers—in the 47 remaining States of the Union, and go out on the war path, fighting for the overtime parkers. Down, then, with the Democrats and the demagogues, the Republicans and the Republookas.

If this program is strictly adhered to, on the 4th of March, 1933, A. D., the inaugural parade—from the United States Capitol to the White House—will be entirely automotive, not a man on foot, with flivvers in a free-for-all fantasy of fun and frolic following in the wake of the Third Party victory, probably Old Man O'Brien himself, his triumphant line of march strewn with torn-up traffic tickets, and not a traffic cop in sight.

GARFIELD FACES JOB IN SATISFYING WETS

Hoover's Choice Has Never Expressed Views on Prohibition.

Cleveland, May 30 (A.P.).—Facing the agitation for a wet plank in the Republican national platform, James R. Garfield, President Hoover's choice for chairman of the resolutions committee of the national convention, has never made a public statement on prohibition.

Garfield, son of the late President James A. Garfield, has been in virtual retirement from politics for many years. A tall, white-haired man with a bristling mustache, he has devoted most of his time to practicing law here since he was a leader of the Bull Moose movement for Roosevelt in 1912.

Garfield had been Secretary of the Interior in Roosevelt's cabinet. Classed as a progressive Republican, he continued to champion Roosevelt's policies and often expressed opposition to operation of Muscle Shoals power plant as a private enterprise.

Garfield, born in 1865 at Hiram, Ohio, was 16 when his father was assassinated. A graduate of Williams College, he studied law at Columbia University and in 1902 became commissioner of corporations in the Department of Commerce and Labor.

He lives in the exclusive village of Mentor, Ohio, near here, in the home purchased by his father.

Paris May Supply League Secretary

Geneva Authorities Expect Avenol to Succeed Sir Eric Drummond.

Geneva, May 30 (A.P.).—France is expected by authorities here to supply the next secretary general of the League of Nations to succeed Sir Eric Drummond, the retiring British secretary. Promotion of Joseph Avenol, deputy secretary general, to head the secretariat is regarded as likely, since the death of Albert Thomas, French director of the international labor office, left another important place to be filled.

Harold B. Butler, British deputy director of the labor office, now serving as acting head, is expected eventually to become director. Advancement of both him and N. Avenol would restore the Franco-British balance, which was established by the allotment of the two leading offices to Sir Eric and M. Thomas when the League was founded thirteen years ago.

The names of two Americans, Newton D. Baker and Norman Davis, have been mentioned as possibilities for the secretaryship, but the choice of a secretary general from a nonmember state is regarded as extremely unlikely. Sir Eric Drummond's retirement is not expected to become effective before next year.

White Sulphur Springs Chosen by Pharmacists

Roanoke, Va., May 30 (A.P.).—For the first time in the history of the organization, the Virginia Pharmaceutical Association this year will go outside Virginia boundaries to hold its annual convention jointly with an association of another State.

This year, the convention will be held at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., jointly with the West Virginia Association, June 20, 21, and 22.

REPUBLICAN CHIEFS BEGIN PLATFORM FRAMING TASKS

publican split, only smiled in response to questions. He called on Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, and while at the Capitol he also visited with Senator Fess, of Ohio, national chairman, and Moses, of New Hampshire.

He took over the multitude of platform suggestions already drafted by those high in the party council. He will call again next week, and said he expected to confer with Senator Borah.

Mrs. Henry W. Peabody, chairman of the Women's National Committee for Law Enforcement, conferred with Senator Borah yesterday. She said she wanted to tell him about her plans for the coming campaign and learn the attitude of Congress.

"I was happy to find that my weak feminine mind was very close to the strong masculine ones," she said. "Our stand is for law enforcement and preservation of the Constitution. We say that while many people are demanding change, particularly a small but powerful group, the people themselves are not demanding change—and when and if they do, it will be through their voice, which is Congress and three-fourths of the States. Senator Borah agreed with me that the voice of the people is in Congress and that other matters do not concern us deeply."

There was a growing feeling, though, among associates of the senator that he could be induced to go to Chicago and lead a fight for a prohibition plank should his views find support from the President.

It was also accepted at the Capitol that Mr. Hoover, in listening to persistent pleas for a resubmission plank, is determined, too, to keep in mind in the formulation of platform declaration the views of the prohibitionists.

Borah himself has drafted a secret prohibition plank outlining his own view on the situation. In that he is Borah and Mr. Hoover have been at understood to have taken the position that any real referendum must be through the election of members of the House and Senate to carry out the will of the people.

Hoover and Borah Split.

The senator gave no intimation after the parley that he had in mind any part for himself either in the national convention or in the ensuing campaign.
odds on almost every major legislative issue since the Idahoan went on the hustings in 1928 and led a cross-country campaign for the Republican nominee.

Political leaders are not surprised at the resumption of conferences between the President and his 1928 campaigner, but there is considerable speculation whether Borah will be found on the stump again this year.

In fact, his name has been heard frequently in the persistent speculation at the Capitol over a third party. The Idahoan, who has stood by the Republican party in all campaigns, dismissed inquiries about a third party movement with absolute silence.

Meanwhile, the President is feeling the persistency of demands by the antiprohibitionists and the "middle of the road" group in the party on the prohibition issue.

There is little doubt here that whatever is said in the party platform to be drafted next month will bear the approval of the President. But what it will be no one ventures to say with any degree of authority.

Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, gave notice yesterday he intended to go to the Chicago convention whether Congress is in session or not to lead a fight for a referendum plank. He is a member of the resolutions committee.

"The time has come," he said, "to give the people of the United States an opportunity to express themselves on retention or repeal in the manner prescribed by the Constitution through conventions.

"I feel it is most important for me to make sure that the Republican platform contains a plank favoring this vital question whether the people are to have this alternative than anything I can do by remaining here during the conventions."

Dry Leaders Gathering For "Strategy Meeting"

(Associated Press.)

Leading prohibitionists assembled yesterday for strategy meeting, while separate women drys increased their activities in preparation for the national political conventions.

The national prohibition board of strategy and the national conference or organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment will restate their position this week. Leaders said their formal conclusions likely would give "no solace whatsoever" to politicians and citizens now suggesting prohibition changes.

The law observance dinner committee, headed by Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong and Mrs. E. Tilton, meanwhile issued a four-leaf paper demanding defense of the prohibition laws, to 1,600 delegates to the Republican and Democratic conventions.

The modification and submission plank talk of prominent men known as drys will be discussed by the prohibition strategy board, but it was the private opinion of the leaders that such suggestion would be emphatically rejected.

Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the board, said it was barely possible the group might take the position that as individuals they are sufficiently open-minded to consider revision proposals which might better enforcement conditions, but it is clear leaders doubt that any such proposal will be satisfactory.

Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, said the board likely would "clarify the situation stating its own case again."

CUBAN PRIEST HELD AS BOMB SUSPECT

Dynamite and Hand Grenades Seized; 250 Jailed in Raid on Terrorists.

Havana, Cuba, May 30 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Camaguey said tonight that several men had been arrested there and a quantity of dynamite and hand grenades seized in connection with the recent sending of a bomb to Capt. Samaniego, military supervisor there.

Among those imprisoned afterward in the Camaguey jail is a priest named Mendiola. The authorities seized 190 packages of dynamite, each containing 25 pounds, and 50 hand grenades.

Terrorism in Cuba was taken up for consideration by the House of Representatives tonight. More than 250 persons have been imprisoned recently as suspects in what the government described as a terrorist campaign.

Dr. Orestes Ferrara, who is expected to take office Wednesday as secretary of state, had a private conference today with the Brazilian minister, in whose legation former President Mario Menocal took refuge last week. Gen. Menocal was sought by the government on a charge of participating in the terrorist campaign.

Peru Passes Bill to Cut Gold Backing of Money

Lima, Peru, May 30 (A.P.).—Three bills designed to ease Peru's financial conditions by lowering the gold backing of the sol, establishing a national budget commission and reducing the capital of the Central Reserve Bank were passed by Congress today.

Under one measure the gold backing of the Peruvian currency would be reduced from about 98 per cent to 50 per cent, with a corresponding increase in the silver and marketable paper backing, permitting the Reserve Bank to increase the national currency from 38,000,000 soles to 76,000,000 soles. (The par value of the sol is 28 cents, but the current quotation on foreign exchanges is 25 cents.)

The Reserve Bank's capital would be reduced in an effort to aid industry and farming under another bill, while the third establishes a commission to control the national income and expenditures. The measures were introduced by Finance Minister Ignacio Brandariz.

Marines Clash With Insurgents.

Managua, Nicaragua, May 30 (A.P.). National Guard headquarters today reported two clashes with Nicaraguan insurgents in the northern part of the country. The report said Lieut. Prado and ten men encountered and dispersed a group of 40 Sandinistas commanded by Augustino Sandino's lieutenant, Juan Altamirano, near Apalt. Lieut. Elliot and seventeen men defeated a small group near Armonio. The insurgents were commanded by Ramiro Lopez. There were no guard casualties, but it was presumed the Sandinistas carried off several wounded, since bloody tracks were found nearby.

Sandino Offers Terms.

San Salvador, May 30 (A.P.).—Gen. Cesar Augusto Sandino, Nicaraguan insurgent leader, in a letter to sympathizers here, said he would never recognize a president elected by Nicaraguans under American supervision. He would like to see either Dr. Evaristo Hurtado or Salvador Calderon Ramirez take power as president, said the letter, shown here today. Ramirez is principal of a normal school here. If one of these two men entered the electoral campaign, and if American troops withdrew before the election next November, the letter said, Gen. Sandino would end his revolt.

New Shocks in Mexico City.

Mexico City, May 30 (A.P.).—Slight earth tremors continued to shake Mexico City today after three shocks were felt yesterday. Several persons were slightly injured. Twenty-five flimsy houses in Santa Clara and a dozen in surrounding suburbs were destroyed.

SENATE GROUP GETS REVENUE BILL TODAY

ate votes to cut expenditures $231,000,000.

"I hope we will cut them $300,000,000," he said. "Every indication is we will cut them $250,000,000, from what I hear of the committee work on the economy program."

The American Federation of Labor, which, with the National Federation of Federal Employes, was instrumental in raising the pay cut exemption in the House bill from $1,000 to $2,500, has thrown the full force of its strength against the measure, sensing in any contemplated pay reduction or furlough plan a threat to the entire industrial wage structure.

Veterans Join Move.

Under the leadership of President William Green, a national emergency committee on legislation affecting Federal employes has been formed in a united drive to defeat the measure. Veterans groups have joined the movement in an effort to block any planned reduction in veterans' compensation.

On a different front, but just as effective in opposition to the measure, Luther C. Steward and Miss Gertrude McNally, respectively president and secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Federal Employes, are fighting provisions of the bill hitting Federal workers.

Clause Prohibiting Wives.

The National Woman's Party and the National League of Woman Voters have entered the battle in an effort to destroy provisions of the House bill prohibiting employment of both husband and wife in the Federal service.

Secrecy surrounding the Senate's consideration of the bill has offered a major check to this opposition. No one knows certainly what is in the Senate version of the bill or has been able to get any information vital to an effective lobby. Profiting by what happened to the House economy committee's bill, after that body had made known its provisions, Senator Jones' appropriations group plans to withhold the contents of its measure until presentation to the Senate.

Completed Friday by the special bipartisan committee of six senators, the Senate economy bill was turned over to the legislative appropriations subcommittee Saturday for consideration as part of the legislative supply bill. The two will be presented to the full committee this morning as a single unit.

Attack Follows Conference With Engineer Chief; Hoover Defended.

were "of imminent necessity and without any taint of the pork barrel."

Secretary Hurley in his statement said:

"We have just made a study of the 'Public Works' bill which Speaker Garner is advocating. That bill naturally concerns the War Department as it provides for expenditures amounting to $537,525,257 by the Corps of Engineers, United States Army.

"The War Department appropriation bill, which recently passed the House of Representatives, reduced the appropriation for next year $84,000,000 below the appropriation for the current year. To save every dollar possible to aid in balancing the budget, the War Department itself suggested the greater portion of the reduction. On only one item now omitted from the bill and involving $4,000,000 has the War Department protested.

In Defense of Hoover.

"Now the Garner bill would direct the War Department to spend more than one-half of a billion dollars during the coming year on many of the same projects that the House of Representatives recently excluded. I am opposed to the Garner bill. It substitutes wasteful extravagance for intelligent, well balanced, productive construction.

"Speaker Garner contends that the President has always favored the use of public works as an aid to employment and then accuses him of inconsistency because the President does not favor the Garner bill.

"The President has sponsored the idea of accelerating public works as an aid to employment. Since the beginning of the depression the Federal Government has almost doubled normal expenditures on public works. Normal expenditures during this period of the depression would have been less than $875,000,000.

"To create jobs during the depression, the Federal Government spent on construction $1,575,000,000. To give employment, the President accelerated the public works program to its reasonable capacity.

"To create unproductive jobs beyond the capacity of the Government to pay or to construct public works without legitimate returns to the American people who foot the bill is wasteful extravagance."

Garner's Uuusual Course.

"In the present budget the President has recommended the expenditure of $570,000,000 during the next fiscal year on all public construction, including rivers and harbors. The projects speeded up under the President's program are of imminent necessity and without any taint of the pork barrel."

Hurley's formal statement came as Speaker Garner whipped his bill into final shape and prepared to go before the ways and means committee today in support of it.

With both Majority Leader Rainey and Republican Leader Snell forecasting favorable action, indications are that the bill calling for $2,309,000,000 will be sent to the Senate next week. Its fate there is in doubt.

Speaker Garner will take an unusual course in going before the committee in support of the bill providing another $1,000,000,000 for the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, $100,000,000 for direct relief, and a $1,209,000,000 public building and waterway construction program.

Snell Sees G. O. P. Support.

Not in many years has the presiding officer appeared before a committee to advocate legislation. The Texan said that in order to obtain House action he might take the floor to debate it.

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, or his representative, and Chester Grey, of the American Farm Bureau Federation, are to follow the speaker in advocating the legislation.

Acting Chairman Crisp had designated tomorrow for the opponents and Thursday for administrative representatives, including Secretary Mills and Brig. Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Crisp expressed belief the bill would be reported not later than Saturday.

Rainey predicted in an interview that Speaker Garner would permit action on the bill next Monday under a suspension of the House rules. This procedure, termed by many a "gag rule," is drastic. It limits debate to 40 minutes, prohibits amendments, but requires a two-third majority vote for favorable action. Rainey said the two-thirds vote would be forthcoming.

Despite administration opposition, Snell said yesterday he expected many Republicans to support it.

Youth Crossing Street Seriously Hurt by Car

John Dee, 21 years old, of 1324 Newton street northeast, was seriously injured last night when he was knocked down by an automobile while crossing North Capitol street between O and P streets. His skull was fractured.

Dee had parked his car on the west side of the street and was crossing to a drug store to buy a soda for Miss Mary Etta, 22 years old, of 132 Q street northwest, who was riding with him. He was struck by the machine of Isaac Seabrock, colored, 25 years old, of 410 Fifteenth street northwest, who was driving south on North Capitol street. Dee, suffering a fractured skull, was taken to Sibley Hospital. Seabrock was charged with operating a car with bad brakes.

DRY CHIEF SUSPENDS 2 FOR DISOBEDIENCE

Woodcock Declares Agents Failed to Cooperate in Kansas Probe.

Kansas City, May 30 (A.P.).—Indefinite suspension of John B. Madden and Brice Armstrong, special Federal dry agents, for "deliberate disobedience of orders" was announced tonight by Col. Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition enforcement.

Woodcock said the agents had failed to cooperate with S. M. Brewster, United States district attorney while conducting an "important investigation" in western Kansas.

The director, who stopped here on his way to Washington after a tour of inspection of the West, said Madden had declined to deliver documentary evidence to Brewster and Armstrong had refused to report to Kansas City for instructions. They are now in Hutchinson, Kans.

"These two agents have been persistently attempting to create the impression that they are more interested in the successful prosecution of this case than is United States Attorney Brewster," a statement by Woodcock said.

"I have complete confidence in Mr. Brewster and intend, as long as I am director, that he shall be assisted rather than impeded by the agents under my control."

Madden's suspension is his second recently. He previously was supended last fall for failure to report to a new post at Seattle, but was reinstated after he said he was prevented from doing so by illness.

Woodcock declined to identify the case under investigation, but said a Federal grand jury which could return indictments in the case will convene June 22.

May 15 Federal Judge Richard J. Hopkins announced at Wichita, Kans., a grand jury to convene there June 22, would undertake investiagtion of an alleged Reno County liquor conspiracy.

Auto Classic Visitors Killed in Bus Collision

Seymour, Ind., Mary 30 (A.P.).—G. B. McCormack, 22, of Birmingham, Ala., and Stanley Smith, 17, were killed and three companions from the same city hurt slightly tonight when, en route home from the 500-mile speedway race at Indianapolis, their automobile crashed into a bus several miles south of here on U. S. Road 31.

Those injured only slightly, none of whom were held for treatment, are Taylor Smith, 23, Stanley's brother; Frederick Darby, 19, and William Wingo, 16.

None of the ten passengers in the bus was injured seriously.

RIOTS TIE UP TRADE IN 3 SPANISH CITIES

Several Injured as Strike of Extremists Is Quelled by Government Forces.

Madrid, Spain, May 30 (A.P.).—Despite an announcement from the ministry of interior today that order had been reestablished throughout the nation after Sunday's extremist outbreaks, clashes occurred today at Cadiz, Seville and Algeciras.

Six were killed yesterday as government forces broke the back of a nation-wide extremist strike.

Four strikers were slightly injured in clashes with the police at Cadiz. When the authorities got the upper hand they padlocked extremist headquarters and jailed leaders in the movement. Strikers stoned a street car and wounded a woman passenger. Service was suspended.

Shipyards and airplane factories were not operating there, and there was no taxi service.

At Seville unidentified men, believed to be strike sympathizers, tried to set fire to three churches, but the blazes were extinguished before they did much damage. Most of Seville's industries were shut down by the strike and rioters shot at street cars without inflicting any injuries. Soldiers manned the bakeries.

At Algeciras a strike was declared in protest against the arrests Sunday of several syndicalist railroad workers. From Gibraltar it was reported that firing had broken out in the streets of Algeciras. Trains were unable to leave and ferryboat service was suspended. Mails to be transferred to Gibraltar were sent by sea.

At Madrid today thirteen persons were arrested and accused of participating in the Sunday extremist riots here.

Optional Death Penalty Taken From Kidnap Bill

(Associated Press.)

The Senate judiciary committee agreed yesterday to report favorably on the bill of Senator Patterson (Republican,) Missouri, for Federal punishment of kidnapers, removing its optional penalty of the death sentence.

As the bill will be reported to the Senate it provides that imprisonment for any term the court desires may be imposed upon conviction of defendants for transporting a kidnaped person from one State to another.

As the vanguard of the bonus marchers appeared yesterday grouped around a field kitchen while the bugler sounded "Mess Call." In the background are the Monument and the Department of Agriculture Building.

Youth Cut Twice In Auto Accidents

Victim of One Crash Hurt in Another on Way to Hospital.

A young man who had received several nicks by flying glass in an automobile collision in Maryland Park got several more when the automobile which was rushing him to Casualty Hospital crashed with another car at Maryland avenue and Eighth street northeast. In addition, two others in the second accident received cuts.

Elwood M. Cluskey, 19, of 1122 Morse street northeast, was riding in Maryland Park when he heard a crash. He drove to the scene and found Robert Speiden, 25, of Maryland Park, injured by flying glass. The young man's uncle, Robert Bell, witnessed the accident from his porch and ran to the scene and urged Cluskey to take Speiden to the hospital.

Making a left turn into Eighth street from Maryland avenue, the machine crashed with that of Carl Tappey, 30, of Bethesda. Speiden received additional cuts, while his uncle joined the ranks of the injured and Dewey Anderson, 33, of Mortonville, Pa., passenger in Tappey's car, was also hurt. Tappey and Cluskey were charged with reckless driving.

Porto Rican Legislature to Meet.

San Juan, Porto Rico, May 30 (A.P.). Gov. James R. Beverley announced today that he would call a special session of the legislature soon to amend the election law and workmen's compensation law. Bills to amend the present election law, giving representation to all parties with a strength of 10 per cent of the total electorate, were introduced recently following complaints at Washington by Porto Rican Liberals on the functioning of the island's election machinery.

The governor expressed a hope that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act would be extended to Porto Rico.

COSTIGAN'S SENATE MEASURE ASKS $75,000 FOR MARCHERS

one of Gen. Glassford's aids, there are 601 veterans billeted in designated quarters, while it is estimated that another 700 are sleeping in parks and old buildings.

To revive the enthusiasm of 2,000 veterans in Camden, N. J., and Philadelphia, Pa., who had virtually abandoned their plans to come here, the marchers yesterday dispatched Franklin Porter, of New York, to these cities to reorganize the marchers and escort them here.

Harold B. Foulkrod, of 19 Second street northeast, yesterday was named legislative representative of the veterans. He will canvass the representatives attached to the Tammany, Vare and Illinois organizations, to persuade them to sign the petition of Representative Wright Patman, which would bring the full payment bonus bill before the House for consideration. Only 91 of the required 145 signatures are on the petition.

May Go Into Garner Plan.

Representative Patman, the sponsor of the bonus legislation, said he will try to graft the enacting legislation onto the Garner plan for unemployment construction, when hearings begin today before the ways and means committee.

Representative Charles R. Crisp (Democrat), of Georgia, acting chairman of the committee, and Democratic House Leader Rainey have emphasized that so far as that committee is concerned the bonus issue is dead. They take the view that the committee has already decided against the bonus and there is no use in reconsidering it this session.

The group of 160, quartered in Wagner's garage at Twelfth and D streets southwest, yesterday agreed to affiliate with the Oregon group and decided to submit to the same rigid discipline it enforces. These regulations include abstention from liquor, no panhandling, no radical proselytizing, and strict adherence to a midnight "taps" and a 6 a. m. reveille.

Object to Fingerprinting.

The men rejected a proposal of the Veterans' Bureau for submission to fingerprinting. Their objections were on the basis that prints might embarrass them if they applied to the Veterans' Bureau for compensation at some future date. They agreed, however, to submit to a system of registration by police, providing that the records are destroyed when they leave the Capital.

The group at Wagner's Garage elected Hearne Walker, of Los Angeles, Calif., as their regimental commander, and organized into companies, designating details to provide cooking, fatigue work, and other tasks necessary to sanitary and healthful maintenance. This regiment is composed of men from ten States.

This unit, together with that quartered in Beiber-Kaufmann's vacant store, near Eighth and I streets southeast, has established a black list on which is placed the names of men who have been expelled for violations of regulations. Most of those expelled were convicted of agitation.

There is enough food in the commissary, supervised by Allen de Ford, local food broker, to feed the men for a few more days, Gen. Glassford announced. Housing facilities to date are adequate. Barbers, members of the veteran outfits, attend to the haircutting needs.

A committee to raise funds and gather blankets and clothing for the men was formed last night at a meeting of veterans at the Stanley Hall, in the National Soldiers' Home. Inmates of the home will donate spare clothes. Among the speakers were Mr. Foulkrod, Mr. Cox and Col. Frank Vam De Krintzer.

A parade of the veterans on Pennsylvania avenue to demonstrate for the bonus payment was discussed at a meeting of the leaders. Nothing definite was decided.

Rolling kitchens were placed in position yesterday near the two billets. That used by the Oregon group was bullet-scarred from service in France. William A. "Mother" Murphy, the mess sergeant, formerly cooked in the Hotel McAlpin, in New York, and the Statler Hotel, in Buffalo, [illegible] The kitchens are the property of District National Guard.

Appeals to Sell Tags.

An ironic touch to the veterans' plight was lent by a sign in the vacant store used by them as a barracks which read: "No Personal Checks Cashed."

The "chow" served yesterday to the Oregon group by Mess Sergt. Murphy was: Breakfast, bread, butter and coffee; supper, Irish stew, bread, butter and coffee. The group will have three meals today.

The unit in Wagner's garage was served rice, bread and butter for breakfast; beef stew and mashed potatoes for dinner, and fish, baked potatoes and spanish sauce and hot tea for supper.

Patrolman Bennett last night issued an appeal to auxiliaries of veterans' organizations and patriotic societies to sell tags at a wrestling match at the Stadium Thursday night. The proceeds of only the tag sale will be used to provide for the veterans.

A sick bay was established yesterday by Gen. Glassford in the medical quarters of the Sixth Marine Reserves Brigade at 458 Indiana avenue northwest, in charge of Lieut. Comdr. Don S. Knowlton. The bay has full equipment, including an ambulance. No serious illness has been reported. Sick call is held daily at 9 a. m. and 7 p. m.

Literature Is Seized.

The Workers Ex-Service Men's League, a Communist organization, has been trying to inflame the minds of the men by passing out literature reading: "Do not let the bonus enemies divide us. Mass presentations of demand is Wednesday, June 8. Congress is trying to rob us of the 50 per cent still due us on our back pay." Patrolman R. N. White confiscated some of the literature.

The Rev. Charles S. Biggs, pastor of the Ryland Methodist Episcopal Church, a former Army chaplain, yesterday sent a letter to Gen. Glassford saying the marchers were "an earnest and orderly group of men." Dr. Biggs has offered the use of his church as quarters for the men.

Gulf Coast Cities Assist Bonus Army on March

Gulfport, Miss., May 30 (A.P.).—Some 300 New Orleans World War veterans, bent on hitchhiking to Washington to demand immediate cash bonus legislation, today moved across Mississippi and into Alabama the guests of the Gulf Coast municipalities which cooperated to speed them on their way.

The veterans rode in style much of the way in trucks and automobiles, including several giant vehicles recently seized from inland rumrunners.

Free transportation for the "army" was agreed upon today by Mississippi county and municipal authorities after the veterans, routed by police Saturday night from railroad yards at New Orleans, where they attempted to board freight trains, began straggling into Mississippi, footsore and weary.

A large group made a temporary camp on the outskirts of Bay St. Louis this morning, after being rejoined by Paul E. Bonta, leader of the expedition, who was jailed at New Orleans Saturday for disturbing the peace. Bonta later was paroled. He said after reaching the coast that the band "contained no radicals," that their objectives were peaceful.

"We are well stocked with provisions and we have money, and there is no stopping us until we reach Washington," he said.

VIENNA GIVES NOTICE OF FINANCIAL CRISIS

League Warned Moratorium on Transfers Looms Unless Help Is Provided.

Paris, May 30 (A.P.).—A warning that only immediate aid to Austria would avert a transfer moratorium on its foreign obligations was delivered to a financial commission of the League of Nations meeting here today.

Rost Van Tonningen the league's representative at Vienna, reported that if help were delayed further a transfer moratorium would be inevitable.

He said it was impossible for the Austrian National Bank to find foreign currencies to meet service on Austrian's foreign loans without impairing the stability of the schilling.

Austria's financial stringency was reported by the league's financial representative in somber tones at a meeting of the mixed commission appointed recently to consider means of relieving Austria, Greece, Hungary and Bulgaria with the aid of Great Britain, France and Italy.

The purpose of the commission, composed of government representatives and financial experts, is to work out a scheme of temporary relief on an international basis. Great Britain, France and Italy have promised to join in an international loan to Austria, conditional on Austria's continuing to make payments on her foreign debt.

Councilor Musy, chief of the Swiss treasury department, was elected president of the commission, which will meet again tomorrow.

Democrats Urged To Shun Dry Issue

Law Enforcement Plank Is Favored for Richmond Convention.

Richmond, Va., May 30 (A.P.).—A solemn warning that the Democratic party in Virginia "will multiply trouble for itself, and nationally, if it makes either a wet or dry pronouncement at its convention in Richmond June 9" was issued tonight by Dr. Ed J. Richardson, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of Virginia.

"Since prohibition is the constitutional law of the Republic," Dr. Richardson said, "a plank declaring for the enforcement of all laws, including the prohibition law, would not only insure the loyalty of Democrats in a party assembly to the fundamental law of the land, but it would be good strategy.

"Unfortunately, the Democratic party has been regarded in many quarters, and so declared to be by some wet Democrats, as the 'whisky party.' This is not true as to the party in Virginia, nor in the South, but it is true that the party is wet in some sections of the North and East, especially in those great cities of 'foreign' population still controlled by the old political 'machines' largely created by the saloon element of other days."

Democratic Mass Meeting Is Slated

Session at Manassas Is Called to Pick State Parley Delegates.

Coles District, C. R. Earhart, T. M. Russell, Charles A. Barbee, J. E. Keys, and E. E. Cornwell; Brentsville District, J. A. Hooker, D. E. Earhart, Raymond L. Ellis, John P. Kerlin, and J. M. Keys; Gainesville District, W. L. Sanders, M. G. White, O. C. Hutchison, G. A. Gossom, and E. N. Pattie.

200 Baptist Ministers Expected at Conference

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., May 30.—The Ministers' Conference of Richmond will hold its meeting in the University Baptist Church next Monday, beginning at 10:30 a. m. All Baptist ministers of the State have been invited to attend. Present indications are that 200 ministers will accept the invitation.

Dinner will be served the visitors by the women of the church. A portion of the afternoon will be spent in visiting the University of Virginia, Monticello, Ash Lawn and other points of interest in this section.

Boy Trampled by Horse Believed Rabies Victim

Lexington, Va., May 30 (A.P.).—Clarence L. Tardy, 11-year-old son of Mrs. Carrie Tardy, was in a hospital here today with injuries received when attacked by a horse.

The child, while walking in a field on the farm of his grandfather, David Greever, near here, was knocked down and trampled on by the animal, which attacked some calves in the same field. The horse, believed to have been suffering from rabies, was killed and the head was sent to Richmond for examination.

Injuries in Motorcycle Crash Fatal to Farmer

Tappahannock, Va., May 29 (A.P.). Richard Dillard, farmer, who lives near here, died in Mary Washington Hospital, Fredericksburg, today, from injuries received Saturday when his motorcycle collided with an automobile driven by a Negro. The Negro had not been apprehended today. Dillard was riding the motorcycle on which Edwin Boughan was killed recently.

JUNE WEEK AT PEAK TODAY AT ANNAPOLIS

Annual Dress Parade One of Afternoon's Features; Big Social Events.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 30.—Festivities to graduation day at the Naval Academy will be at their peak tomorrow with a program of drills and practical exercises and social functions.

A regimental drill will be held during the forenoon and at 5:30 p. m. the annual presentation of "colors" will take place at dress parade of the regiment. The honor of carrying the national and regimental colors for the next academic term was won this year by the Eighth Company, of which Louis J. Kirn, football star, from Milwaukee, Wis., is captain, and the presentation will be made by Miss Mary K. Douglas, also of Wisconsin, who is a student at Holton Arms School. The color award is based upon general efficiency in all branches and extends throughout the academic term. Athletes also figure prominently. The winning company, aside from being commanded by an outstanding athlete, contains a number of other midshipmen who have rendered conspicuous service in athletics as a result of which the unit picked up more than 600 points in the competition.

Three big social events are on the program for the evening, principal of these being the garden party to be given by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, and Mrs. Hart in honor of the graduates. While this is in progress the second classmen will stage their annual ring dance, marking the formal baptism of class rings which juniors have not hitherto been privileged to wear. Members of the third class also will be hosts at a dance.

Today was given over almost exclusively to the observance of the holiday. There were no drills or other formal activities during the day, so that the entire student body was very much at liberty. There were dinner parties galore with relatives and in private homes in the city.

Tonight an innovation from a social standpoint was introduced when the members of the "N" Club were honor guests at a dance given in Hubbard Hall, the new boathouse building. The "N" Club is composed of midshipmen who have won their varsity letter in various sports, and dance invitations were limited to them and their guests.

The patron and patronnesses of the dance included the Superintendent and Mrs. Hart, Capt. Henry D. Cooke, commandant of midshipmen, and Mrs. Cooke; Capt. John W. Wilcox, director of athletics, and Mrs. Wilcox; Capt. and Mrs. Frank H. Sadler, Lieut. Comdr. John L. Hall, jr., director of athletics, and Mrs. Hall; and Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Harvey E Overesch. The guests were received by Mrs. Wilcox, assisted by the following committee of midshipmen: Lou A. Bryan, J. Burton Davis, Howard E. Shelton, H. E. Ward, C. J. Kirn, C. L. Frazer, H. L. Jukes and D. C. Goodman.

3 Abduct Former Maryland Mayor

Filling Station Is Robbed and Owner Bound for Forced Auto Ride.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., May 30.—Three unmasked men, apparently 19, 25 and 35, walked into the Potomac filling station, on the State highway near Petersville today, pointed pistols at C. Albert Orrison, former Mayor of Brunswick, operator of the station, bound him hand and foot and rifled his cash register of $15. The trio then took him for a 2-mile ride and tossed him into a clump of bushes.

About an hour later he freed himself, walked to the home of Mrs. William E. Wall, near Brunswick, and telephoned to friends, who notified the State police. Headed by Officer T. A. Moore, State police and deputy sheriffs scoured the surrounding country.

Orrison said the bandits helped themselves to cigarettes, filled the automobile tank with gasoline and lifted him in the car and drove toward Knoxville. Before reaching the latter place they turned into a side road, hurled Orrison into some bushes and turned around and disappeared. He said the men were strangers and that one of them constantly kept his pistol against his side and warned him to keep quiet.

Woman Killed, 3 Hurt As Auto Skids Into Rail

Clarksburg, W. Va., May 30.—Mrs. Herbert W. Flesher, 30, of Bridgeport, wife of an employe of a Clarksburg machine foundry, was instantly killed and three others were injured when an automobile skidded on a slippery road and crashed into a guard rail and a telephone pole yesterday on the Northwestern turnpike a mile west of Grafton.

The car was driven by Charles O. Costolow, 25, Clarksburg traveling salesman, who was arrested and held under $1,000 bond on a manslaughter charge for appearance tomorrow before a Grafton magistrate. Costolow suffered slight injuries, as did Flesher and Miss Mary Lancaster, 24, of Bridgeport.

REED DEFENDS WAR IN ARLINGTON TALK

3,000 Hear Former Senator Extol Soldiers in Rites at Amphitheater.

Pale and anemic pacifists denounce the soldier who stands guard upon our shores and gives protection to our homes, but it was men with iron in their souls who gave us all the liberty we have, former Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, said yesterday at the Amphitheater of the Arlington National Cemetery, where about 3,000 persons attended the Memorial Day service conducted by the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Day Corporation.

"So long as flames of human passion burn and barbarous races arm for slaughter and spoils, wise men will put no faith in paper barricades. On the stout hearts and the unyielding swords of our own gallant sons we must rely," Mr. Reed said to the throngs that attended the ceremony after decorating the tombs of veterans in the national cemetery.

The most solemn ceremony of the three-day memorial program activities, a silence, broken only by the singing of "America," prevailed among the members of the pilgrimage who came to offer tribute at the amphitheater. The "Presentation of Colors," when flags were carried into the white marble arena by the representatives of the various veterans' organizations, typified the patriotic tenor of the gathering.

Freedom's Origin Explained.

In his address, Mr. Reed, explaining the origin of the spirit of valor and freedom in this country, said "It was gained in the solitude of the New World by men who came to know that all men stand on equal ground. Amidst the vastness they caught the spirit of independence, and came to hate a master and despise a slave. Their minds penetrated the false philosophy of the past and exposed the shame of tradition. They lighted the torches of liberty to be borne around the world."

"The Spirit of '76 still lives," he said, "and so long as it shall be the guide and inspiration of our land, our liberties will be secure. Let us keep to the old faith. Let us walk the straight road which has led from infancy to proud and glorious manhood."

Representative Sol Bloom, associate director of the George Washington Bicentennial celebration, told the assembly that the way to honor the fallen veterans was to preserve the freedom for which they fought. He said, "We came not to pay a debt, for the dept we owe and acknowledge here is beyond any human ability to pay. Nor are we here to eulogize the heroes who have gone before. They are beyond eulogy."

Achievements Still Live.

"We came here to reconsecrate ourselves to the preservation of what they achieved. Those heroes who have gone before are neither high, nor low, rich nor poor. In the democracy of death they are made one, and the love we bear them ennobles us and raises before us the radiant symbols of their loyalty and their patriotism."

The ceremony was opened by William F. Dorsey, department commander of the Grand Army of the Republic, who said that because of advanced age and rapidly diminishing numbers the veterans of the Grand Army had turned over the ceremonies to the younger men. He introduced James G. Yaden, president of the Memorial Day Corporation, to announce the program.

Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, daughter of Gen. Logan, read the order issued by her father establishing a Memorial Day. The order is read at the ceremony every year. Harlan Wood recited Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address." Percy Parker headed the presentation of colors.

The Marine Band, led by Capt. Taylor Branson, presented musical selections and accompanied Jeannette Elizabeth McCaffrey, who sang the national anthem; Dorothy Sherman Pierson, who sang "Just Before the Battle, Mother;" Gertrude Lyons, who sang "Out of Night the Bugle Blows;" Elsie Jorse Reilley, who sang "There Is No Death," and Ruby Smith Stahl, who sang "The Recessional."

The invocation was delivered by the Rev. V. O. Anderson, and the Rev. Howard E. Smith presented the benediction.

The Grand Army of the Republic Memorial y Corporation is composed of the Grand Army of the Republic, United Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Legion and the Disabled American Veterans of the World War.

Ceremony Is Held On "Old Ironsides"

Sailors of All Conflicts Are Paid Tribute; Many Visit Vessel.

The historic decks of the frigate Constitution, which once shook to the crash and thunder of heavy broadsides and ran red with the life blood of many valiant seamen, were the scene of Memorial Day exercises conducted yesterday by the Robert E. Peary Ship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

In a short ceremony, tribute was paid to sailors of all conflicts who went down to the sea in ships in defense of their country.

Following the ceremony the historic "Old Ironsides" was thrown open to visitors who arrived in long streams. A detail of sailors and Marines was present to assist the visitors in their tour of the ship.

French Aid Americans In Memorial Exercises

Paris, May 30 (A.P.).—Frenchmen joined Americans today in observance of American Memorial Day centering at the Arc de Triomphe, the Lafayette Escadrille Memorial and at American national cemeteries and battle areas.

A wreath was laid at the tomb of Lafayette, and United States Ambassador Walter E. Edge deposited a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, after which he went to the American cemetery in Suresnes to give a Memorial Day address, whose keynote was understanding between nations.

Tribute Paid Lindbergh Baby.

Jacksonville Beach, Fla., May 30 (A.P.).—School children of this resort center gathered today and dedicated a simple mound built of sea shells to the memory of the kidnaped and murdered son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

HURLEY SAYS PERILS NOW UNLIKE OTHERS

Declares Some Attempts at Solving Depression Are "Raids on Treasury."

Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, who spoke at a Memorial Day exercise at the Georgetown University School of Law yesterday, declared the political and economic situation today confronts the country with a new challenge "differing from the perils of the past."

"This is not a challenge to war, but a challenge to the Government and the system of economics that has built on this continent the freest Nation and the greatest economic force in the world," declared Mr. Hurley.

Referring to the existing depression and some of the attempts to solve it as "raids on the Treasury," Mr. Hurley said: "Almost any one can plan to take money out of the Treasury, but no one yet has devised a plan to put money into the Treasury that does not call for individual support through increased taxation."

The exercises at the law school were in memory of the 29 students who gave their lives to the country during the World War. In calling upon the student body to hold true to the ideals these men had, Secretary Hurley declared it was those ideals of Government and patriotism which have "contributed to the endurance of justice, freedom and democracy."

William Michael Funck, president of the senior morning class at the law school presided at the exercises, held in the library before a memorial tablet on which are inscribed the names of Georgetown's roll of honor. A committee of the class placed a wreath on the tablet and two of its representatives, Ward E. Lattin and Martin V. Callagy, made addresses.

There were also addresses on behalf of the faculty by Dean George E. Hamilton and the Rev. Francis E. Lucey, S. J., regent of the school, and Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, past department commander of the American Legion.

Legion Head Hits Unpreparedness

H. L. Stevens, Jr., Recounts Also Lessons of War in Radio Address.

The high cost of unpreparedness in war was the theme of an address by Henry L. Stevens, jr., national commander of the American Legion, over a country-wide radio broadcast yesterday.

The world conflict, Mr. Stevens said, gave the men who participated in the struggle "a new and finer appreciation of life, of unselfish service, of our citizenship and of our responsibilities as American men." He made a plea that the sacrifice of the war dead should not be in vain.

"Today," he added, "the spirit and idealism of that cause live on. Call it Americanism, patriotism or what you will. It is a deathless thing because, when we have joined those who have gone before us, the ideals and principles which we, as American Legionnaires, promote and transmit to our children will continue doing good forever."

Legionnaires Honor War Dead of Britain

London, May 30 (A.P.).—Londoners passing through Whitehall today paused and momentarily bared their heads as representatives of the American Legion laid a wreath at the foot of the cenotaph reared to Britain's World War dead.

The legionnaires were observing their own Memorial Day, and their wreath bore the simple inscription, "From the American People," as did similar wreaths laid on the grave of the Unknown Soldier in Westminster Abbey and at the base of the Lincoln statue in Parliament Square.

Marines in Nicaragua Visit American Graves

Managua, Nicaragua, May 30 (A.P.). United States Marines paraded to Managua Cemetery today and passed in review before the American colony and President Moncada and his cabinet in honor of America's war dead.

After Gen. Berkeley of the Marines had read Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, the graves of Marines who had fallen in Nicaragua were decorated. A prayer was said by the American chaplain. The ceremony ended with a salute of three guns and a bugler's taps.

Americans in Mexico Hold Memorial Service

Mexico City, May 30 (A.P.).—Three hundred American residents of Mexico City, headed by Ambassador J. Reuben Clark, gathered at the American National Cemetery here today for a memorial service in front of a huge grave in which are buried the bodies of 750 American soldiers killed in the Mexican War, in 1347.

A Field Mass For George Washington

(Catholic University, May 30, 1932.)

The day had a tear in its eye,
The blue had left the sky,
The birds their song had hushed,
The clouds were leaden-flushed.

Sudden the trumpet's blast
Rang out. And angels passed
The Great White Throne whereon
There sat the Holy One,
And down to realms below
They flew. Earth soon must show
Its grandeur, deck its brow—
For great things were to happen now.

The day's face changed to a smile.
The sky grew bright, and while
The feathered-folk sang loud
The angels turned the cloud
About and showed its silver lining.
No element repining,
But all to earth reclining
As Christ is raised aloft!

Thus in thy honor, thou this country's boast,
Is raised aloft today this orbed Host—
Host not of war but Host of ringing Peace,
Host that o'ercloaked thee with protection's fleece.
Recallst thou not how in thy darkest hours
When after Bunker Hill's death-laden showers
Thou tookest up thy charge?
And how—why be ashamed?—Long Island saw
Thee providentially snatched from out the maw
Of dire disaster's fate?
What of White Plains and Brandywine,
And Princeton?—Thou, our leader, would be first
To render thanks to thine!
And through the soul-tried nights and days
Of Valley Forge?—Of fights, delays
With congresses for men and gold?
(Twice colder than the winter cold)—
Yet thou, thou fought, hoped, prayed and won—
And there—thy Yorktown in the smiling sun!
Ever the calm, the wise, the settled mind,
Amid thy multifarious works,
Ever the just and fairest judge of worth
And man's abilities—no quirks
In thy true-writing pen.
No tangling claims in foreign lands,
No niggardliness to outstretched hands,
Begging for work—not bread—in homeless bands
In cities in thy days!

Amid our modern moil
Of clashing creeds,
And fell invectives
Whispered in a campaign ear,
But late.
And fulsome caricatures
Of spleen too foul to show—
The toys of mawkish minds—
How sweet and fresh and clean the winds
That play about us as we kneel
'Mid May's last blooms! How free we feel
Of guile,
The while
Our sixty thousand hearts are lost
In loving admiration
And heavenly contemplation
And earthly adoration
Of our Host!

flower-strewn Arlington, many services were held. Thousands paraded by the Unknown Soldier's Tomb. At the Tomb of the Unknown Soldiers of the Civil War, Grand Army of the Republic veterans and affiliated auxiliaries gathered.

eVteran groups of the World War paid tribute at the graves of their comrades and Spanish War survivors clustered around the Maine mast. Colored veterans honored two of their number, James Reese Europe and James E. Walker.

Wreaths were placed on the graves of President Wilson and Admiral Dewey at Washington Cathedral.

Wreaths at Wilson Tomb.

In addition to President Hoover's offering, a wreath of red and white carnations in the name of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation of the District was placed on the war President's tomb by Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Hamlin.

Two wreaths were laid on Dewey's grave. One was left by the Admiral Dewey Camp, Spanish War Veterans, and the other by the Dewey Congressional Medal Men's Association of Philadelphia.

Charles Moore, secretary of the Fine Arts Commission, lauded L'Enfant, while the Washington Chapter of the American Institute placed a wreath upon his grave.

Late in the afternoon at Lincoln Memorial Cemetery, the Charles Young Chapter, Disabled American Veterans, conducted exercises.

Bugle notes, which brought memories of an almost forgotten battle, opened the service at Fort Stevens in Brightwood, where President Lincoln stood while soldiers of the Union repulsed an attack by Gen. Early.

Battle Ground Services.

At Battle Ground Cemetery, six veterans of the clash at Fort Stevens, members of the Sixth Army Corps, Dr. C. V. Petteys, Alfred Hulbert, John M. Kline, sr., Maj. E. R. Campbell, William H. Proctor and John H. Wolff, stood where their comrades died.

Gen. Amos A. Fries was the orator of the occasion. After the raising and the saluting of the colors under direction of Maj. John Deavy, the assemblage sang the "Star-Spangled Banner."

The G. A. R. veterans took part in the program. Dr. Petteys read the order of the G. A. R., Mr. Kline was chairman of the exercises and Mr. Proctor recited an original poem.

School children, under direction of Mrs. Angus Lamond, jr., decorated the graves. The Battle Ground Quartet, composed of Mrs. Thomas H. Mullenberg, Miss Catherine Mullenberg, L. F. Randolph and Dr. A. Owen Penney, sang several selections.

The exercises were held under the auspices of the G. A. R. and the Brightwood Citizens Association. The Third U. S. Cavalry Band played.

vacation at Neudeck, East Prussia, where the junkers (aristocracy), were reported to have objected to the chancellor's dissolution of Hitler's storm troops, and opposed his drastic decrees.

Constitutional Course.

When the president dispensed with his pilot, the gesture indicated that he also ruled out the one pivotal party which had hitherto supported Dr. Bruening, that is, the Socialists.

The president, therefore, must now figure out a combination supported or at least tolerated by a majority in the Reichstag, unless he is willing to order immediate elections, or execute a coup d'etate establishing an extraconstitutional dictatorship.

As the president's course throughout has been one of meticulous constitutionality, the latter course seemed unlikely.

The novelty of the present situation lies in the fact the cabinet was overthrown by the president, while in the past the Reichstag usually has exercised that prerogative. Dr. Bruening emerged earlier in the month from a severe Reichstag test with 30 votes to spare.

Paper Claims Triumph.

The Berlin organ of the Hitlerites, Angriff, immediately claimed a triumph for Hitler when the resignation was announced, and Nazi headquarters pointed out that the resignation came shortly after a "legal reversal."

The supreme court at Leipzig recently held that the material seized in raids on Nazi headquarters March 17 was not incriminating, after Prussian officials who made the raid declared they found evidence of treason.

The Nazis said the decision spoke for the storm troops and against Wilhelm Groener, Dr. Bruening's then minister of defense.

Despite the sweeping victory of the president today, it was semiofficially announced that no personal differences existed and that the old field marshal would write a letter of appreciation and affection to Germany's leader since March 30, 1930.

Potential Chancellors.

Those most prominently mentioned for the chancellorship are Baron Wilhelm von Gayl, Count Kuno von Westarp and Oscar von der Osten.

Baron von Gayl organized the antibolshevik forces of East Prussia in 1919. Count von Westarp is leader of the People's Conservative party. Von der Osten formerly was East Prussia's representative on the federal economic advisory council.

Dr. Bruening, who apparently had refused to shake up his cabinet despite melting strength in the Reichstag, and chose to resign instead, will take a long rest. His friends said he was unwilling to accept the post of foreign minister.

ARCHITECTS RENDER PRAISE TO PIONEERS

L'Enfant, Thornton, Hoban and Mills Are Paid Memorial Tribute.

The Washington Chapter of the American Institute of Architects, yesterday held brief ceremonies at the graves of five prominent architects in a Memorial Day service paying tribute to the early designers of the National Capital. Dr. Charles Moore, chairman of the Fine Arts Commission, said at a ceremony before the L'Enfant tomb in the Arlington National Cemetery that the city's present beauty was the result of the careful planning of the French architect.

At the Congressional Cemetery the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Ferry K. Heath led the services at the grave of Robert Mills, designer of the Treasury Building and other public structures, and Justice Joseph W. Cox, of the Supreme Court of the District, addressed the group at the grave of George Hadfield, designer of the local courthouse. Maj. George Oakley Totten, president of the Washington Chapter, officiated at the tomb of Dr. William Thornton, architect of the United States Capitol.

Lieut. F. B. Butler, of the Office of Public Buildings and Public Parks, made an address at the grave of James Hoban, designer of the White House. The grave at Mount Olivet Cemetery was decorated with wreaths, as were the graves of the other architects.

Dr. Moore, in his address at Arlington, said: "No one can study the L'Enfant plan without being impressed with the orderliness with which he made provisions for each separate function of the Capital of a potentially great Nation." The speaker paid a tribute to William Thornton, one of the early Commissioners of the District, for his work in carrying out the ideas of the original designer of the city.

The committee arranging the ceremonies was as follows: Louis A. Simon, R. F. Beresford, W. H. I. Fleming, Donald Johnson, Albert L. Harris, P. C. Danis, B. C. Flournoy, Thomas R. Edwards, J. H. Lapish, P. C. Adams, William Douden, Howard Cutler, and Julius Wenig.

Veteran's Legs Broken; Driver Is Under Arrest

While the Capital was paying honor to his comrades of the Civil War, David Frazier, 84 years old, of 434 H street northwest, was occupying a bed in Emergency Hospital. He was taken there with both legs fractured after being knocked down yesterday by an allegedly drunken driver.

The aged veteran was walking across Fifth street, at Washington street northwest, when he was struck by a machine operated by Robert Blake, 30 years old, of 5302 Forty-first street northwest, who was driving south on Fifth street. Blake was accused of driving while drunk when he was taken to the First Precinct Station.

High Bidder to Get Hoover Autograph

Baseball to Go at Auction at Political Game Here Saturday.

A baseball, autographed by President Hoover, to be auctioned off preceding the game, will be a feature of the entertainment program planned for the biennial baseball clash between the House Democrats and Republicans next Saturday afternoon in Griffith Stadium, it has been announced. The President will toss the ball opening the game. Money received for the autographed ball will be turned over with the proceeds of the game to District unemployed.

Special arrangements have been made for the young people of Washington to see the world's wrestling champion, Jim Londos, in an exhibition bout, and watch Gene Tunney, retired world's heavyweight boxing champion, umpire the 1932 political world series' game, according to Edward F. Colladay, chairman of the committee on arrangements for the game. Mr. Colladay, who is cochairman with Joseph P. Tumulty of the committee, announced that all school children would be allowed to enter the bleachers for 25 cents.

HOLDUP GETS $200 IN RAILWAY THEFT

The man hesitated, cast a quick glance at the crowded waiting platform, thrust his hand in a pocket and produced a gun.

"That's all right," he said, "Get back in the ticket office—quick!"

On threat of harm, Chaney was forced to obey. Once in the office, the robber worked fast. He jammed a piece of cloth in Chaney's mouth, quickly bound him hand and foot and threw him to the floor in one corner.

Apparently familiar with the inside of the office, the holdup went immediately to the safe, opened it and scooped out its entire contents—about $200.

After ransacking several desk drawers, the robber calmly walked across the room and out the door, securely locking it from the outside. He disappeared in the crowd.

For nearly half an hour the ticket agent lay helpless on the floor. He finally succeeded in removing the gag with his tongue and shouted for help.

His cries brought K. L. Prince, trainmaster. Prince was helped through a small window in the ticket cage and freed Chaney.

Investigation revealed the robber overlooked more than $100 in one of the desk drawers he rifled.

Both District and Arlington County police responded to Chaney's report of the holdup. A dispute as to whose jurisdiction the station was in, finally ended with both forces agreeing to cooperate. It was discovered the package left by the thief contained a brick wrapped in paper—a final touch to his carefully worked-out plot.

The question of police jurisdiction in that vicinity has long been a topic of discussion. It is termed a "no man's land," with Washington and Arlington County authorities unable to decide who has the right to patrol it. It was pointed out, however, that the Federal authorities of the eastern division of Virginia are the ones to supply police aid.

Chaney told police the gunman was a foreign appearing man and spoke in a smooth, low tone. He said he had never seen him before.

NEW YORK CHEERS VETERANS IN GRAY

Confederates March With Union Soldiers as Feature of Memorial Day.

New York, May 30 (A.P.).—A dazzling sun brightened the flowers throngs carried to cemeteries today, made the waters of the Hudson sparkle for 30,000 New Yorkers watching the Memorial Day parade on Riverside Drive, and gave holiday crowds at the beaches a belated taste of weather they had hoped for.

Though special trains carried vacation carloads to the suburbs and resorts, many thousands remained at home, and Manhattan's crowded parks were filled with strolling families.

Heroes of the formal observances were the Civil War veterans. In the memorial parade of 15,000 marchers, loudest cheers of all greeted the 32 hardy old soldiers in blue and gray threadbare uniforms, who passed the reviewing stand on foot.

Six empty cars moved slowly behind them, but they disdained the comfortable cushions and pushed onward up the drive, cheered in every block.

Spanish-American veterans were numerous, and the khaki-clad men of the World War battlefields strung out in a seemingly endless stream. Airplanes droned overhead. A group of Germans carrying an American flag and one of the German Republic was cheered.

In the Bronx, a community parade of 14,000 resembled the one on Manhattan.

The caskets of Gen. Grant and his wife were showered with roses and carnations at Grant's tomb by a namesake American Legion post and Sons of Union Civil War veterans. A thousand spectators listened to the Gloria Trumpeters play Chopin's "Funeral March."

Blue and Gray Unite In Rites at Marietta

Marietta, Ga., May 30 (A.P.).—Bitterness of the war between the States seemed far away today as old men who fought in the gray of the Confederacy and those who followed Grant in the Union's blue marched together to the national cemetery and held memorial services for Federal soldiers.

A band from the Twenty-second Infantry of the regular Army led the procession through the streets. Hundreds of Union soldiers killed in battles around Atlanta on Sherman's march to the sea are buried here.

Foes of 1898 Honored By Madrid Americans

Madrid, Spain, May 30 (A.P.).—Impressive Decoration Day services were held at West Park today, with most of the American colony and many diplomats attending the placing of a wreath on the monument of the Unknown Soldier in the Cuban and Philippine campaigns.

Walter G. Ross, president of the American Luncheon Club, explained that since no American war dead were buried in Spain the American citizens here wished to show that the differences of 1898 were forgotten.

The "Lone Star" carried 650 gallons of gasoline when it roared down the elevated ramp at Boeing Field and climbed into the air. The heavy load, to which Browne planned to add 300 gallons for the 5,000-mile flight to Tokyo, aided in causing the craft to collapse.

It was Browne's second narrow escape in his attempt to win a prize before it is withdrawn at midnight, June 1.

He took off yesterday with 850 gallons of gasoline, broke a strut near the tail skids as his ship almost crashed in a tree at the end of the field, then flew erratically into the north. Over Vancouver Island, 500 miles from Seattle, a cylinder in the Wright J-6 motor loosened and sprayed hot oil over his face and neck. He had to turn back.

At 11 a. m. today he again attempted to start on the perilous trip over the North Pacific. But the motor of his plane stalled on the runway.

Detroit, May 30 (A.P.)—Mrs. Dolly Browne, wife of Nat C. Browne, was overcome with nervous shock at her home here when informed of her husband's accident.

Her first query was of her husband's safety. When told an examination disclosed that he was suffering from only a dislocated shoulder and exposure, she expressed relief.

TOKYO PLANES LEAD MANCHURIAN ATTACK

City Near Harbin Is Reported Burning as Rebel Advance Is Brought to Halt.

Harbin, Manchuria, May 30 (A.P.).—Japanese forces struck out north and south of Harbin today to break the encircling movement of insurgents, and were reported to have set fire to Hailun, 150 miles north of here.

To the southwest, Maj. Gen. Hideo Hiramatsu's Twenty-seventh River Brigade had occupied Chaochow, 80 miles from Harbin on the Sungari.

Although Japanese airplane bombing raiders appeared to be meeting with success in their efforts to dislodge a concentration of Chinese insurgents at Hailun, their activity was only part of the story.

A Japanese column proceeding north of Suihua, midway between Harbin and Hailun, encountered a strong counter-attacking force of Chinese cavalry. At last reports a fierce battle was underway.

Gen. Li Hai-Tsing, the Chinese insurgent, and alleged successor to Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, apparently working in concert with other Chinese irregulars, has been putting an encircling line of soldiers around Harbin for several weeks, and the Japanese have been hard put to get their war machinery in place to meet the various thrusts of the lightly armed Chinese.

Gen. Naosuke Matsuki, commander of the Fourteenth Japanese Division, however, has succeeded in establishing divisional headquarters at Suihua, with the intention of directing a determined offensive at Hailun, a stronghold of the irregulars.

Seabury Resumes Walker Quiz Today

50,000 Cheer Mayor, Unveiling Tablet to Huggins; J. A. Smith Called.

New York, May 30 (A.P.).—The Hofstadter legislative committee's spotlight will be trained on the personal financial affairs of Mayor James J. Walker again tomorrow.

The mayor, who remained in seclusion on Long Island over the week-end, was cheered lustily by the 50,000 spectators who saw him unveil a tablet to Miller Huggins, late manager of the New York Yankees, during the Yankee-Boston game this afternoon. A few boos were heard, but the mayor seemingly ignored them as he smiled and doffed his hat to a shouted "Don't let Seabury worry you, Jimmy."

From associates of Samuel Seabury, counsel for the inquiry board, it was learned that when public hearings are resumed tomorrow morning four or five witnesses will be called in an attempt to complete the record as it affects the mayor. Among them will be J. Allan Smith, agent for the Equitable Coach Co., who obtained the $10,000 letter of credit in 1927 for the mayor's European trip.

Sing Sing Keeper Shoots Prisoner Making Escape

Ossining, N. Y., May 30 (A.P.).—John Finnegan, 28, serving a 5-year term for an assault conviction in Manhattan, was shot by Keeper Herbert Mattison, when he attempted to escape today from Sing Sing Prison, while a Memorial Day baseball game was in progress.

Finnegan forged the name of John Sheehy, principal keeper, to a pass which allowed him to enter the passageway between the old and new prisons. He had climbed to the top of a wall and Mattison fired several times with a machine gun after the prisoner ignored his shouted commands to halt. Finnegan received a bullet in the left arm, and dropped the 20 feet to the New York Central Railroad tracks. He was recaptured by keepers.

Farmers and Indians Battle Grasshoppers

Pocatello, Idaho, May 30 (A.P.).—Farmers of two counties and the Fort Hall Indian Reservation between Pocatello and Blackfoot battled a threatened invasion of grasshoppers today, gathering millions of the pests from an irrigation canal before they were able to invade fields.

The grasshoppers are immature and without fully developed wings. They originated in Sand Hills nearby and were floating inches deep down the canal. Oil was spread along the canal banks to prevent them crawling from the water and gasoline is being used to ignite great piles of the insects, removed from the canal on an average of a truck load every ten minutes.

Brandeis Urged in 1932 To Rehabilitate Finance

Boston, May 30 (A.P.).—Hugh A. Carney, corporation attorney and author of several books on finance, today suggested that Supreme Court Justice Louis D. Brandeis be drafted for the Presidency to lead the country to financial rehabilitation.

"What the world panic needs is a panic doctor, and I believe the man best fitted by training and experience is Justice Brandeis," said Carney, who spoke at the Memorial Day exercises of the charitable Irish Society in the Granary Burying Grounds.

Divorces in District Jump 131.2 Per Cent Over 1930

With 215 divorces granted in Washington in 1931, an increase of 131.2 per cent was noted over 1930, the Census Bureau announced yesterday.

In 1930 only 93 decrees were granted in the District Supreme Court. The bureau said that it had been informed by court officials that the increase was due to better court facilities rather than to an increasing number of suits.

There were 4 marriages annuled in 1931 as compared with 21 in 1930.

The figures indicated that marriages are on the decline in the city. There were 5,316 marriages performed here in 1931. There were 5,346 in 1930, and 5,760 in 1922.

The estimated population of the District on July 1, 1931, was 491,000 and on July 1, 1930, 488,000. On the basis of these estimates, the bureau stated, the number of marriages per 1,000 of population was 10.8 in 1931, as against 11.0 in 1930; and the number of divorces per 100 was 0.44 in 1931 and 0.19 in 1930.

Three Hurt as Bomb Explodes in Theater

Atlanta, Ga., May 30 (A.P.).—Patrons expecting the explosion of a case of dynamite in a moving picture comedy at an Atlanta theater today were thrown into panic by the explosion of a real bomb that injured three people. Several women fainted and a riot was threatened as the crowd fought its way toward the exits. Those injured were struck on the legs by bits of glass from a container that apparently held the explosives.

Theater executives advanced a theory that the bomb was placed by disgruntled employes.

Eight Die from Typhoid Fever.

Columbia, S. C., May 30 (A.P.).—Experts from the State department of health were rushed today to McCormick and Abbeville Counties, where eight deaths from typhoid fever have been reported. Dr. James A. Haynes, State health officer, said all persons who have had contact with the cases which resulted fatally would be inoculated.

Textile Workers Back After 2 Months' Strike

Columbia, S. C., May 30 (A.P.).—Ending a two-months' strike, textile workers went back to their jobs today at the bath plant of the Loring Mills. There was no disorder.

Factories at Langley and Clearwater are to resume operations also, officials said. The mills are operated by the Merchants & Manufacturers Management Corporation of New York. Between 1,500 and 2,000 workers were affected by the strike, called when company officials refused to recognize a union formed by the workers.

Falling Wing Caused Air Crash.

Veroli, Italy, May 30 (A.P.).—Experts of the Italian air ministry decided today that the airplane crash in which M. and Mme. Lang Willar, French survivors of the recent fire on the motorship Georges Philippar, and two others were killed near here Wednesday was caused by a wing falling off in flight. The wing was found at the base of the mountain, on top of which the plane fell.

J. F. KELLY INJURED ON BOOSTER CRUISE

Fall at Cavalier Hotel Is Believed Not Serious; Party Back Today.

(By Staff Correspondent.)

Norfolk, Va., May 30.—J. Frank Kelly, of the Kelly Lumber Co., was knocked unconscious and suffered lacerations of the head this afternoon when he fell down a flight of steps in the locker room of the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach. He was treated by Dr. William Orr.

Mr. Kelly, a member of the Washington Board of Trade cruising party, was preparing to go swimming when the accident occurred. He was recovering and in bright sprits tonight.

Justice Harlan F. Stone, of the United States Supreme Court; Judge D. Lawrence Groner and Assistant United States Attorney General Roberts boared the S. S. District of Columbia at Norfolk tonight to join the party.

With a day at Ocean View and Virginia Beach behind them, the cruising party was on its way home tonight. The last night on board was made a gala one. Handsome silver vases were presented to all ladies in the party. The ship sailed into Norfolk Harbor shortly after 8 o'clock this morning. The holiday makers were taken in buses to Ocean View, where the morning was spent bathing. This was followed by luncheon at the Nansemond Hotel. The afternoon was spent at Virginia Beach, where the party attended the opening of the Cavalier Beach Club.

The celebrants returned to Norfolk at 6 o'clock and boarded the ship for the return voyage to Washington. The cruise has been voted even more successful than the one held last year.

A smooth running of the schedule and the many entertainment features were due to the indefatigable industry of John T. Bardroff, who has spent all his spare time during the past year planning the trip. The party is due back in Washington early tomorrow morning.

Ocean Conquerers Visit in Florence

Leonardo da Vinci's Contributions to Flying Told Aviation Group.

Florence, Italy, May 30 (A.P.).—A half hundred fliers who conquered the Atlantic or Pacific arrived today in the city of "the forefather of modern aviation"—Leonardo da Vinci. The fliers came from Naples after attending the first annual congress of trans-oceanic aviators at Rome.

Some of them, who knew only that the name Da Vinci meant a great sculptor and painter, were informed by city officials it was in this city that Leonardo made those studies by which he laid down the very principles of aviation that enable today's visitors to fly the Atlantic or the Pacific. It was here that the sixteenth century genius sketched and planned the balloon, the parachute and the modern heavier-than-air machine.

This was more than four centuries ago, or about the year Columbus plowed the path across the Atlantic that many of today's aviators followed on the wing.

DO YOU INHALE?

LUCKY STRIKE
"IT'S TOASTED"
CIGARETTES
JOHN LAGATTA

Copr., 1932, The American Tobacco Co.

Is this question too revealing for other cigarettes?

We do not criticize others. We merely call your attention to the fact that the vital subject of inhaling has been generally avoided in cigarette advertising.

Why? What's there to be afraid of? Everybody inhales! Seven out of ten smokers inhale knowingly—the other three do so without realizing it. From your side—you want to be sure that the smoke you breathe in is pure and clean—free from certain impurities.

But from the manufacturer's side—he should be sure of giving you this protection. And if he is sure—he need not worry about the question: "Do you inhale?"

Lucky Strike has dared to raise this vital question . . . because certain impurities concealed in even the finest, mildest tobacco leaves are removed by Luckies' famous purifying process. Luckies created that process. Only Luckies have it!

WHAT SUBSTITUTE?

Tens of thousands of patriotic citizens belonging to various parties are hard at work on the liquor problem. The fact that criminals have managed to set up an immensely profitable liquor system in spite of prohibition and the Government's efforts to enforce it has convinced many believers in prohibition that there must be a change, both in the fundamental law and the method of enforcement. These supporters of prohibition are seeking a plan that will prevent the legalization of the liquor traffic and at the same time deprive the crime system of the profits from outlawed liquor.

Other believers in prohibition are now convinced that the crime system which finances itself through outlawed liquor can not be smashed unless the outlawed liquor traffic is suppressed, and that the only practicable method in sight is to legalize, license, and rigidly control the liquor traffic. How to do this without setting up the saloon system is their problem.

An increasing number of citizens demand the outright repeal of the eighteenth amendment, without offering any definite system as a substitute. Most of them are content to "leave the question to the States."

An astonishing growth of sentiment in favor of a national referendum is noted. It is assumed, apparently, that if the question of repeal of the eighteenth amendment were submitted to a national popular vote the verdict would be in favor of repeal, and that this would settle the whole question.

Unfortunately, the problem can not be solved so easily. A popular referendum on prohibition would not change the situation, whether the majority were dry or wet. The eighteenth amendment would remain in the Constitution, and every officer of the Government would be bound by oath to enforce it.

Both great parties are wrestling with the liquor question. Drafts of platform planks on the subject are innumerable. Drys and wets are striving to commit Presidential candidates to one side or the other, apparently believing that this question can be settled in November.

Since both parties include strong wet and dry elements, it is not to be expected that either party will alienate part of its membership by becoming completely dry or completely wet. Each party represents something more than an organization devoted to solution of the liquor problem.

If a substitute for the eighteenth amendment were now before the people, providing effectual means of depriving crime of the profits of outlawed liquor while preventing the restoration of the old saloon system, it seems probable that representatives in Congress would be chosen for the purpose of paving the way for submission of a constitutional amendment to bring the new system into effect. Many drys who would like to see prohibition made effective would support a new system if they could be sure that the proceeds of the liquor traffic could be kept out of the hands of organized crime. As between a legalized liquor traffic free from the old abuses and an outlawed traffic which can not be prevented from financing crime they would choose the legalized traffic. But these drys wish to see a definite and effectual system evolved before voting for modification of the eighteenth amendment.

Since only thirteen States may block repeal of the eighteenth amendment it ought to be evident that a more thorough study of the problem should be made, in order that public sentiment may be solidified, one way or the other. Before rushing headlong to repeal, a substitute should be ready for adoption. Nothing would be gained for the cause of law and order by substituting chaos for the eighteenth amendment. The crime system would still draw profits from liquor, with which to attack society.

BRUENING RESIGNS.

Chancellor Bruening's resignation in Germany carries repercussions throughout the world. It raises once more a formidable barrier between France and Germany at the very moment when cooperative efforts were in prospect. The spirit of extreme nationalism in Germany has triumphed, and it is now questionable whether any government can reach a compromise at the Lausanne reparations conference and retain the confidence of the Reichstag.

It seems improbable that the Hitlerites will come into power immediately, but it can not be denied that they are steadily gaining strength. Their influence will be more keenly felt in the new cabinet, and if an election is precipitated by Chancellor Bruening's resignation, they may win enough seats to dominate the Reichstag. Germany is tired of government by decree. Now that the moderate Bruening cabinet is out, and the supreme court has decided that there is no evidence of treason in the documents seized in the raids on the Hitlerites' headquarters, a more determined swing toward the National Socialists may be expected.

Chancellor Bruening had announced that Germany could not pay any more reparations. But the hope of a compromise between his administration and the more liberal French regime, under Premier Herriot, was still strong. This change in the German situation is certain to make the French more cautious. All indications point to an open clash of French and German nationalistic interests. In this respect the resignation of Chancellor Bruening is a shock to all Europe. It casts a dark cloud over the Lausanne conference upon which hinges all hope of cooperative effort against the depression in Europe.

CENTENARY OF ST. PATRICK.

The dispute over the oath of allegiance has so overshadowed other events during recent months that Ireland's preparations to make 1932 memorable in her history, has been somewhat overlooked. This year marks the fifteenth centenary of the coming of St. Patrick to the Island. Thousands, perhaps hundreds of thousands, of visitors are expected to attend the celebrations this summer, of which the most important feature will be the thirty-first Eucharist Congress to be held in Dublin June 22 to 26.

The Episcopal Protestant Church in Ireland is also holding a series of celebrations in honor of the anniversary in each of the Protestant cathedrals, concluding with the national service in Armagh Cathedral, June 9, at which the Archbishop of Canterbury will officiate. The Eucharist Congress will hold as its final event a pontifical mass in Phoenix Park at which a congregation of 500,000 is expected.

Representatives to the congress will attend from every nation, including Russia, and high church dignitaries are expected from every corner of the globe. The four American cardinals have all signified their intention of attending. Cardinal Hayes, of New York, will be a guest at the American Legation in Phoenix Park. Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, and Archbishop Hanna, of San Francisco, will be guests at Grattan House and Cardinal Dougherty will make his headquarters on one of the liners in the bay. More than forty separate parties have been organized to go from the United States and a number of special cruises to Ireland have been arranged.

Besides the religious celebrations many other events are scheduled to attract tourists. Hotel proprietors have been pledged to maintain normal rates as an added inducement. The Tailteann games in July, the motor races at Belfast in August, an agricultural and industrial fair at Cork that lasts all summer, are scheduled in addition to numerous sporting, musical and literary entertainments designed to suit all tastes.

MacDONALD'S PANACEA.

As if settlement of the reparations dilemma were not a sufficient problem for one conference, Premier MacDonald comes forth with a scheme to inject the question of world trade into the gathering of European statesmen at Lausanne. The British delegation will insist that the conference do something to "restart world commerce." Thus Mr. MacDonald returns to his favorite thesis—that the world must come to the aid of British commerce to cure the depression. Apparently he is willing to upset the apple cart at Lausanne with this extraneous issue.

The MacDonald formula for setting the world right again is based on the strange assumption that international commerce has some magic restorative power. Instead of trying to correct the basic maladjustments that caused this economic upheaval, he would start at the top and try to smooth over all mistakes of the past by stimulating the flow of goods between nations. Ever since Great Britain began to feel the effects of the depression Premier MacDonald has sponsored this superficial panacea. But the world will pay no attention to him.

So far as the United States is concerned, the premise on which the MacDonald theory is based is not true. American commerce overseas has been maintained to a considerably greater extent than has domestic commerce. Every reliable chart comparing the volume of exports with domestic industrial output will show that their rates of decline during the last three years have remained virtually equal. The volume of import trade has fallen off much less than has the production of American factories. Taken as a whole the foreign trade of this country is in a better relative position than it was before the depression.

International trade will revive when domestic industry and business are once more able to go ahead on a normal basis. It is absurd to suppose that the depression can be routed simply by pushing trade across national boundaries while the sources of domestic commerce remain clogged. Foreign trade is an outgrowth of prosperous business conditions within the various countries that engage in such trade. Any attempt to extend international business at the expense of domestic enterprise could only result in more abysmal depression.

By refusing to take part in the schemes of Premier MacDonald the United States does not minimize the importance of international trade in its national economy, but merely recognizes the futility of trying to cure the depression from the top down, and the danger of any experiments that would substitute international trade for domestic business.

At the present time the world is producing far more goods than its people can buy. Each nation is trying to find ways and means of dumping its surplus upon some other nation. In trying to facilitate that process, Mr. MacDonald thinks he has a solution of the world's economic problems. But Uncle Sam has no intention of becoming the world's dumping ground. If the British premier hopes to influence American opinion by his scheme of making the Lausanne gathering a world economic conference, he is wasting his breath.

GERMS IN WARFARE.

If the Geneva disarmament conference has any influence on the policy of nations, the inhabitants of the countries involved in the next war will not be destroyed by deadly germs deliberately employed as instruments of carnage. The conference has asked the nations not to indulge in this particular atrocity, and all the representatives present agreed to abstain.

The idea of populations being wiped out by epidemics sent against them by their foes is fantastic to a degree. But it is no more innately weird than the idea of poison gas, submarines or air-raids. That the war lords of both Europe and Asia have considered the development of a laboratory technique suitable to the purpose is not denied. Fictionists, like H. G. Wells, repeatedly have used the notion in their novels and propaganda. Indeed, it is reported that Attila the Hun, who lived some fourteen centuries before the discovery of the germ theory of disease, was clever enough to realize that plague could be more devastating than his own savage armies. He is said to have thrown over the walls of beleaguered cities the bodies of plague victims. Bacteriological warfare, it would seem, antedates the organization of bacteriological science.

Some writers make light of the whole subject. It is entirely too bizarre and inhuman, they say, to be a practical weapon in a real campaign. But the same objections were raised to instruments and methods which were practical enough in effect in 1914-1918. Novelty is not a bar against the introduction of effective methods of killing.

Nevertheless, the Geneva diplomats did well to array themselves against germs as legitimate weapons of conflict. Unless the whole world should indulge in a war of annihilation, its revulsion against cold-blooded and secret murder by means of disease germs will deter belligerents. The late war, in spite of its atrocities, revealed that there was a limit, after all, beyond which it was not advantageous for any nation to pass.

A Canadian geologist believes there are diamonds on the bottom of Lake Superior. Quite a number of persons will sit on the shore and wait for them to float to the surface.

The scientists who are trying to split the atom should get a few tips from the politicians who have split the Democratic party.

Kentucky officials are rounding up an army of squirrels in preparation for the next invading army of investigating collegians.

Any one of his nephews could tell Uncle Sam that it's no use trying to become prosperous by going deeper into debt.

No doubt Gov. Roosevelt would strongly indorse Judge Seabury for a place on the Federal bench, or anything.

Vice President Curtis called an empty Senate to order. There was nothing extraordinary about that.

WOMEN IN POLITICS

By Representative Mary T. Norton in Collier's.

Men, I think, ought not only to welcome women into politics, but even to push them there when necessary. For women hold the balance of political power, and some day they are bound to find it out. Then, if they have not learned to work with men, men may find women working against them!

Women themselves are largely responsible for the fact that the number holding public office is still small. There is no royal road to political preferment. One suffers the same disillusionment, the same difficulties that are experienced in any other profession or business.

Especially do women need to get away from the personal viewpoint which is the obsession of my sex. Personal jealousies and hurt feelings have no place in the business of politics.

When the efficient leader of the organization wants someone for a particular job, he picks the man or woman who can do that job best—and his personal likings do not enter into the matter! It seems so hard for many women to grasp this truth.

They have been held back, too, by their political half-heartedness. We may just as well realize that in politics, as in every other human endeavor, you get about what you give. And no woman can afford to underestimate the demands made upon a public servant.

Women seriously in politics must subordinate personal disappointments and control their emotions. They must think straight. If they have courage and cold logic, if they are sincere, intelligent, honest and ready when opportunity knocks on the door, they will receive recognition in the end.

POST HASTE.

Many countries have a little chronic socialism and then there is France that has six different brands of socialists in active eruption.

The latest bait to lure the United States to Lausanne is to rechristen the reparation conference and call it a world trade parley. Parlez vous, Uncle Sam?

It must be conceded that the broadcasting and etymological facilities of the Democratic committee have improved the recriminatory output from Capitol Hill.

Jim Reed, of Missouri, shows up the Democratic fallacy of big bond issues for unproductive works. Our quadrennial also-ran is so intellectually honest that he has never been embarrassed by taking the Republican side for the Nation's welfare.

One of the declared objects of the Communist party is to "fight against the war now being made upon the Soviet Union by the Japanese government with the aid of the United States government." Is this secret war private, or can some of us unofficials get in?

In these days of airplanes and dirigibles nothing seems quite so inane as the Omaha idea of balloons in a drifting race.

The Russian semiofficial Pravda warns belligerent's in Tokyo that "they will no more witness Japanese domination of Siberia than they will ever see their own ears." But Japanese legerdemain is clever at using mirrors.

Congress mustn't be discouraged. A glance at the range of commodity prices will show that it can do a lot more damage. The Bryan free silver scare sent prices down 20 points lower than they are on the index today.

A Southern editor discovers that a good mental test is to figure out what becomes of the money you save since living got cheaper.

Sudden solicitude in Chile and Peru for American owners of copper mines in those countries is touchingly noticeable since danger of a copper tariff in the United States appeared.

Times are so hard in New York that it only required two trains a minute to carry excursionists for their holiday vacations.

The bonus veterans are intelligent enough to understand that if Congress began acceding to the kind of mob pressure they are exerting it would spell the beginning of the end of representative government.

It is going to be a close race now to see whether Lausanne gets a try at the reparation question before the Hitlerites decide it.

THE CALMER LIFE.

What more from life does man require
Than raiment, bed and food and fire?
With these, though humble they may be,
The spring flowers blooming he can see.
The joy of laughter he can know,
Can watch his little garden grow,
Find friendships and in countless ways
Make interesting all his days.

How many years shall man in vain
Seek peace from luxury and gain?
Though well it is high goals to reach,
This truth alone success can teach;
That no estate from care is free,
And only he can happy be
Who, rich or poor, has faith to grace
With tenderness the common place.

The happiness man hopes to find
Is truly of the heart and mind;
A gift that lies himself within,
Not something he must fight to win.
Though rich or poor who plays the man
And does the little that he can
Time's ordinary tasks to share
Can fill life's purpose anywhere.

The Patient Has a Better Chance Without the Meddling of Amateurs

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THERE are but two ways in which Congress can help the "forgotten little man."

It can benefit him at the expense of others, or it can benefit him by helping everybody.

To benefit him at the expense of others, it must by some means take property from those who have it.

If property is taken from those who have to benefit those who have not, it must be divided among the poor or held by the State under some form of communism.

If it is divided equally and the present rules are preserved, those who had it before will soon have it again. If it is held by the State—that is, owned by the people—it must be managed and directed by men who know how, and the wage earner must still work for wages—as he does in Russia.

The "forgotten little man," unless God changes the hearts of selfish men, would be forgotten still.

What, then, of the other method? How can Congress help the little fellow by helping everybody?

Well, how is prosperity built?

A man a little more shrewd or more ambitious than his neighbors renders some service to the world and saves a part of his earnings.

With his savings as a nest egg, he borrows money and establishes a business or a service. His profits are used to expand his enterprise and soon he employs other men.

It isn't easy. Nine in ten fail. But the tenth man, who succeeds, provides jobs for his neighbors and adds to the world's wealth.

He does not keep the money he receives for his product. Most of it is paid out as wages to his employes or spent for materials and services. And all of it goes back into circulation to support other enterprises that provide jobs.

That is commerce, the foundation of all prosperity. It is based on self-interest, the one motive that is dependable. In a free land, fairly governed, it gives every man a chance to get what his service to mankind is worth.

What, then, can Congress do?

Without law, natural commerce would continue. In spite of foolish laws it must somehow continue if men are to work and eat.

The law can help by keeping the rules fair and preventing abuse of power. Once that is done, Congress can best serve the little man and the big one by keeping its hands off and leaving men free to work out their own salvation.

When men are rebuilding after a storm, the best way to help if you can't saw boards is to keep out of the way.

Nationally Important.

Boston Transcript.

Under the laws and the charter of the City of New York, the governor of the State has the power of removal or suspension of the mayor of the city in case of corruption or misgovernment. It is the same power as that which Gov. Roosevelt exercised in removing Sheriff Farley for his failure to explain his large bank accounts. The account against Walker is really larger and graver than that against Farley. Evidently the governor will be confronted with the duty of removing Mayor Walker. Whether or not he exercises the power, the governor's position, as the beneficiary of Tammany Hall, which bestowed his office upon Walker, and his expectations of future Tammany support, will complicate the political situation in New York City.

Take the matter all in all, the outcome of the proceedings in the mayor's case is important not only for New York but for the whole country, which suffers deeply in credit for the offenses against public honor and decency which have been brought out through the inquiries of the legislative committee, whose chief examiner Judge Seabury has been.

It is doubtless true that a presidential candidate who seeks to tie the dry South and the radical West to the wet and more conservative East must have some outward manifestations that may be out of tune with inward sympathies.

Surplus Government.

Kansas City Star.

In looking around to see what could be done to reduce public costs to a point within possible reach of heavily loaded taxpayers, the Illinois commission on taxation and expenditures has made a remarkable discovery. It has found that the State, the counties, the cities, townships and other areas have several times as much government as they can use with any assurance whatever of profitable returns.

Floral Fluff.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

The bouquets cast at each other by the Republicans and the Democrats are patent efforts to avoid the censure of a disgusted public.

State Chores.

Minneapolis Journal.

Refused assistance by Congress, the States in the grasshopper area, Minnesota included, suddenly find means to battle grasshoppers on their own initiative and at their own expense.

Which is as it should be. The habit of waiting for the Federal Government to come to the rescue has grown disturbingly in the last two or three decades. It rests on the fallacious idea that, when Washington attacks a local problem in a given State, the residents of that State profit materially, through the spreading of the cost over the whole Nation.

The cost is so spread, true enough, but to no State's permanent advantage. If Pennsylvania and Florida help pay for killing Nebraska's grasshoppers and Minnesota's grasshoppers, don't forget that Nebraska and Minnesota, in turn, have to help pay for killing Florida's fruit flies and saving Pennsylvania's chestnut trees from blight. And for a thousand and one local services to other States.

No Economic Platform.

Syracuse Post-Standard.

The Democratic party faces a serious problem. The voters of the country this year will place their confidence in the party with the soundest economic policies. The Democrats' chief policies at present favor one section at the expense of another. They do not constitute a solid, effective, constructive national platform. The defect must be overcome at the national convention, or it will prove a serious handicap in a crucial year.

Certainty.

Amsterdam Recorder.

Chairman Raskob has announced that the Democratic party will be divided unless it agrees on the dry law. Which is to say that the Democratic party will be divided.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Brink Argues Poland's Case in Corridor Controversy; Holds Land Was Poland's Before Partition of Country.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your edition of Sunday, May 22, there appeared a map of the western part of Poland. The map is topographically correct but the caption under it, "Corridor to the Sea, created for Poland by the Treaty of Versailles" is apt to be misleading. The correct inscription ought to be "Poland's territory is re-created by the treaty of 1919."

Some political formulas are at least as significant and potentially as dangerous as the chemical ones. To the man of science to insist that the little "2" should be put by the H in the symbol H2O is not an overscrupulousness but a necessary exactness. Similarly in political expressions, a good deal might be implied by a little "re" or by its omission. The word "created" conveying, as it does, the meaning that in 1919 an entirely new frontier was fixed between Poland and Germany, is apt to ignore the fact that—roughly speaking—the same frontier existed for centuries before and until the end of the eighteenth century, when Poland was annexed and divided by Prussia, Austria and Russia.

It was an American—Henry Wheaton—who said that "the partition of Poland was the most flagrant violation of natural justice and international law which has occurred since Europe first emerged from barbarism."

Now, the treaties of 1919 establishing Poland in her present frontiers restored thereby to the rightful owner the property which has been taken away by force. So, "the flagrant violation of natural justice and international law" has been corrected.

In spite of this fact some people claim today as a matter of right and justice, that the provinces inhabited by Poles, annexed by Germany in 1793 and restored by her to Poland in 1919, be given back to Germany as the "rightful owner." Such claim is made and can be made—but to call it a rightful claim is tantamount to an assertion that 130 years can vest a criminal deed with the form of right and legality.

Machines Are Pronounced a Curse to Humanity So Long as They Create Unemployment.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: For three years past all the world's wiseacres seem to have been at sea in a rudderless craft, not even knowing what port they were heading for, or even which way to steer.

Prosperity, they have insisted, was "just around the corner," but which corner, and how to get there and to catch it, no one thus far has informed us. Simply if we would all yell "Good Times!" hard times would come again no more!

Machines, everyday more machines, do the work that required multitudes of mechanics in past centuries. No plans are promised, or even proposed, to meet this mechanical advance, which should, if rightly used, operate to benefit mankind by relieving the worker from the excessive toil which has been his lot in the handicraft age.

Does it not seem whimsical that the machine, which should be a benefit and blessing to all, has operated as a curse, which curse will continue unless common sense prevails?

Prosperity doesn't grow from hot air! Something must be done or hard times will continue and recur. Use the machine to liberate, not to enslave, humanity. Make it give leisure to afford every one time for mental and bodily improvement! Let all classes become leisured classes! If an eight-hour day keeps one-fourth of our workers out of employment and on the verge of starvation, make it a six-hour day, employ all, and prosperity's corner will be turned.

"Indignant" Resents Veterans' March on Capital.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with steadily increasing indignation the article in yesterday's Post, entitled "Bonus Veterans Due in Capital Next Week."

Practically all of us sympathize with those men who went to war, willingly and unwillingly, in 1917-1918, and are glad to have Congress do all it can by way of compensation. And Congress has done much. It has lavished taxpayers' money upon them in various ways, until the total amount seems almost incredible. If any class has been favored in legislation, it is World War veterans.

And yet, how much thanks does Uncle Sam get from them for his generosity?

For the second time in recent years, veterans are planning to descend on Washington, apparently with the idea that their physical presence will induce a harassed Congress to pour more money into their outstretched palms. Probably many among them actually believe that the United States Government has only to print quantities of paper money, pass it out to them, and all will be well.

We are grateful to those who fought for their country, but, after all, they are not the only ones suffering from the depression. If they were truly patriotic, they would not be trying to help themselves at the expense of the rest of the country.

I can not believe that these men truly represent the majority of our World War veterans. At the same time, they are casting an ugly shadow over the superior elements in the ranks of veterans. I think that the District should by all means warn these marchers that the District can not "entertain" them; that it has its own needy, who should be cared for first and last.

INDIGNANT.

TRENDS OF LIFE HIT BY PRESBYTERIANS

ntire Scheme of Things Modern Held "Culture Without Christ."

Denver, May 30 (A.P.).—Prevailing rends of modern life were heavily ored at today's session of the 144th eneral assembly of the Presbyterian hurch in the U. S. A.

Divorce, the radio, movies, prohibion and Sunday amusements were argets for speakers' darts of wrath. he entire scheme of things was ummed up by the Rev. William halmers Covert, of Philadelphia, as "culture without Christ."

"We have," he declared, "Christless en of letters, Christless professors nd philosophers; Christless leaders business and Christless politicians. e have sophisticated writers exploitg in books and magazines pagan eals of thought, Godless schemes philosophy, cynical creeds, articles ll of disillusionment and despair, nmoral codes of marriage and social ving."

Changes on Marriage.

Minor changes in the chapter of arriage in the directory of worship ere approved by the assembly. An tirely new section gave tacit aproval of physical examinations for rties to the marriage contract and limited supervised practice of eunics. The section recites in part:

"Children have a God-given right be well born, therefore those conmplating marriage should be bodily d spiritually fit for such a relaonship."

The assembly likewise approved a w section calling upon ministers "exercise great care lest they join gether those whose marriage the urch can not approve. Upon satfactory evidence of the facts in the se, they may remarry the innocent rty to whom a divorce has been anted on scriptural grounds," a ar after the divorce has been anted.

Ministers also were cautioned ainst the marriage of any memr of another church whose remarge is known to be prohibited by e church in which the person holds embership, unless the minister beeves his refusal would do injusce to a person who has been dirced for scriptural reasons.

Reaffirms Dry Stand.

The assembly expressed opposition "a referendum on the eighteenth mendment," and reaffirmed "the deverances of former assemblies pledgg unequivocal indorsement of the ghteenth amendment."

The Rev. Mark E. Mathews, of Setle, declared that those who say galized beer would produce some 00,000,000 in revenue "are insultg the intelligence of the business en of the country." The total tax all liquor, "hard red, round and ack," he added, was only a little er $300,000,000 in the old days.

The assembly approved a recomendation for an emphatic protest ainst tobacco advertising and a reest to the publishers of "our bet magazines" that, in the interest young people, they refuse to print tobacco advertising.

Sunday Pastimes Attacked.

Attempts to commercialize the Sabth met with stern rejoinders from Rev. Harry Bowlby, of East Orge, N. J., and others. Motion picre producers and sporting organizans were scored for their attempts repeal Sunday laws. The assem also disapproved of commercial dio advertising on Sunday and exessed itself against Sunday newspers.

The Rev. W. J. Conrad, of Harrisrg, Pa., introduced the provision posing commercial radio advertisg on the Sabbath. Dr. George Mcmmings, of Washington, D. C., onsored the motion which put the sembly on record against Sunday wspapers.

All efforts and agencies working for ernational peace were commended e assembly added:

"We support with no wavering loyy the Army and Navy as organizans to be used only in self-defense."

ail Man Slays Doctor And Barricades House

Monroe, La., May 30 (A.P.).—A denged railroad worker called Dr. Baxr Porter to his home for professional rvices today, shot him to death and ld the body in his barricaded home r an hour as police and neighbors ught to enter.

There was no intimation of imnding danger in the summons the ysician received from James Newm, 35. Newsom's wife and 15-yeard daughter were away from home, t they returned and pleaded with m to surrender. He ordered them ay as well as officers and neighrs. Finally, he agreed to admit Pat andley, a fellow worker, who peraded the crazed man to surrender.

o New Clew Found In Lindbergh Search

Hopewell, N. J., May 30 (A.P.).—e holiday week-end yielded no new ew in the long search for the kidpers and slayers of Charles Augusis Lindbergh, jr.

Settled into their new quarters at e Police Training School at Wilurtha, 5 miles from Trenton, police id the hunt was unabated, but ere were no developments. Col. d Mrs. Lindbergh, so far as could learned, spent a quiet day at the wight Morrow estate in Englewood, here they are staying with Mrs. orrow.

Mayor of Baltimore Opposes Quick U.S. Aid

Baltimore, May 30 (A.P.).—Mayor Howard W. Jackson today declined the invitation of Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit to address a proposed conference of city executives on plans for immediate Federal relief of economic distress.

Mayor Jackson, in a telegram to the Detroit executive declared he was not in favor of such a program. He said he was not convinced that the individual cities had reached the end of their resources on the problems of relief, and that even when they did the responsibility lay with the States rather than the Federal Government.

PRESBYTERIANS BAR REJOINING COUNCIL

Federal Churches Proposal Stirs Assembly; Officers' Salaries Slashed.

Montreat, N. C., May 30 (A.P.)—The general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States today reasserted its opposition to membership in the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, adopted a plan for federal union with other Presbyterian bodies and reduced the salaries of its officers.

The proposal that the assembly again affiliate with the council, from which it withdrew last year after circulation of a pamphlet carrying the views of a council committee favoring dissemination of birth control information, stirred the first heated debate of this, the seventy-second assembly.

By a vote of 198 to 68 the commissioners downed a motion by the Rev. William Kyle Smith, youthful Y. M. C. A. secretary at the University of Virginia, that the assembly reaffiliate with the council, and instead adopted a committee report recommending that the question not be reopened.

In addition to Mr. Smith, Dr. E. P. Paisley, of Richmond, Va., professor at the assembly's training school; Dr. George Summey, of Austin (Tex.) Theological Seminary, and the Rev. J. M. McBryde, of Fort Defiance, Va., advocated reaffiliation with the council. Dr. Summey was formerly representative to the council from the assembly.

Opposition to the proposal was led by the Rev. Richard T. Lancaster, of Fredericksburg, Va.; J. B. Sawtell, Waco, Tex., ruling elder; the Rev. J. P. Robertson, of Memphis, Tenn., and T. M. Glasgow, Charlotte, N. C., ruling elder.

At the conclusion of the vote, C. F. Allen, of Macon, Ga., served notice he would make a formal protest against the action because the assembly closed debate on the matter "before all who wanted to speak could be heard."

Charges that "if the council keeps on it won't be long before we have an American pope;" that the council favored birth control, sponsored "free love" cults and was inclined to communism were made among those hurled by opponents.

Dr. S. Parks Cadman, radio minister and columnist; Bishop Francis J. McConnell, of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, New York ministers, all members of the Federal Council, were scored as "modernists."

Hugh McQueeney Succumbs at Home

Veteran Employe of City School System to Be Buried Tomorrow.

Hugh Francis McQueeney, for 47 years an employe of the District public school system, died Saturday at his home, 1925 Bladensburg road northeast, following a brief illness.

Mr. McQueeney was a native of New York. At the time of his death he was superintendent of custodians in all Washington schools. His work was to oversee all labor employes.

Surviving Mr. McQueeney are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth McQueeney and eleven chicldren. He was a member of Potomac Council, No. 433, Knights of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock from his late residence. Following requiem mass in St. Mary's Church, interment will be at St. Mary's Cemetery.

N. N. Hoffman's Burial Tomorrow

Funeral to Be Held at 9 in St. Anthony's for Soldier in Two Wars.

Nicholas N. Hoffman, 47 years old, a veteran of both the Spanish and the World Wars, will be buried in Arlington Cemetery with military honors tomorrow morning, following funeral services at 9 o'clock in St. Anthony's Church. He died Saturday.

Mr. Hoffman, a watchmaker by trade, fought with the Rough Riders in Cuba under Theodore Roosevelt. He later won distinction in the regular Army. In the World War he was in the Navy, on board the U. S. S. Liberty and Lakebridge.

He lived at 3700 Twelfth street northeast. Mrs. Anna Hoffman, his widow, survives him. He was a member of Costello Post of the American Legion.

Now—a new principle of ice refrigeration

As a result of a new application of scientific refrigeration principles, the American Ice Company refrigerators maintain constant temperatures in the food compartment even when the cake of ice has melted down to a few inches in thickness. So important is this new principle that thrifty housewives owe it to the efficiency and economy of their homes to inspect these refrigerators before they buy any type of refrigeration.

Ask your American Ice route man where these refrigerators can be inspected, or call District 6240.

UNION OF CHURCHES PLAN IS KEPT ALIVE

United Presbyterians Vote for Continued Consideration of Project.

Beaver, Pa., May 30 (A.P.).—The seventy-fourth annual assembly of the United Presbyterian Church of North America today voted to continue its study of union with the Presbyterian Church of the United States. The special committee named to consider the proposal is to be continued.

The assembly reaffirmed its stand in favor of prohibition, and directed that a memorial be sent to President Hoover on his views on the question.

Resolutions will be sent to the Republican and Democratic conventions asking that dry planks be placed in the platforms and that candidates favorable to prohibition to be nominated, it was announced.

Mrs. J. D. Sands, of Pittsburgh, presented a memorial from the Women's General Missionary Society opposing union with the Presbyterian Church of the United States.

Memorials were presented by the reforms committee from the Pennsylvania Sabbath School Association and the Lord's Day Alliance protesting against efforts to break down Sabbath observance.

The committee recommended adoption of a memorial from the Wheeling presbytery asking "adequate and reasonable" national defense.

Patriotic and memorial services were held today. The Rev. A. T. Moore, of the Arkansas Valley synod, presided. The assembly will close tomorrow.

"Show Me" Author Of Missouri Dies

Col. Vandiver, 78, Was Former Member of Congress.

Columbia, Mo., May 30 (A.P.).—Authorship of Missouri's "Show Me" slogan was generally attributed to Willard D. Vandiver, former member of Congress, who died here today at the age of 78. The late Speaker Champ Clark credited Vandiver with originating the expression in an impromptu humorous address as a member of Congress before the Five o'Clock Club in Philadelphia in 1899.

"I come from the country that raises corn, cotton, cockleburs and Democrats," Vandiver said in the address. "I'm from Missouri, and you've got to show me."

Others had been credited with authorship of the expression, but a national magazine approved the Vandiver version as correct after an inquiry. Vandiver, known as "Colonel," was described as a typical Southern gentleman of the old school. His appearance somewhat resembled that of a famous Missourian, Mark Twain. Vandiver was a bitter opponent of former United States Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and in 1922 was president of the League of Loyal Democrats, which opposed the reelection of Reed.

Quezon Cables Protest Against Freedom Bill

Manila, P. I., Tuesday, May 31 (A.P.).—Opposition to amendments in the Hawes-Cutting independence bill sponsored by fomer Governor General W. Cameron Forbes was outspoken today following a conference of Baguio Ward legislators with Manuel Quezon, president of the Philippine Senate.

Quezon was reported to have cabled objections to the amendments, which would give wide powers to the proposed American high commissioner. Two protest meetings have been scheduled. Senator Claro M. Recto said a powerful commissioner would make the Filipino governor general a puppet and former Senator Juan Sumulong said the commissioner would be a virtual dictator.

E. H. Seneff, Official Of P. R. R., Dead at 65

Philadelphia, May 30 (A.P.).—Edward H. Seneff, general solicitor of the Pennsylvania Railroad, died today in a hospital at Bryn Mawr of pneumonia, following upon an operation. He was 65 and was born in Mount Etna, Ohio. He had been connected with the railroad since June, 1914, when he was made general solicitor of the lines west of Pittsburgh.

Prior to his connection with the Pennsylvania he served in the law department of the Chicago & Eastern Illinois Railroad. Funeral services will be held at his home, at St. Davids, Pa., Wednesday and interment will be in Chicago on Thursday.

Washington's Serenity Praised by Roosevelt

Albany, N. Y., May 30 (A.P.).—In a Washington Bicentennial address at Kingston today Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt praised the "serenity" of the colonial hero in "keeping his head and not getting into a row with Congress." Mr. Roosevelt likened the troubles besetting governmental executives today to those endured by the first President.

"Washington didn't get into a row with his Congress except on rare occasions," he said, "but when he did, Congress knew it." It was Washington's placid handling of the first constitutional convention, he asserted, that kept the delegates "from going home in disgust."

Doumer's Assassin Accused as Cheka

Former Cossack Identifies Prisoner, Who Protests Violently.

Paris, May 30 (A.P.).—Paul Gorgulov, assassin of President Paul Doumer, was pointed out by a former Cossack, Ivan Lazareff, today as a former chief of the cheka, Soviet Russian secret police, but the assassin vigorously denied the identification.

The Cossack told an examining magistrate he recognized Gorgulov as a cheka chief at Lostow, on the Don, from October, 1920, to April, 1921, declaring Gorgulov once had tortured him to obtain information.

He said he recognized Gorgulov's voice from behind a partition and picked him out from among seven policemen of the same height and weight, wearing civilan clothes. The prisoner protested violently.

Asked the motives for the assassination, Gorgulov said: "After having fought the antimonarchists, I was obsessed with the thought of killing."

"I wanted to oblige France and the League of Nations to intervene against the Soviets," he explained. "The French government and police, by refusing my passport to Switzerland, flouted the monarchists and Communists at the same time."

3 Candidates Named In Camberwell Division

London, May 30 (A.P.).—Three candidates were nominated today to contest the bye-election in the Dulwich division of Camberwell, London, necessitated by the death of Sir Frederick Hall, Conservative member for the riding since 1911.

The candidates are C. R. Cooke-Taylor, Liberal, an unsuccessful candidate in the last elections; Mrs. Helen Bentwick, Labor, and Bracewell Smith, Conservative. The vote in the general elections was Hall, Conservative, 21,752; F. Hughes, Labor, 4,747, and Cooke-Taylor, Liberal, 3,924.

Nazi Magazine Loses Libel Suit to Eckener

Stuttgart, Germany, May 30 (A.P.). Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin, today won a libel suit against a Fascist editor who printed a satiric poem about him in the Nazi magazine of Munich.

"I am interested primarily in ascertaining if in these times of political rawness such insults can be made with impunity," Dr. Eckener explained. The editor was fined 100 marks (currently about $23.60).

Rosedale Methodists In Contest Tomorrow

A medal contest will be held by the young people of the Rosedale Methodist Episcopal Church at Tennessee avenue and D street northeast, tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Judges will be Mrs. Alice Allen, Mrs. Howard Ellis and Mrs. Charles H. Bair. Medals will be presented to the winners by Mrs. Bair, director of the medal contest of the District W. C. T. U.

Mail Plane Wreck Is Fatal to Woman

Passenger Drowned When Cabin Is Submerged in Accident.

Portland, Oreg., May 30 (A.P.).—Two minutes after it had taken off from Swan Island Airport here today a mail plane, its motor wrenched off by the vibration of a broken propeller, hurtled into the Willamette River, drowning the single passenger and injuring the pilot.

Mrs. Anna Smith, 25, of Portland, drowned before she could be released from the submerged plane. Pilot Richard F. Gleason suffered more from shock than injuries, physicians said.

The plane caught fire when the motor fell. Gleason extricated himself from the open cockpit when the plane struck the water and tried vainly to open the door of the cabin where Mrs. Smith was trapped. It was three hours before the plane was raised sufficiently to allow the door to be opened. The mail was saved.

KEEP FAITH IN U.S., BLOOM TELLS JEWS

Speaks at B'rith Sholom Convention; New Officers Are Installed.

The 4,000,000 Jews in this country were charged to keep faith in the Constitution of the United States by Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, last night before 500 members of the Independent Order B'rith Sholom at the annual convention banquet held in the Jewish Community Center.

"We are the chosen people—chosen to do the things that the other peoples of this country look upon us to do," Representative Bloom said.

He declared that when Jewish people were first admitted to the United States they were pledged to take care of their own people."

"This we have done," Bloom said. "Furthermore, we have balanced our own budget composed of obligations to the United States. What we owe this country we will continue to pay up, and lend every effort to serve the United States as we have done in the past."

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, were unable to take part in the program because of business engagements, according to telegrams read to the audience.

Among recently elected officers installed at the meeting are Samuel Steinbach, grand master of the order; Henry Mandanick, first grand deputy; William Bloomberg, second grand deputy, all of Baltimore; Harry Poretsky, Washington, third grand deputy; J. Kayton, Norfolk City Lodge.

The order voted to hold conventions yearly. Baltimore was chosen the thirty-first convention city.

Last night's banquet and installation of officers concluded a two-day convention held at the Willard Hotel, attended by 500 delegates from Baltimore, Richmond, Norfolk and Washington.

Postal Workers' Places Dependent on Congress

Miami, Fla., May 30 (A.P.).—No employes of postoffices will be deprived of employment unless Congress decrees such action, Charles F. Trotter, superintendent of the Postoffice Division in the office of the Postmaster General, told a convention of Florida postal workers today.

He admitted many postoffices are overmanned in view of slack business, but he said the policy of the department to retain all employes would remain effective.

Roosevelt Brands House Tale False

Tells Editor to Discredit Story of Promise to Swing Texas.

Athens, Tex., May 30 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a message today to the editor of the Athens Daily Review, said he was certain a press report to the effect that Col. E. M. House had promised to swing the Texas delegation to support his (Roosevelt's) presidential candidacy, was "invented out of whole cloth."

R. T. Craig, editor of the Daily Review and a delegate at large to the Democratic national convention, and informed Gov. Roosevelt that a dispatch indicating Col. House could swing the Texas delegation away from Speaker John M. Garner, to which it is pledged, was resented by members of the delegation.

"House is completely out of line with politics in the State at this time and his influence is greatly overestimated," Craig told the New York Governor in asking for a statement clarifying the situation.

"I am certain the press dispatch you mention was invented out of whole cloth," Gov. Roosevelt replied. "It is on a par with many of the dope stories originating in New York City."

Election Perjury Trial Is Started in Nebraska

Lincoln, Nebr., May 30 (A.P.).—Victor E. Seymour, prominent Lincoln Republican, went on trial in Federal District Court today on perjury charges in connection with testimony given before a senatorial committee investigating the 1930 campaign in which a grocer named George W. Norris sought to enter the race against the insurgent Republican senator of the same name.

Seymour's attorney said his testimony was true and that Chairman Nye of the expenditures committee later declined to let him explain that it could be construed more than one way. A jury was completed.

McAdoo Flies to Discuss Platform With Leaders

Los Angeles, May 30 (A.P.).—An airplane tour of up-State cities to discuss with other Democrats the platform to be adopted at the Chicago convention was announced today by William Gibbs McAdoo, California member of the platform committee.

SOCIETY

Secretary and Mrs. Doak Invite 40 Guests to Dinner This Evening in Honor of President and Mrs. Hoover.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. HOOVER will be the guests this evening of the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. William N. Doak, who will entertain in the presidential suite of the Willard. A distinguished group of 40 have been invited to honor the Chief Executive and the First Lady.

This is the last of the dinners given annually in honor of the President and the First Lady by members of the Cabinet and their wives. Owing to the death of Mrs. Doak's mother the dinner planned last year in honor of the President and Mrs. Hoover was canceled and this is the first time the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. Doak will have entertained in their honor.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, sister of Vice President Curtis, will leave tomorrow for Greensboro, N. C., on a speaking trip. On her return she will leave again for Saginaw, Mich., on a similar trip and return here again before going to Chicago, accompanying her brother and Mr. Gann to the Republican national convention, which will open June 14. They will not take possession of the Gann home in Cleveland Park until they return from Chicago.

Mrs. Walter F. Brown, wife of the Postmaster General, will accompany him to the Republican national convention.

Secretary of Navy Will Return to Capital Today.

The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Charles Francis Adams, will return to Washington today from Bristol, R. I., where he went on Saturday with Mr. Girard L. Lambert to put the latter's racing sloop in readiness for the summer races. The Secretary made the trip from New York to Newport with Mr. Lambert in the latter's yacht Atlantic and attended the graduation exercises at the Naval War College.

The Japanese Ambassador and Mme. Debuchi entertained at dinner last evening in the embassy when their guests were the Belgian Ambassador and Mme. May, the Argentine Ambassador, Senor Felipe Espil; Mr. Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. William N. Doak, the Hungarian Minister and Countess Szechenyi, the Austrian Minister and Mme. Prochnik, the Swedish Minister, Mr. W. Bostrom; the Assistant Secretary of War and Mrs. Frederick H. Payne, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Joseph Strauss, Mr. and Mrs. Chandler P. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Davies, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mason Remey, Maj. and Mrs. William Carey Crane, Mrs. Henry F. Dimock, Mrs. Rushmore Patterson and the Counselor of the embassy and Mme. Kato.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay will entertain at dinner this evening in the embassy.

Ambassador and Mrs. Edge Coming to This Country.

The United States Ambassador to France and Mrs. Walter Evans Edge will sail tomorrow for this country with their children. Ambassador Edge will come for the Republican national convention in Chicago and will return to Paris in July.

The United States Ambassador to Poland, Mr. John North Willys, who will shortly give up his post to return to this country, was the guest of honor at a luncheon given on Sunday in Warsaw by the Polish-American Chamber of Commerce and the Polish-American Society of Warsaw.

Senor Viel to Entertain For Bridal Couple.

The Charge d'Affaires of Chile, Senor Don Oscar Blanco Viel, will entertain at a dinner in the embassy on June 7 for Miss Norvell Munford and Mr. Joseph W. Mullally, whose marriage will take place June 9.

Mr. Mullally will return to his home in Pittsburgh today, after spending the holiday with Miss Munford and Mrs. Munford in their home on Nineteenth street, and will return to Washington on June 7.

Mrs. Robert Dove will entertain at a tea for Miss Munford and Mr. Mullally, and Miss Margaret Pilson and Mr. Robert J. Phillips, whose marriage will take place June 14, on Wednesday afternoon, June 8, and that evening Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Wright will entertain at dinner for Miss Munford and her fiance at their home in Georgetown.

The First Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. Terence Shone have left for England. Mr. Shone expects to return toward the end of July; Mrs. Shone will remain in England until the end of September.

Mrs. Harold H. Sims, wife of the attache of the British Embassy, will leave Washington tomorrow by motor for Canada where she will visit Mr. Sims' mother, Mrs. A. Haig Sims. Mr. Sims will join her there the first of next week. Mr. and Mrs. Sims will sail from Canada Thursday, June 16, for England to spend the summer.

The commercial counselor of the Swedish Legation, Mr. Gustaf Weidel, sailed Saturday aboard the Gripsholm for his home in Sweden, where he will be for six weeks. Mme. Weidel will remain in their Washington home during his absence.

The Assistant Secretary of War, Mr. Frederick H. Payne, will go by airplane to Fort Benning, Ga., today to address the graduating class.

The Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Mr. Dunlap, has as his guest his father, Mr. Nelson Dunlap, of Kingston, Ohio.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Schoellkopf will entertain at a small dance Saturday for Miss Gertrude Laughlin, subdeb daughter of the United States Ambassador to Spain and Mrs. Irwin B. Laughlin. Mr. and Mrs. Schoellkopf will sail June 7 for Vienna, where they will pass some time.

Miss Pilson Engaged To Robert J. Phillips.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Pilson announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Margaret Jane Pilson, to Mr. Robert J. Phillips, acting chief of the foreign buildings office of the State Department, and liaison officer of the Department of Commerce.

The wedding will take place on Tuesday, June 14, at Leny Manor, Warrenton, Va., the home of Mrs. Lester Buchanan. Miss Pilson will have her sister, Miss Eleanor Pilson, for her maid of honor, and the bridesmaids will be Miss Mary Martha Wren and Miss Edith Nesbit, of Warrenton. Miss Pilson attended the Warrenton country school.

Mr. Phillips is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Phillips, of Queens, L. I. He attended the Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, and was graduated from Cornell University. Mr. Phillips has lived abroad for a number of years, and before coming to Washington for duty was stationed in Japan. After graduating from the Coast Artillery School at Fort Monroe, Va., he served in the World War and on the Mexican border.

Picnic Will Precede Walker—Dunlop Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Walker, Mr. and Mrs. John Parker, and Mr. and Mrs. James Nolan have sent out invitations for a picnic for Miss Elizabeth Dunlop and Mr. Oliver Walker, whose wedding will take place June 11. The invitations are rather novel, being printed in irregular letters on strips of paper and reading, "Come, pals; come, gals, and picnic with Floie and Al, Virginia and Johnnie, Ellen and Jimmy, on June 4, in pity for and condolence with Elizabeth and Ollie, who are that way about each other and will end it all by being married next week. Come to Carter Rack at 4 o'clock. Big doing! Wear your oldest duds. In case of rain the party will be postponed until Sunday."

At the end of the invitation is attached a perforated slip bearing a picture of a farmer boy and the words, "I will picnic," "I can not get there," and "check and mail to Mrs. Albert Walker."

Mr. and Mrs. Larz Anderson have gone to White Sulphur Springs for a brief visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Tevis Huhn, of Washington, and Mr. Barton Leopold Buffin, of New York, spent the holiday week-end at Hot Springs as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles U. Caesar.

Rear Admiral and Mrs. William S. Sims have opened their summer home at Newport, where the wedding reception of their daughter, Miss Adelaide Sims, and Mr. Robert Francis Fiske, son of Mr. and Mrs. Reddington Fiske, of Philadelphia, will take place July 2, following the ceremony in Trinity Church at Newport.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Warren have returned from Santa Barbara, Calif.

Wedding Showers Planned For Senorita Arias.

Senorita Margo Arias, daughter of Senor and Senora Antonio Arias, whose marriage to Lieut. Warren Harlan Hoover, U. S. A., will take place in Washington June 16, is being extensively entertained before her marriage. She will be the guest of honor at a shower to be given on Thursday afternoon by Miss Frances Stearns. On Friday, Miss Louise Hoehling will entertain in her honor at a shower. Miss Betty Putnam entertained in her honor at a tea on Sunday afternoon, and on Saturday evening Senorita Arias was the guest of honor at a dinner given by Miss Exilona Hamilton at the Chevy Chase Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett McCormick and daughter, Miss Elizabeth McCormick, are spending a few days vacation in Atlantic City.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Neff are in Atlantic City.

Miss Atlee Wirgman and Miss Fenella Castenado are organizing a group of about 75, including members of the younger set, for a picnic to be held on Tuesday evening, June 7, at 6:30 o'clock on the Maryland side of Great Falls.

Because heavy showers interfered with the first day of the Chevy Chase garden tour last Friday, it has been decided to hold the tour again today so that garden enthusiasts may make the full rounds of the gardens as originally planned.

Not only will the gardens open on Friday be included in the tour but six of the largest show places, some of which were to have been opened only for the Saturday group of the tour, will also be opened for this final day. They include Abremont, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin; Hayes, the historic home of Mr. and Mrs. George T. Dunlop; In-the-Woods, the estate of Dr. and Mrs. E. A. Merritt; the Whitman Cross rose gardens, and Brook Farm, the home of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Hood Shultz.

Miss Waller Atttending Naval Academy Fetes.

Miss Louise Du Bose Waller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Absalom Waller, is in Annapolis attending June week festivities at the United States Naval Academy. Next week she will leave for a series of visits on Long Island and in New London, Conn.

Miss Margaret Bowie, daughter of Mrs. Blanche Bowie, of Kensington, Md., and Mr. Donald Tierney, of New York, were married Sunday afternoon in the parsonage of Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, Hyattsville, Md., by the pastor, the Rev. U. S. A. Heavener. The bride was in pink lace with blue hat and slippers to match, and carried bride roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her sister, Miss Diantha Bowie.

Mr. Basil Bowie, of Kensington, brother of the bride, gave her in marriage. The bride's mother, Mrs. Basil Bowie; Miss Jean Skinner and Miss Elizabeth Williams were among others attending the ceremony.

Mrs. Grace Ryan, of Kensington, gave a colonial garden party and tea Saturday in honor of the Women's Home Club of North Beach, Md. The women of the Bicentennial committee of Kensington assisted the hostess with music and the children from the school in very quaint and picturesque costumes danced the minuet on the lawn.

Miss Charlotte Davis To Wed in Hyattsville.

Miss Charlotte Ann Davis, daughter of Mrs. Bessie B. Davis, of Hyattsville, Md., and Mr. John Henry Hiser, son of the late John Hiser, of Edmonston, Md., will be married Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Pinkney Memorial Church at Hyattsville, the rector, the Rev. Clyde Brown, officiating.

Miss Davis, a popular member of the younger set, is an active member of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the American Legion in Hyattsville and other organizations. Mr. Hiser is in sports circles in Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

Maj. Gen. and Mrs. John L. Hines have returned after a visit to Hot Springs. Gen Hines will be retired from his command in the Philippines today.

The National Woman's Country Club will have a dance on Saturday evening for members and their guests.

Work Begins Soon On Mall Avenues

Bids for Projects Near Fourteenth Street to Be Opened June 14.

Work will soon begin on the building of roads on that portion of the Mall bordering Fourteenth street which has been filled with excavated earth. Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Parks and Buildings, announced that bids would be opened on June 14 for their construction.

A north drive will be constructed in front of the new National Museum, and a new highway will be constructed in front of the new Agriculture Building.

Grading in the Mall is nearly complete and will be finished by the time the bids are opened. Drawings and specifications will be ready for bidders today, Col. Grant said.

Dance Recital Arranged Saturday by School Here

Thirty-five juniors of the Evelyn Davis School of Dance will appear in a recital Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Sears-Roebuck Art Gallery, 1106 Connecticut Avenue. Miss Evelyn Davis will direct the program, and Alice Finckel, one of the Capital's well known pianists, will accompany the dance numbers throughout the varied program. Many numbers have been "created" by the students, who range in age from 5 years to 15 years.

An unusual feature of the recital will be the exhibition of a number of costume designs, made by the students for their own dance numbers in the program. Among the students who will take part in the program are the daughters of the Minister of Venezuela, the Minister of Honduras, and the former Minister of Nicaragua, as well as many children of Capital residents.

Mexican Ambassador Given Honorary Degree

Huntington, W. Va., May 30 (A.P.). Respect of culture and talent were held up to the Marshall College graduating class today as desirable above all other goals by Jose Manuel Puig-Casauranc, Mexican Ambassador. He received an honorary degree.

The ambassador praised teachers who grow old in the generous and disinterested service of youth while other men are becoming masters in more lucrative fields of fame and renown. He urged the students to resist the pressure that will be upon them in industry, commerce, science, politics and public service to make them instruments of conquests and links in a chain.

Radio Recalls Opening Of Lincoln Memorial

Memories of the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial, which took place on Memorial Day ten years ago, were revived for listeners to Radio Station WOL during the weekly broadcast of The Washington Post Recorders last evening.

Under the title "News Flashes of a Decade Ago" the fifteen-minute program reviewed the headlines of May 30, 1922, and compared them with those of the current date. The improvement in radio programs also was touched upon by direct comparison with the printed schedules.

Pope Pius Reaches 75th Anniversary

Will Celebrate His Birthday by Mass in Private Chapel Today.

Vatican City, May 30 (A.P.).—The oldest sovereign in Europe, Pope Pius XI, becomes three-quarters of a century old tomorrow. He will celebrate his diamond anniversary with a special mass of thanksgiving in his private chapel. His sister, Donna Camilla Ratti; his niece and his nephew by marriage, Marquise and Marquis Persichetti-Ugolini, and a few prelates of the papal household will comprise his congregation.

The papel flag of yellow and white, with the tiara and crossed golden keys upon it, will be hoisted over vantage points in Vatican City. The Swiss guards and papal gendarmes wear full dress uniforms. The band of the Palatine guards will give a concert.

Telegrams of congratulation began to arrive today from various corners of the earth. Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, will respond to the telegrams on behalf of the Pope.

Five Flying Boats Missing in Canada.

Edmonton, Alta., May 30 (A.P.).—A fleet of five flying boats bound for the Great Bear Lake mineral fields from Detroit, failed to arrive here as expected yesterday. The machines left Windsor Saturday but no word of their progress has been received here. J. H. Eastman is leader of the party.

All Italy to Honor Wife of Garibaldi

Body to Be Buried Under Statue on Hill Near Vatican City.

Rome, May 30 (A.P.).—The body of Anita Garibaldi, whom her husband, the red-shirted liberator, Gen. Giuseppe Garibaldi, called "the most perfect human creature known to mankind," will be brought here from Genoa Thursday for burial under her statue on Janiculum Hill overlooking the Vatican.

But Italy will begin six days' homage to the memory of Gen. Garibaldi and his martyred Brazilian wife tomorrow, the fiftieth anniversary of the patriot's death.

All Italy will honor the memory of the emancipator's brave companion while her body is en route to its final burial ground, recalling in speeches and print how she shared his rude lot during ten years of campaigning and died in his arms during one of his most disastrous military reverses. The monument to be unveiled here depicts her on horseback fleeing from the enemy.

Mrs. Putnam Takes Tea At House of Commons

London, May 30 (A.P.).—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, first woman solo flier of the Atlantic, was guest today at a hastily arranged tea party in the House of Commons.

She was taken to the House by David K. E. Bruce, son-in-law of Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon. On her appearance the tea party was arranged and nearly all the women members of Parliament, including the American-born Lady Astor, were present. Another who was present was J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions. Mrs. Putnam still was bothered by a cold, which, coupled with the many speeches she has been called upon to make since her flight from America, had almost robbed her of her voice.

"Wash dirty handkerchiefs?
Not since I learned about
KLEENEX
Disposable Tissues!"

ASK any woman to name the household task she hates most. She'll say "washing dirty handkerchiefs." It's about the most repulsive task imaginable—and may be dangerous as well, if the handkerchiefs are contaminated with cold or other germs.

Fortunately, this dreadful task is no longer necessary in any home.

Use Kleenex instead!

Buy a package of Kleenex and say goodby to handkerchief washing! These soft tissues are superior to handkerchiefs in every way—and when used, you simply destroy! No washing! No self-infection! No laundry bill—if you have handkerchiefs washed commercially.

A generous package of Kleenex costs only as much as one inexpensive handkerchief, at any drug, dry goods or department store. Try it for wiping spectacles, razor blades—caring for baby—removing face creams.

WHY HANDLE DANGEROUS GERMS?

KLEENEX disposable TISSUES
Germ-filled handkerchiefs are a menace to society

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

ON'T BLAME THE FATES IF YOU CARRY EXCESS WEIGHT.

A FRIEND and I were having lunch in an out-of-town restaurant recently. Entered Ma- me, and it must have been an ef- rt for her to bring all that "excess ggage" in at once. I judged that e tipped the scales near the 200 rks (or perhaps she feared the ory they might truthfully tell and avoided scales). A young woman s waiting for her at a table very ar ours and we could see and hear m plainly. I am repeating snatches the conversation, because it indi- tes so definitely the attitude that ny women take.

* * * *

"Sorry I am late, Louise, but I felt y this morning and must have erslept."

Sin number one—You can't sleep ose excess pounds away.

Followed the business of studying e menu.

"What shall I eat, Louise—what ll you have?" (Louise happened to very nicely built and certainly had diet problem.)

"I had a big breakfast (our weighty y still speaking) but guess I'll have nack anyway. (The snack turned t to be a man-sized meal with ad and butter, potatoes, topped th a whipped-cream dessert.)

Sin number two—If you are over- ight, watch your diet and avoid ttening foods, rich desserts, &c. afy salads, vegetables and fruits are ling without being fattening.

* * * *

At last came the discussion of ight, which was inevitable. For woman can remain complacently different to her weight and figure. "I had words with Mary the other y. We were shopping for clothes d I had difficulty getting some- ng to fit, and do you know what was bold enough to say—why she told me if I went on a diet and did more exercising and tried to reduce I would look much more presentable. What use is it for me to go on a diet when my mother is stout, my sister and both brothers big. We simply weren't born under lucky stars, and that's that."

Sin number three—blaming heredity or other fates and sitting down on the job.

While it is true that stock and size are inherited and often racial characteristics, that's no reason why one should be reconciled to obesity. It may be a little more difficult to work off those extra pounds, but think of the satisfaction when you can pat yourself on a not-too-heavily cushioned back and say, "You did it!"

Going back to the subject of our story, we heard her suggest to Louise, "Let's go by my house and get the car for the little run to May's." Whereupon Louise protested that it was a lovely day and why not walk.

Sin number four—lack of exercise.

Moral—Will power, a sensible attitude, a sane diet and sufficient exercise are necessary to reduce safely and definitely. Curves are in, but not the overdeveloped variety.

If you would reduce sanely and safely, send for my Reducing Leaflet, including diet, exercise, calory list and weight chart. Please be sure to attach self-addressed, stamped envelope to your request.

have a large flowered magnolia ich developed beautiful buds, the ire tree being covered, some even gan to show color, later some- ng happened and as a result re were just twelve flowers that ned. Why was this? MRS. ALBERT H.

The buds were undoubtedly frozen.

s it too early to start elephant s? Last year I started the bulbs pots, which was more or less of nuisance. This year I want to nt them in the open. MRS. HERMAN D.

They may be planted in the open this time. There is nothing to gained by starting them in pots. y may even be set out in early y.

Do cannas require much sun, water a rich soil? WILLIAM S. L.

Yes.

y ampelopsis has grown too large; I prune it at this time? CHARLIE G. A. G.

Yes, you may cut an ampelopsis k at any time.

When is the proper time to cut ony buds and how should they be ed for after cutting to increase ir lasting properties? MABEL H. W.

f peony buds are cut off before y break and placed with their ms in deep water in a cool cellar, y will form better flowers and ir opening can be considerably layed. The buds should be soft the touch when they are cut.

want to have some perennials dy to plant in permanent places my borders in the fall. When ould I sow such seeds? HENRY F. A.

Sow the seeds about the middle of June. Of course, to a certain extent the exact date depends on the variety you wish.

How often should I spray delphiniums and hollyhocks for rust and blight. MISS MARGARET F.

These plants should be sprayed with bordeaux mixture every ten days during their growing season.

Can you please tell me of anything to destroy currant worms? HENRY F. C.

Currant worms can be killed with hellebore.

When shall I transplant bearded irises? Mine are blooming beautifully, at least they are now showing plenty of buds, but as they haven't been transplanted for 20 years I mean to lift them this fall or whenever you suggest. MRS. LEWIS A.

Transplant bearded irises when they have finished blooming, cutting the leaves back halfway, shortening the roots and dividing the clumps into pieces with two or three shoots on each.

I am about to plant two conifers. What kind of soil do they like? JERRY C.

Conifers, as a rule, like a light, sandy subsoil. It should be open so as to permit perfect drainage, yet with a rich surface soil to provide the necessary food for the great quantity of fibrous roots. Never place fresh manure about the roots. If you use manure it should be well rotted and placed so it does not come into direct contact with the roots.

Are aquatic plants necessary for the life of fish in a small pool? Mrs. LOUIS H.

Yes. They supply the food, both in green form and as oxygen, to the finny inhabitants of the water.

EPARES A DELICIOUS WEDNESDAY DINNER.

HE last day of May for this year, which means that June and vacation time are actually upon , or, should we say that June, the nth of brides, is with us now? This uses me to remember that shortly ere will be a whole new crop of ides writing us for help and that, erefore, pie crust, plain cake bat- r, plain biscuit mixture and no end other basic recipes must soon now d their way back into one small lumn.

But not quite yet—it's too early in season. We still may safely deal th usual routine and to that end have planned a fine meal of eamed sweetbreads for tomorrow.

WEDNESDAY'S DINNER.

Creamed Sweetbreads
Mashed Potatoes
Buttered Peas and Carrots
Cheese Biscuits
Dressed Watercress
Individual Cherry Tarts
Iced Tea

Creamed Sweetbreads.

Place a pair of sweetbreads in cold ter for one hour or longer. Drain d drop into one pint of boiling ter to which one tablespoonful of negar and one-half teaspoonful of lt have been added. Simmer slowly om 20 to 25 minutes or until ten- r. Plunge into cold water, drain and ill. Remove the membraneous tis- e. Cut into cubes and add to cream uce.

Cream Sauce.

4 tablespoonfuls butter
4 tablespoonfuls flour
⅛ teaspoonful salt
2 cupfuls cream or top milk— alded
Dash of cayenne

Melt butter, add flour, salt and yenne. Mix well, add cream, a tle at a time, stirring constantly til smooth and boiling.

Cheese Biscuits.

1½ cupfuls flour
2 teaspoonfuls baking powder
¼ teaspoonful salt
1 tablespoonful shortening
6 tablespoonfuls cheese—grated
1 scant cupful milk

Sift flour, baking powder and salt gether three times. Add shortening d the cheese, mixing it lightly or opping in with knife. Add milk, st enough to hold mixture together. ll out on floured board to half- ch thickness and cut with small scuit cutter. Brush over the top with milk and place in buttered pans. Bake in hot oven 12 or 15 minutes.

Individual Cherry Tarts.

2 pounds pie cherries—stoned
1½ cupfuls sugar
3 tablespoonfuls flour
Lemon juice

Pastry.

1½ cupfuls pastry flour
½ teaspoonful salt
3 tablespoonfuls each of lard and butter
Ice water.

Sift the flour and salt into a bowl, add the shortening and cut in with two knives. Add the ice water, a little at a time, just enough to hold the paste together. Divide into six parts. Roll out to one-eighth inch in thickness, fold in three, pinch edges together and fold in three again, forming a square. Chill and roll out to the desired size. Line individual tart shells with the pastry. Cover the bottom of each shell with a portion of the flour and sugar sifted together. Fill with the stoned cherries, mixed with a little flour and sugar and sprinkle with lemon juice. Place in a hot oven to glaze the crust and then reduce to moderate.

Refreshing Summer Beverages.

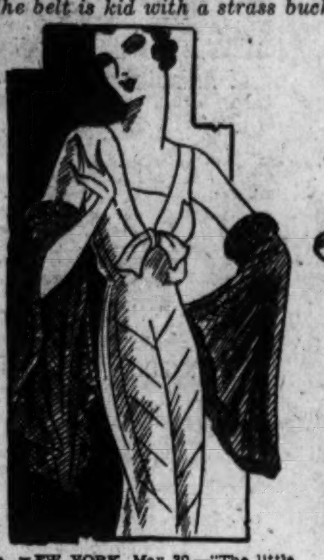
Summer days are thirsty days! And there are so many occasions when a sparkling, icy drink is most refreshing and welcome. It may be after a tiresome shopping day in town, a brisk game of tennis, or, perhaps, when friends "drop in" of a hot afternoon or evening. It really doesn't matter, for in our new folder you will find many suggestions for easily prepared, appropriate beverages—all equally delicious.

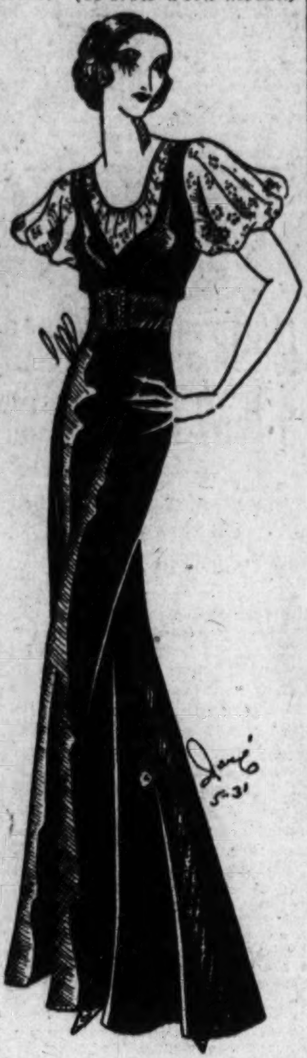
Send your request and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, to Nancy Carey, The Washington Post.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

White organdie, strass spattered—and black taffeta make a dinner frock for summer of rare charm and grace. The belt is kid with a strass buckle. (A New York model.)





NEW YORK, May 30.—"The little fur cape that all Paris is wearing" is something to consider. After all, it has its uses!

I would rather have a little fur cape of some sort or other, in any light color fur—ermine, squirrel, silver gallyac, say, than a fox fur. Why? because—sh-h-h-h-h-h, I could wear it more often than I could the separate skin!

For the little fur cape that all Paris is wearing, as the saying goes, is as correct with a morning dress of light weight wool as it is with the chic tailleur one wears for luncheon; and equally correct with the afternoon frock as it is with the cinema gown; not to mention its uses with an evening gown! I defy you then to suggest a more thoroughly satisfying, all-around-useful-garment—fashion fancy!

Now this wee fur cape can be wee, little, or rather. Say it again! Yes—it can be so wee that it looks like a neckpiece of some kind; or so small that it looks like grandma's "tippet." Or so "rather" that it looks like a coatee or cape. It can be almost whatever size, color, style and fur you exactly wish. And whichever—it is bound to be stylish! Fashion says a fur something—and leaves the rest to the taste of the individual. Never dreaming, my deahs—that individuals are so thrifty these days—and can find a millyun uses for such a thing!

* * * *

A story woven around a man's fancy for a beautiful boudoir doll, and his ensuing romance with the woman who resembled this doll is well known. Boudoir dolls have a fascination all their own—not paintings, bric-a-brac, statues, book, anything, has this particular fascination!

And a boudoir doll can be as elaborate and artistic as time and good taste can make it—or as cheap and hideous as Coney Island offers. Your choice in boudoir dolls, miladi, is at hand! Just send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for an illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make several of them—all different, lovely, exotic—and not too hard to make in your spare finger time. Hurry!

Fashion French.

Combination (kom-bee-nay-zonh) but not meaning a piece of lingerie, dahr-lings! It means actually "combination" of something—colors, or fabrics, or a coat and dress together, or the "combinaison" of a certain glove and bag with a certain hat. Whew!

* * * *

Maybe you've seen it before—because it is a popular frock! But if you haven't, I thought you would like to see it—I simply love it! Black taffeta for the dress, white organdie, star-spangled with strass, for the guimpe, with its full sleeves—and a leather belt with strass buckle. Could anything be more sophisticated—and yet more naive?

* * * *

Shadows fall o'er land and sea—and on Miladi's lovely star-white arms, too. But they are held in place, these shadows, with black velvet bands, star-studded with strass. 'N' I sketched it all for you in the little sketch!

Au revoir.

Culbertson on Bridge

PSYCHOLOGY, TACTICS AND TECHNIQUE.

DR. EDWARD P. HYDE, an American Bridge player now temporarily residing in Paris, sent me an interesting story recently about a game on shipboard, while en route to Europe.

"The ship's company was small, and Contract players were extremely scarce," he relates. "By dint of perseverance, one Bridge table had finally been formed on the third day out, and even then it was as unbalanced as a 6-4-2-1 distribution."

The foursome was made up of two ladies—who had read of the principles of correct bidding, but had not yet thoroughly assimilated them—a brilliant Spaniard—who played his cards beautifully, but who disdained any system and enjoyed taking frequent "fliers"—and Dr. Hyde. After a number of colorless games had been played or misplayed, West, in which positon the Spanish gentleman sat, dealt the following remarkable hand:

West—Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

♠ J 2
♡ J 5
♢ 10 9 5 3 2
♣ J 9 4 2

♠ A K 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3

♣ A Q 10 3

West opened the bidding with the call of a small slam in spades. North and East obviously passed. What should Dr. Hyde, sitting South, have done. He knew well West's gambling instinct, and he also knew West's complete lack of confidence in his partner's aggressiveness. Was his bid a speculation, or was it a gilt-edged investment, backed up by solid strength? Dr. Hyde held 3½ honor tricks distributed in three suits. Apparently, he should be able to win two tricks unless the trump distribution was of the rarest and most unusual type. To Dr. Hyde such distribution seemed incredible and he decided to back his judgment with a double. West promptly redoubled. The highly improbable must be reality, for West was too intelligent a player to redouble a doubtful bid when vulnerable, unless he was certain of his ability to make it. Dr. Hyde sought an economical way out of the difficulty and bid a grand slam in hearts. This was, in turn, immediately doubled by West. I give what followed in Dr. Hyde's language:

"The King of spades was led and trumped by South, who returned the 3 of hearts. West took this trick with his Ace and then led the Ace of spades, which South trumped with the 6 of hearts, East discarding a small club. West's hand was now marked with ten spades, the Ace of hearts and two other cards. South who led the 8 of hearts, and took the trick with the Knave in Dummy, West discarding a spade.

"It was now clear that West's cards, outside of his spade suit, formed one of the three following combinations: K x of clubs, A x of diamonds or the Ace of diamonds and in a singleton club. The first arrangement seemed so highly improbable, in view of West's Redouble, that it could be disregarded. The Ace of diamonds was definitely placed, but whether the thirteenth card was the Knave or a small diamond, or a singleton club, was yet to be discovered.

"South hesitated before playing the next card. He knew that he must play a club, but should he finesse or take the trick with the Ace? That the possible singleton in West's hand might be the King seemed once again contrary to all porbability, but then the whole distribution had shattered the laws of unromantic probability. And there were very weighty considerations why this almost negligible risk should not be taken. If, by some streak of luck, the King of clubs actually was in West's hand, South would be forced once more with a spade lead, the result being that 2 tricks would be taken with trumps in East's hand and the contract would be set 5 tricks for 1,000 points. If the finesse succeeded, the penalty would be only 3 tricks for 400 points, but if the Ace of clubs were played, the loss would be only 4 tricks for 600 points, even if the King of clubs was in East's hand.

"The gamble to save 200 points against a possible loss of an extra 400 points simply did not appeal to South's betting instinct, particularly in view of the 'hunch' which his sixth sense had gently whispered into his ear. He led a small club from Dummy, and grabbed the trick with his Ace. Mirabile dictu! The King of clubs was a singleton and fell on the Ace. South heaved a sigh of relief, and a smile slowly replaced his drawn expression.

"The rest was easy. The Ace of diamonds in West's hand, of course, took a trick, and in addition, East made one of four trumps. In all, East and West took three tricks—the Ace of hearts, the Ace of diamonds and one trump by ruffing clubs—a total set of 400 points. West reflected, with adequate misery written all over his expressive countenance, that had he been content with the Double, and had not tried to play the gourmand with a Redouble, he would have been marking his score sheet 750 plus 100 plus 2 x 180 equal 1,210 points, plus 700 for the rubber."

TODAY'S POINTER.

It is not always wise to redouble a contract which you are sure to make. The controlling factor in such a situation, after an opponent has doubled, is whether they have a probable escape which will give you a lesser margin of profit.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

SHAW EATS CAKE AND KICKS.

AS a part of an article favoring vaccination as a protective measure, Dr. Charles F. Pabst prints a letter written him in July, 1931, by G. Bernard Shaw, giving the latter's reasons for opposing smallpox vaccination. Since Shaw has been so vehement on the subject, we are interested in the reasons for his opposition. Hitherto, so far as I know, Shaw has confined his statements to opinions without giving any of the bases for them. This letter makes it possible to partially evaluate his opinions.

He wrote: "I was vaccinated in infancy and had good marks of it." Since he was born in 1856, when vaccine was not very good, and since he supplies no proof that the marks were good, he may have had only a pus infection and the marks may have indicated that. But because we have no proof we must accept what he tells us.

Let us say that he did not have smallpox between 1856 and 1881, for some reason or other. He goes on: "In the great epidemic of 1881 I caught smallpox." He was then 25 years old and apparently had not been vaccinated for 24 years. Vaccination that had fully protected for 24 years had done all that is claimed for it. Dr. Pabst indicates that there is evidence that in a very violent epidemic in which many died, and a great many had extremely grave attacks, Shaw had a mild attack. I have never heard that Shaw is badly pock-marked, or that he gave any other evidence of having narrowly escaped with his life.

Insofar as this is evidence, it indicates that Shaw's vaccination was still in some degree protective 24 years later. This is about in accord with the teaching. A partial protection 24 years afterward is expected. Shaw has reason to be grateful to vaccination. But he is not. We learn that he has been gunning for it since about 1900. He tells us that about that time he was a member of the health committee of the council of one of the London boroughs, and he then learned that there was some incorrect diagnosing of smallpox in his borough, and that the reports from the borough on smallpox and vaccination could not be accepted at their face value. He dug around and found a suppressed report of the Metropolital Asylum board, which showed some harmful results from vaccinations—probably secondary infections.

What the opposition had to say about Shaw's strictures on them and their reports does not appear. He may or may not have given both sides a hearing.

He next adds: "Meanwhile, I had studied the literature and the statistics on the subject." He gives no detail. The men competent to weigh the literature and statistics of the subject have done so and their conclusions are accepted by those who know how to weigh that kind of evidence. That Shaw had his tongue in his cheek when he wrote the sentence just quoted, and did not intend it to be of weight, is evidenced by his next: "I even induced a celebrated bacteriologist to read Jenner." He does not say with what result. Just why he added that sentence no one knows. This is all the evidence he offers. So far as we know it is all he knows about the question.

He then delivers his verdict in a closing sentence: "I have no doubt whatever that general infantile vaccination is an unscientific abomination and should be made a criminal practice." This probably means that he would have Parliament enact a law making the vaccination of children a crime. If a mother undertook to protect her child against smallpox she would be a criminal and should be punished as such. This would be stretching the law a good ways. He advocates making criminals of mothers because of his opinion that vaccination is "an unscientifif abomination," whatever that is. The basis for this lay opinion as to what constitutes an "unscientific abomination" appears to be pretty trifling stuff.

LOOK TO YOUR FRIENDS.

J. W. writes: My habits are clean. I wash my head every week, but still I am troubled with lice and nits. I fine-comb my hair thoroughly after each washing, but two or three days after, they seem to have come back again. Now, is there any remedy I can use?

REPLY.

Clean associates are more important than clean habits. Kerosene is the standard remedy for this purpose. The infestation is widespread and the remedy is widely known. The business is keeping up the dividends on Standard Oil. Use warm vinegar for a chaser. And—can some friend.

What Today Means

"GEMINI."

IF May 31 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m., and from 10:15 p. m. to 11:45 p. m. The danger periods are from noon to 1:30 p. m., and from 6 p. m. to 7:20 p. m.

Planetary aspects for May 31 will create feelings of false optimism, and moods, rash, more than courageous, will prevail. Guard against swindlers and touters, and do not risk any financial hazards! Do not tempt fate on this date; she will be playing with marked cards, and you had better not call her hand.

The child born on this May 31 will have a gay and volatile nature, combined with a strongly imaginative turn of mind. It may not, in early years, excel in the dull routine of the schoolroom, finding disciplinary measures oppressive and irksome. In later years, however, when it has found its true vocation, it will plunge into studies with an energy and a lightheartedness that will both amaze and delight its parents.

You, if born on May 31, are so impulsive that you are more fortunate than wise. You are content to enjoy the sunshiny days of the future. You have an airy and a carefree nature, and although you do not mean to be thoughtless of others, your rash acts often cause unlimited worry to those near and dear to you. You are rather unsettled, and although you have excellent possibilities and could achieve wonderful results along artistic lines, your enthusiasms are as short as they are violent. You are better off working for somebody else than carrying on by yourself.

Your personality is engaging and entertaining, but this does not prevent you being somewhat shy and reticent in the presence of strangers. With friends, however, you let yourself go and reveal yourself as a charming companion. You are tactful and generous in your dealings with other people, and are always ready to overlook a fault. If you are occasionally disappointed, you do not brood over it and allow it to embitter your outlook, but dismiss it abruptly from your mind and proceed to forget all about it. This power of dismissing unpleasant things from your mind gives you an easy contentment and happiness.

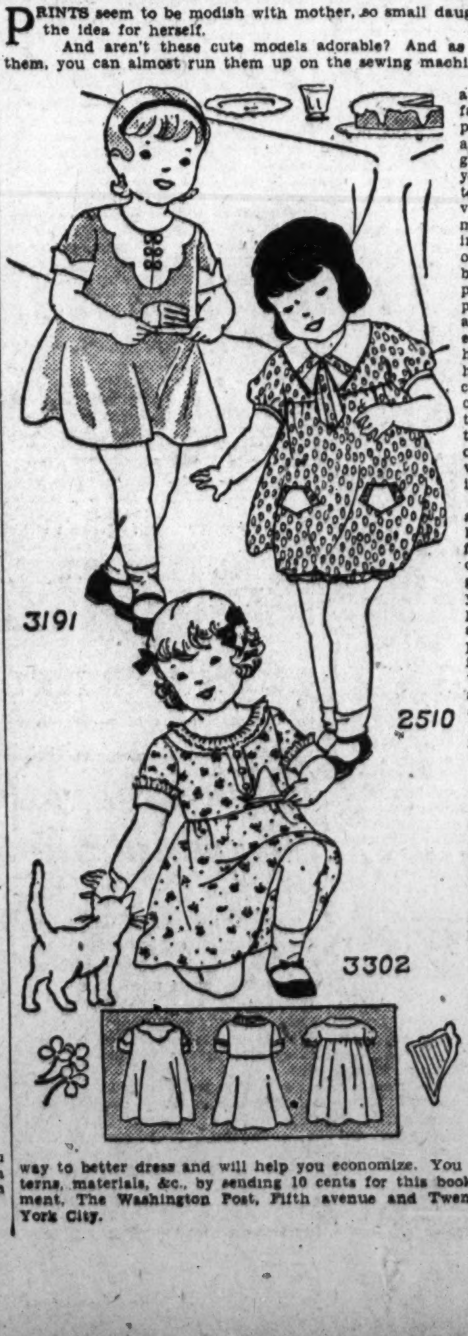
Fifth Avenue Fashions

PRINTS seem to be modish with mother, so small daughter has taken up the idea for herself.

And aren't these cute models adorable? And as to the making of them, you can almost run them up on the sewing machine in a single day.



Style No. 3191 is a darling little affair. It is a one-piece type so comfy and smart for wee girls of 2, 4 and 6 years. It is a model, too, that will provide a basis for many variations. For instance, there's the original in a tiny blue polka-dotted printed batiste with plain white yoke and cuffs. For honest-to-goodness hardy wear, ginghams, cotton broadcloth, pique and percale are lovely. For the 4-year size, it takes but 1¾ yards of 35-inch material with ½ yard of 32-inch contrasting.

Style No. 2510 is a simple and neat bloomer dress. The front and the back of the dress are gathered to tiny yokes that form puffed sleeves. A red and white batiste print with red bindings and plain white trim is fetching for small folk of 1, 2, 4 and 6 years. It takes but 2¼ yards of 35-inch material with ⅜ yard of 35-inch contrasting for the 4-year size.

Style No. 3302 is a dainty little French model in blue and white dimity, yet it is as simple as tiny girl would like it to be for play hours. The inset yoke and frilling are white organdie. The circular cut skirt gives emphasis to the brief bodice. It comes in sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. The 4-year size takes but 1½ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

Our New Fashion Magazine points the way to better dress and will help you economize. You can save $10 in patterns, materials, &c., by sending 10 cents for this book to Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-third street, New York City.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

She Cured a Husband.

DEAR FRANCES M'DONALD: Please get the inclosed to Cynthia. It may help her with her grouchy husband. Her description fits, in many ways, the man I married. I also have felt that longing for "peace at any price," but would not apologize for his imagined wrongs or my unintentional hurts.

I bore with the grouches until my love seemed dead, finally not caring what he thought I dare to assert myself and to utter amazement it worked. We had scenes, of course, but now when I see him settling into one of his self-indulgences, I burst out and say all that in former years I was afraid to put into words.

Even if, as often happens, I have done something to upset him, I simply tell him that I am tired of his antics and have stood all I intend to. That now always ends the disturbance and sometimes he has actually said he didn't mean it that way, &c., or says something and the atmosphere is cleared for weeks.

We have been married 26 years (I can hear Cynthia groan), and also have three children. Needless to say, I have thought of leaving him, but did the same thing instead, as Cynthia has done—filled my life with things and people that interest me and keep me happy, despite my husband. Now that I meet his grouches immediately with a flare-up, I am able to live a more peaceful existence and the children and our friends find our home a better place.

Try it Cynthia. You may be at your wits' end, but not licked. A.R.

Dear Miss McDonald: Let all the women who have these surly brutes for mates give ear. They are one and all just self-centered morons trying to get undeserved attention. Naturally the average human being shrivels at the thought of any sort of conflict and so it is not strange that a woman will give in to such a situation for the sake of peace. And believe me when she does she is done for.

My father was such a person. From babyhood I was a nervous wreck in a home where life was all but suspended when he was staging one of his fits. As time went on I grew to hate him. I asked my mother why she did not leave him. (They often did not speak for months at a time.) She was aghast at the thought. Time passed. I was out of college and teaching, but living at home. He met with financial difficulties—due to his disposition he could never get along with any one, and one partner after another drew out of his business. It was necessary for me to remain at home and help financially; so one night I announced that I was staying until he next staged a scene. On that day I would walk out and lead my own life. No one has ever heard a peep out of him since.

Of course, he still imposed on mother when I was not around, but he has done no sulking and no yelling since. And that was four years ago. Think of my mother submitting to such a bully all her married life, allowing us to be the victims of his nasty disposition, when all that was needed was to show him that no one cared what he did or what he thought. I still despise him, of course, and so does my mother.

ST. GABRIEL'S FETE OPENED BY PARADE

Four Bands Lead Procession 1 Mile Long; Carnival Ends June 11.

The annual carnival of St. Gabriel's Church opened last night with a mile-long parade, four blaring military bands, providing snappy tunes for several thousand marchers, who filed in holiday spirit past thousands of sidewalk watchers in upper Northwest Washington.

Marshaled by Lieut. Col. J. J. Staley, United States Marine Corps, the parade covered a course through Petworth and adjoining sections of about 2 miles. Scores of gaily decorated private cars, many crowded with pretty girls, were in the parade.

A number of beautifully designed floats, sponsored by various commercial firms, were in the parade. A large section of adult and children parishoners also were in the procession.

Children of the parochial school decked in fancy and funny costumes, provided an interesting unit of the parade. Two bicentennial floats, one on a motor van and the other propelled by the children, were in this section.

Bands included the Elks Band, the Washington Boys' Independent Band, the Holy Comforter Band and the St. John's College Band. The entire St. John's College cadet corps made up the first section of the marchers. Capt. Ira Sheetz, of the Tenth Police Precinct, had charge of police arrangements, and carnival officials were highly complimentary of his handling of the affair.

Thousands jammed the carnival grounds last night, making merry with various devices. The whirl-a-tilt, a ride for young and old, and the "auto-bable," a new type of merry-go-round for the kiddies, attracted particular attention, although the numerous other usual features were not neglected.

The carnival will continue through June 11. A nightly band concert will be held and special features will be provided each evening.

Southeast Center Play On Thursday

Comedy, Entitled "Her Gloves," Will Be Given; Dancing to Follow.

The last event of this season to be offered by Southeast Community Center, of which Mrs. M. W. Davis is community secretary, will be a program on Thursday evening, comprising a play and dancing, beginning at 8 o'clock. The event will take place in Buchanan auditorium, Thirteenth and D streets southeast. Mrs. H. J. Cournyn, assistant community secretary, is in charge of arrangements.

The play, presented by the Southeast Community Center Drama Club, which is being directed by Mrs. Helen Webb Zeller, well-known radio artist of this city, is a three-act comedy, entitled "Her Gloves," of which Anthony Wills is the author. The players will be Edward Barbeau, Paul Colburn, Clarence Ruebsam, Bill Rigney, Jack Geiger, Brooke Burnett, Betty Whitfield, Clara Kuell, Bertha Cline, and Winifred Watts. Harold Snyder will be in charge of the stage lighting and properties for the play.

Following the play, there will be dancing from 10 to 12 o'clock. The program is open to the public.

Student Rates Set For Outdoor Opera

Special Sections Will Be Reserved at "Aida" Performance.

To afford students of every educational institution in the District an opportunity to witness the outdoor performance of "Aida" in Griffith Stadium next Sunday, Maestro Alfredo Salmaggi, director, announced yesterday that he would make special rates and set aside blocks of tickets for them.

These special arangements will be made on application of teachers in charge, he said. Mr. Salmaggi has presented the opera in many countries. There will be 1,000 persons in the cast, including principals, the orchestra and ballet of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

GLEN ECHO PARK

The new season for the magnificent Crystal Pool at Glen Echo Park opened Saturday and the three-day celebration over Saturday, Sunday and Memorial Day got under way to a fine start. Men, women and children were eager for their first dip in the pool and the management had the entire plant running to perfection, with every service and convenience 100 per cent efficient.

"Landlubbers," of course, flocked to the thrillers, such as the rollar coaster, whip, airplane swing and old mill. Other amusements, too, such as the midway, shooting gallery, "Dodgem Rides," &c., lacked nothing in popularity.

Throughout the park picnic parties held their outings, lured by the beautiful shady spots and complete equipment provided for their convenience. Saturday and last evenings the crowd had the additional diversion provided by McWilliams and his musicians, who gave the dancers all they could desire in the way of tuneful melodies.

Ambassador—"So Big," at 6:15, 8 and 9:50 p. m.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

It is pleasant to observe that this column's enthusiasm over the acting of Lionel Barrymore as Kringelein, in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's picturization of "Grand Hotel," at last has found corroboration from a source that may be looked upon as authentic. Vicki Baum, author of "Grand Hotel," selects Lionel Barrymore's work as the greatest performance in the motion picture version of her famous story, according to an article by her in the current Modern Screen Magazine.

No writer in screen history, it is pointed out, has ever been in quite the position in which Miss Baum found herself when her story made its appearance in talkie form, for here was not a single stellar personality with which to deal, but a group of a half dozen or so of the most notable figures identified with the cinema in America. Naturally, the question that immediately asserted itself was, "Who stole the picture?" To Miss Baum it seemed as if everybody in America wanted her to supply the answer. So she did.

While the German writer has high praise for the entire roster of principals in "Grand Hotel," this is what she has to say about the elder Barrymore:

"I believe Lionel Barrymore's was the greatest performance as a performance, as a portrayal, as art," Miss Baum states. "Of course, he hasn't the beauty of Greta Garbo—even his greatest admirers will admit that; he hasn't Joan Crawford's sex appeal nor Brother John's profile. His body is somewhat too heavy for the role of a man mortally ill. And he had to create a character which is half comic, half tragic, and for whom there was no prototype. When I say that I consider him the greatest actor on the screen today (forgive me, all you other great stars, please!), then I've said all I can say."

This makes it considerably easier for this department, for, after all, we didn't take in quite that much territory. All we ever said was that Lionel Barrymore is the greatest actor in "Grand Hotel"!

And with regard to this hazardous business of bestowing accolades, Percy Hammond, most erudite and literate of Broadway's oracles of the Drama, has been caught up in the seasonal frenzy for selecting the "ten best" of this and that about the playhouse and in the Sabbath prints celebrated what he was pleased to term a "Coronation Day".

"No violent disturbances having been caused by this corner's appointment of Elmer Rice as First Playwright, further laureations will be undertaken" says Mr. Hammond. "Certificates of superiority are therefore awarded to Miss Katherine Cornell as the First Actress, to Leslie Howard as the First Actor, to Gilbert Miller as the First Producer, to Sam H. Harris as the First Revue Impresario, to Ed Wynn as the First Clown, to George Kaufman and Moss Hart as the First Librettists, to George Gershwin as the First Musician, and to Irving Berlin as the First Song Writer. The anointments might be continued to include Miss Lupe Velez as the First Soubrette, and 'Soft Light and Sweet Music' as the First Ballad, but there are already enough possibilities for argument."

You said it, Master Percy!

Although, upon second thought, the nominations of this sage observer seem to be peculiarly immune to successful assault. The only ones we would be tempted to quibble about from this distance would be the Messrs. Howard, Miller and Harris, all of whom would seem to have worthy competitors crowding them perhaps a little closer than the others on the list at the moment find themselves pressed.

Not because this typewriter has any personal interest in it, beyond the normal interest of any commentator in what amounts almost to a freak of the theater, do we keep harping away upon the many unique achievements of "The Barretts of Wimpole Street". The bulletins with which Mr. Ray Henderson so assiduously bombards the dramatic desks of the land, however, seem to me consistently interesting and informative and so most of them at one time or another find their way into print here. For instance, the latest:

"The Theatre World, published in England, states that Rudolf Besier's 'The Barretts of Wimpole Street,' attracted over 112,000 pounds to the box office of the Queen's Theater during its sixteen months' run in London. As many of the performances were given before the gold standard was dropped in that country, this represents about a half million dollars.

"Katharine Cornell, in the same play in 47 weeks in the Empire Theater, New York City, drew nearly twice that amount.

"In her fifteen and a half weeks' tour, including the pre-New York appearances in Cleveland and Buffalo, she has received nearly $400,000. As she still has seven weeks to play on the road it is probable that her gross in the United States will exceed a million and a half dollars for a period of about sixteen months, or three times the receipts of the London company in approximately the same time."

And this is the play that was turned down by virtually every producer on Broadway before Miss Cornell gave it the respectful attention it has demonstrated itself so richly to have deserved!

Wesley Eddy, resident master of ceremonies at Loew's Fox, has decided to inject a little of the intimacy that prevailed during his protracted incumbency at the Palace into the performance of his present contract.

Every Thursday hereafter will be "Request Day" at the Fox. On that day, each week, Mr. Eddy will sing those songs for which the greatest number of patrons have expressed a preference. To facilitate the selection of these popular choices a ballot box will be installed—if it has not already been put in operation—in the lobby, in which the patrons may deposit their slips.

Each Wednesday night Mr. Eddy and Manager Harry W. Crull will act as tellers and count the votes for each song. The ones requested by the greatest number will be sung the next day—by Mr. Eddy, you understand, not Mr. Crull!

And if you think that world premiere of "Flame of Mexico," at the Rialto Friday night, is not going to be the real thing, you are just as good as off your nut—loco to you, hombre!

In addition to high-ranking officials of the Federal establishment and leaders of Washington's society and professional sets, invitations have been sent out to every embassy and legation in Washington—most of which have already been accepted. Thus one of the most brilliant first-night audiences in the Capital's theatrical history seems to be assured.

The current rumor that "Flame of Mexico" is a dramatization of Lupe Velez, I suspect, is without foundation!

But Senorita Alicia Ortiz, its feminine star, according to her photographs, is a gorgeous creature, who, in her various moods and expressions, bears surprising resemblance to Bebe Daniels, Dorothy Sebastian, Estelle Taylor and Madge Bellamy—an all-star cast all by herself!

In case it had slipped your mind, now would be a good time to take in the flag!

"CAPTAIN APPLEJACK," Stephen E. Cochran and Clifford Brooke present the National Theater Players in an Arabian Nights' adventure in three episodes, by Walter Hackett. Directed by Mr. Brooke; settings by Charles Squires. Reviewed by Dorothea Lewis.

THE CAST.

Ambrose Applejohn	Donald Woods
Agatha Whatcombe	Adelaide Hibbard
Poppy Faire	Ona Munson
Lush	Burke Clarke
Anna Valeska	Leona Powers
Ivan Borolsky	Raymond Bramley
Horace Pengard	Freddie Sherman
Mrs. Pengard	Katherine Givney
Dennet	Forrest Orr
Johnny Jason	Karl Nielson

The Players are having field days all this week in Walter Hackett's somewhat juvenile, but g-r-rand and hilariously melodramatic "Arabian Nights Adventure," and though at times they seem to have more fun than their audience, the romance and excitement and noise of it all have the house pretty well in their grip before the final curtain.

And right away quick, we want to say, and say empahtically, what a very swell job Mr. Donald Woods turns in, in the dual dilemna of meek young Ambrose Applejohn and that fierce old roustabout of a pirate, Capt. Applejack, address, the Spanish Main. Timid or terrible, it's aces, all aces, to his account this week.

If you've never wanted to rescue a beautiful woman in distress (preferably a foreign princess), if you've never wanted to scuttle a ship or two and find secret panels and hidden treasure, you won't want to see "Capt. Applejack." It'll be so much wasted roaring and racing to you. But if you have wanted all these things which Applejack gets, it's grand, vicarious fulfillment.

Ambrose Applejack wanted to sell his just-so ancestral home and desert his methodical life to search for adventure and romance. Then he found the shade of roistering Applejack perching, like the blue bird, on his own doorstep.

To be truthful, the first act is pretty hard to take, because you won't know how to take it. Fairy tales need a little more labelling than this has. But the second act, aboard ship (and an elegant bark she be, thanks to Charles Squires), will swing you into the spirit of the affair, if you can be swung. There'll be some who can't, and we see their point, too. The third act is the best, by far.

Leona Powers is a most intriguing adventuress, Russian in the first act, Portuguese in the second, and just plain wrong end of town in the third. Ona Munson is a thoroughly delectable, dumb little Poppy Faire, Ambrose's ward and good old Freddie Sherman is merrily welcomed back as an oily soothsayer and a very sing-song Chinaman, both well played.

Playing Borolsky, a part rather overdrawn in its writing, Raymond Bramley really should have abstained from overplaying, but he doesn't—to the detriment of the production. An accompaniment of grunts, wheezes and bellows is a bit out of place for a role labeled throughout for suavity.

Katherine Givney, looking very handsome; Adelaide Hibbard, Forrest Orr, Burke Clark and Karl Nielsen complete the cast.

And in Lush, the butler, the Applejohns have the perfect servant, ever ready for duty and emergencies—fully dressed when roused at two in the morning!

The audiences may not bring the house down, this week, but the Players may raise the roof.

GAYETY

"WASHINGTON FOLLIES." Burlesque and vaudeville presented by Jimmy Lake. Reviewed by W. L. Wright.

True to his promises, Jimmy Lake's own show, "The Washington Follies," is the best of the year.

A pleasing combination of old-time burlesque and snappy vaudeville, played to a full house last night, sent all away singing the praises of the genial Jimmy.

Four top-notch comedians, the best obtainable, are on this bill. Harry Steppe, Billy Fields, Jimmie Dugan and "Chuck" Callahan are the laugh producers. They work exceptionally well together and, with Lew Denny and Ray Parsons lending a hand, there is no lack of fun.

A lavishing blonde, Gladys Clark, who, by the way, displays a nifty figure, made a big hit on her first appearance in Washington this season. She has a cute manner when singing and that along with some hot clarinet playing made her a big favorite. Her whirlwind dances and dramatic finale brought down the house.

Jeannette Alabassie, the Reed sisters and little "Buddy" Nichols scored in many excellent numbers.

With the old master, Jimmy himself as M. C., the second part of this big show gets under way with John Quigg and his accordion doing the honors. Quigg, as always, stops the show. Other acts that pleased are Arthur Dorsey, singer; Bob Moore, tumbling; and Mike Casey, an old favorite.

Two young colored lads, Boso and Nemo, scored heavily with "hot" syncopations on improvised instruments. The best of the evening was the Wong Long Trio, Chinese lads, featured in songs and instrumental numbers. Very good and very funny.

Jimmy Lake also announced a special benefit performance for Thursday night at 11:30. Augmenting his regular show will be the entire Howard Theater revue and many other acts. The entire proceeds go to the needy war veterans.

Polish School Children Honor American Fliers

Lvov, Poland, May 30 (A.P.).—Polish school children placed flowers and American flags on the graves of the American aviators who perished in 1920 while defending Poland against the Bolsheviks as members of the Kosciuszko Escadrille. They were Capt. Arthur Kelly, of Michigan, and Capt. Arthur MacCullum and Lieut. Edmund Graves of Massachusetts.

Maj. Elmer Yeager, military attache of the United States Embassy, represented his Government at the memorial exercises.

LANE HEADS POSTAL CLERKS OF VIRGINIA

Representative Mead Chief Speaker at Banquet of Association.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 523.

The annual meetings of the Virginia State Federation of Postoffice Clerks, the Women's Auxiliary and the Virginia State Association of Postal Supervisors, all of which met in Alexandria yesterday, closed with the election of officers for the ensuing year and a banquet last night at the Lee-Jackson High School.

Leslie C. Lane, of Alexandria, was chosen president of the Federation of Postoffice Clerks; H. D. Clapp, of Richmond, first vice president; W. N. Showalter, of East Radford, second vice president; C. J. Terresl, of Norfolk, third vice president; Louis Hicks, of Lynchburg, fourth vice president; O. L. Powers, of Quantico, fifth vice president, and J. B. Bryant, of Richmond, secretary and treasurer.

For the Women's Auxiliary, Mrs. V. W. Wellman, of Danville, was elected president; Mrs. J. W. Nixon, of Norfolk, first vice president; Mrs. Leslie C. Lane, of Alexandria, second vice president, and Mrs. Helen T. Rogers, of Norfolk, secretary and treasurer.

For the Association of Postal Supervisors, Coleman Weiss, of Norfolk, was reelected president; W. T. Mumford, of Newport News, was chosen vice president, and Halph B. Hanna, of Norfolk, secretary and treasurer.

The Postoffice Clerks and Auxiliary will meet next year in Danville, May 30, and the Postal Supervisors will meet in Richmond on the same date.

The banquet program included addresses by Representative James M. Mead, chairman of the House committee on postoffices and post roads, and Thomas F. Flaherty, secretary and treasurer of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks, who also acted as toastmaster. The invocation was by the Rev. Hugh McFadden, of St. Mary's Catholic Church. Other addresses were by Thomas V. Keenan, of Philadelphia, district organizer of the Postoffice Supervisors, and Mrs. Agnes Wilkinson, treasurer of the National Women's Auxiliary, of Washington.

There were piano selections by Mrs. Annah Meeks, dances by Misses Harriet and Jane Hulfish; an address by A. M. Simpson, postoffice inspector; reading by Mrs. W. E. Dunn, a specialty by Miss Mildred Cherot, and a dance specialty by Miss Margaret Eddington.

Roger D. Clark was chairman of the convention committee and other members were Elmore Mudd, Thomas M. Cragg, Mrs. Lydia L. Spofford, Miss Lillian P. Hatsell, Elmer J. Ketland, Eugene K. Gorman, Howard W. Raines, Thomas J. McFarland, Robert T. Lucas, and Harry T. Barnett.

Alexandria Post, No. 24, American Legion, held the annual memorial ritual of the legion yesterday at noon in Gadsby's Tavern. Commander John S. Arnold conducted the service and the address was by Dan S. Hollenga.

The memorial committee of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Clyde B. Lanham, chairman, visited the local cemeteries and Arlington and placed flags on the graves of the World War dead who entered the service from Alexandria. Mrs. Lanham and Mrs. Margaret F. Bailey, president of the auxiliary, placed a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington.

The thirty-second annual meeting of the Virginia State Council, Knights of Columbus, will convene this morning in Lyceum Hall for a two-day session. Delegates began arriving yesterday.

The ladies committee in charge includes Mrs. R. L. Carne, Miss Regina Greene, Mrs. J. R. Mulligan, Mrs. B. F. Toulotte, Mrs. W. A. De Vaughan, Mrs. F. T. Quinn and Miss Inez Jenkins.

The funeral of Charles Perry Hammill, of Occoquan, will take place at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Wheatley's funeral home, and burial will be in the Presbyterian Cemetery. Hammill died Sunday in Walter Reed Hospital, Washington.

B. J. Sheridan, of 1014 Prince street, reported yesterday to the police that the gas had been stolen from his automobile while parked in front of his home. Many complaints have been made recently by automobile owners of gas thefts, and the Alexandria police are keeping a sharp lookout for the offenders.

Tomorrow will be the final day for filing personal property and income tax returns with the commissioner of revenue before the penalty is imposed for failure to make returns.

Reds Say Tokyo Seeking Siberia for U. S. War

Moscow, May 30 (A.P.).—The government organ Izvestia today charged certain Japanese elements with seeking an invasion of eastern Siberia to "facilitate Japan's preparations for war against the United States by making available for the Japanese military machine the rich natural resources of Asiatic Russia.

In a sharp warning to Japan not to try to lay her hands on Siberia, the vigorous editorial pronouncement called attention to "recent demands in certain sections of the Japanese press for war against Soviet Russia." Declaring the resources of Manchuria first were sought, Izvestia said that intelligent Japanese public opinion could not be relieved of responsibility for the silence in the face of such a campaign "which might lead to the sending of millions of people to a bloody slaughter."

Chevy Chase Citizens, Section 8, Meet Tonight

A meeting of the Section 8, Chevy Chase, Md., Citizens Association, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School, according to an announcement by Jacob W. Bulger, secretary.

J. Harry Welch, president of the association, will report on the investigation of the administration of the water service by the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission. H. H. Snelling will report on the investigation of the report that Section 8 would be transferred from the Chevy Chase to the Bethesda postoffice for service, which is opposed by the association. Mr. Welch also will report on the attempt to have the sign which says: "You are entering Bethesda" removed from its present place on Wisconsin avenue, which the association claims is misleading.

JAIL DESIGNED FOR 16 IS NOW HOUSING 60

Inmates of Fairfax County Bastile Are Forced to Sleep in Shifts.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST,
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

The old Fairfax County Jail, originally built to house 16 prisoners, now has 60 inmates, and according to those in jail, sleeping is only possible in shifts with all available space taken up for beds.

During the last month all former records of the old county bastile, erected early in the nineteenth century, have been broken. Since May 1, 132 persons have been placed behind its doors for some infraction of the laws, with only 27 cases carried over from the previous month. Most have been locked up for the violation of the Virginia prohibition law. The 60 now in jail are serving sentences ranging from ten days to six months, and nine others have been sent to the State farm or penitentiary. Two persons have been turned over to the Federal Government, and of the other 132 cases only 8 were dismissed for lack of evidence.

The remainder of those arrested have either paid their fines or have completed serving a jail sentence. These figures do not include persons arrested for traffic violations or other minor offenses when the fines were paid immediately.

The cell blocks are overcrowded and for the last several nights some of the prisoners were given cots in the corridors. Early yesterday morning when Sheriff E. P. Kirby was inspecting cots and blankets he discovered a hole dug almost through the brick wall. He stated with about five minutes more digging under cover of darkness the old jail would have witnessed another jail break, for which it is rapidly becoming famous.

During the last week-end fourteen persons were arrested for violation of the prohibition law.

Funeral services for Ira Hutchison, 52 years old, prominent citizen of Fairfax County, will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock in Herndon by the Herndon Masonic lodge. The interment will be in Fairfax Cemetery.

Mr. Hutchison, a lifelong resident of Fairfax County, was closely associated with its political life. He was at one time a Democratic candidate for sheriff, and two years ago was an independent candidate for the Virginia House of Delegates.

He is survived by his wife and three children, Mrs. Lelia Everhart, of Fairfax and two sons, Aubrey and Randolph Hutchison, of Herndon.

Funeral services for Miss Fannie Wrenn, 92 years old, of Chantilly, Fairfax County, were held yesterday in Christ Episcopal Church at Chantilly, conducted by the Rev. Arthur Lee Ribble, rector of St. Timothy's Church at Herndon. Interment was in Chantilly Cemetery.

Miss Wrenn, whose family has long been prominent in the history of the northern portion of the county, had lived all her life near Chantilly. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Kate Wrenn and Miss Roberta Wrenn, of Chantilly.

The music pupils of Mrs. Annie Robey Walker, of Herndon, formerly instructor of music in the Fairfax County schools, will give a recital this evening in the auditorium of the Herndon High School at 8:15 o'clock.

Those taking part in the recital will include Alice May Burton, Mary Lee Harrison, Lytton Linkins, Anne Chamblin, Frances Sue Robinson, Evelyn Groff, Jean Thompson, Caroline Myers, James Beattie, Betty McGuire, Virginia Peck, Ruth McGuire and Isabel Beattie.

The program will include piano solos and duets, vocal solos, duets and a chorus of twelve girls.

Rockville Man's Auto Hurts Hyattsville Boy

James Hickey, 7 years old, of 1 Maple avenue, Hyattsville, Md., was injured yesterday when he was struck by an automobile operated by E. C. Smith, Rockville, Md., on New Cut road, near Hyattsville. Smith was released on his personal bond by Chief of Police Jeremiah Crowley, of Prince Georges County, pending results of the boy's injuries.

The boy was given first aid and taken to Sibley Hospital by the Riverdale unit of the Prince Georges Rescue Squad. He was treated for a fractured kneecap and lacerations on the forehead and right hand.

Bladensburg Flood Is Laid To Inadequate Drain Pipes

Water which backed up in the Eastern Branch and inadequate piping from a mill race were responsible for the recent floods that inundated Bladensburg, members of the State Roads Commission have decided after a survey of the dredging done last summer by the commission.

No further work on relieving flood conditions was ordered, pending completion of a survey now in progress. It was learned that the roads through the village will not be raised if any cheaper way of avoiding interference with traffic can be found. Engineers of the War Department had recommended that Baltimore boulevard and Defense highway be raised above the level of the flood waters to keep traffic flowing.

The commission also modified the plan for the widening of Rhode Island avenue between Mount Rainier and Hyattsville. It was decided not to pave the land between the car tracks in Brentwood, but this change does not affect the plan to pave the center of the street in Mount Rainier when the right-of-way controversy is settled.

A 22-foot macadam road will be built along the south side of the car tracks from Eldridge avenue to Hill street in Brentwood. Crossovers will be built at Haldeman avenue and Bunker Hill road, and the present one at Eldridge avenue will be enlarged.

WOMAN AX-WEILDER SLAIN BY POLICEMAN

Justifiable Homicide Ruling of Arlington Coroner After Killing.

ARLINGTON COUNTY,
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Attacked with an ax by Fannie Grimes, colored, near Relee, East Arlington, early yesterday, Ernest Miller, of the Arlington County police force, shot and instantly killed the woman.

Coroner Dr. B. H. Swain issued a certificate of justifiable homicide.

Miller, with County Officers John R. Burke and James Scott, had gone to the woman's home, where, they had been informed, they might find Willie Lee, colored, who early Sunday is alleged to have shot and killed Willie Williams, colored, on the dump near Washington Airport.

According to Sheriff Howard B. Fields, Miller, Scott and Burke had gone to the Grimes home looking for Lee. While Miller went to the back door, Burke and Scott went to the front door. Without warning, Miller says, the back door opened and some one rushed at him with an ax. He drew his gun and when the person struck at him again he fired. Not until the two other officers arrived from the front of the house and used their flashlights did Miller know whom he had shot.

Although all roads to the National Cemetery were lined with hundreds of automobiles from early yesterday until late afternoon, not a single accident was reported by Sheriff Howard B. Fields last night.

There will be a meeting of the Arlington Citizens Association tonight at 8 o'clock in the auditorium of the Patrick Henry School.

The Byrd road act will be the principal subject of discussion.

The Lyon Park Citizens Association will hold its monthly meeting tomorrow night in Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

The adequacy of bus transportation to Washington will be discussed by a representative of the Arlington-Fairfax Transportation Co.

Mrs. Sade Catherine Coles, of Cherrydale, will be heard over station WJSV this evening at 8:45 o'clock. Mrs. Coles will be assisted in her musical program by the choir of the Clarendon Presbyterian Church, with Mrs. Fannie Butler at the piano.

The monthly meeting of the Arlington Volunteer Fire Department will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the firehouse. Plans will be discussed for the firemen's annual carnival to be held the week of July 11.

DOUBLE LOSS TO A'S SENDS NATS TO THIRD PLACE

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

MR. TOM KEARNEY'S latest quotations are at hand and this department is passing on a nationally-known bookmaker's slant at the probable outcome of various important sporting events.

Mr. Kearney, be it known, will lay you odds on anything from the moon's relation to the tides to the winner of the presidential derby in November and he is offering currently his slate on the big league pennant races, the Schmeling-Sharkey fight, the Epsom Derby, and the American Derby.

The appraising eye of Mr. Kearney, who holds forth on the St. Louis banks of the Mississippi, has established the Philadelphia Athletics as the favorites to win the American League pennant, and the New York Giants, Chicago Cubs and St. Louis Cardinals cofavorites in the National League. His slate on the pennant races follows:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

	First.	Second.	Third.
Philadelphia	even	1 to 5	out
New York	3 to 2	1 to 4	out
Washington	5 to 2	3 to 5	out
Cleveland	12 to 1	3 to 1	even
St. Louis	20 to 1	6 to 1	2 to 1
Detroit	20 to 1	6 to 1	2 to 1
Chicago	100 to 1	30 to 1	6 to 1
Boston	200 to 1	50 to 1	10 to 1

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

	First.	Second.	Third.
New York	5 to 2	even	out
Chicago	5 to 2	even	out
St. Louis	5 to 2	even	out
Boston	10 to 1	3 to 1	even
Cincinnati	10 to 1	3 to 1	even
Broklyn	20 to 1	6 to 1	2 to 1
Pittsburgh	30 to 1	7 to 1	3 to 1
Philadelphia	100 to 1	30 to 1	6 to 1

Mr. Kearney's appraisal of the Schmeling-Sharkey fight next month is reflected in the odds of 7 to 10 offered against the German with Sharkey held at even money.

For the English Derby tomorrow, Kearney has established the American-owned Orwell as the choice at 3 to 2 with his book as follows:

	First.	Second.	Third.
Orwell	3 to 2	7 to 10	out
Miracle	6 to 1	2 to 1	even
Dastur	8 to 1	3 to 1	3 to 2
Hesperus	10 to 1	4 to 1	2 to 1
Cockpen	10 to 1	4 to 1	2 to 1

Grouped at odds of 20, 8 and 4 are Spencer, Firdaussi, Loanindale, Rolling Rock and Bulandshar.

Held at 30, 10 and 5 are Portofino and Colorario. The others among the 28 entries range from 40 to 1 to 100 to 1.

Burgoo King is Mr. Kearney's choice for the American Derby at Arlington June 18, with the surprising Evening the second favorite despite the fact that the colt was nominated for neither the Preakness nor the Derby. His book follows:

	First.	Second.	Third.
Burgoo King	3 to 1	3 to 2	7 to 10
Evening	4 to 1	2 to 1	1 to 1
Boatswain	4 to 1	2 to 1	1 to 1
Tick On	8 to 1	4 to 1	2 to 1
Top Flight	8 to 1	4 to 1	2 to 1

Grouped at odds of 10 to 1, 5 to 1, and 5 to 2 are Pompeius, Osculator, Economic, Stepenfetchit, and Universe.

In the 20, 10, and 5 classification are Prince Hotspur, On Post, Curacao, Mad Pursuit, Overtime, and Adobe Post.

At odds of 20, 15, and 17, Kearney holds Faireno, Barcelona Pete, Big Beau, Indian Runner, Mad Frump, Larranaga, Morafir, and Sazerac.

The others are 40 to 100 to 1, pay or play.

AUTH'S WIN AND LOSE.

Auth's divided a double-header with Hose Company, No. 4, played at Martinsburg, W. Va., Sunday. "Lefty" McMahon set the Firemen down with six hits and fanned thirteen batters in the first game to give the Washington nine a 4-3 victory. Auth's also outhit their opponents in the nightcap, but were unable to bunch their blows. Bill Shelton's two home runs featured the slugging.

3 U.S. Women British Golf Survivors

Miss Orcutt, Helen Hicks Eliminated in Upsets.

Miss Van Wie, Mrs. Vare Score Easy 1st Round Wins.

By FRANK H. KING.

SAUNTON, ENGLAND, May 30 (A.P.)—Great Britain's women golfers turned back a wave of invaders in the first round of match play in the British championship today, eliminating four of seven American qualifiers and all five Frenchwomen.

Two Americans, Glenna Collett Vare and Virginia Van Wie, won their matches in the most decisive figures of the day, while Mrs. Leona Pressler Cheney squeezed through narrowly. Stunning casualties, however, were Maureen Orcutt, who won the qualifying medal with a brilliant total of 151, and the United States champion, Stocky Helen Hicks.

Playing as if tired from her fine medal rounds, Miss Orcutt lost to Jean Hamilton, little known but steady stroking English girl, 2 and 1, without ever really finding her real game.

Miss Orcutt Falters On Last Nine.

Miss Orcutt took 43 strokes on the first nine, turning with a lead of one up as Miss Hamilton shot a 44, but five 5's and a six in the eight holes played on the incoming nine left her at the English girl's mercy.

Conversely Miss Hicks, courageous match player from Hewlett, N. Y., played just as good golf as did Mrs. Vare and Miss Van Wie, but she had the misfortune to catch Doris Park when the Scottish girl was approaching perfectly and putting in deadly fashion. Miss Hicks went out in 38 to hold Miss Parks even, but could not match five straight 4's and two 5's on the way in to lose 3 and 2.

Midwesterners Eliminated.

Mrs. Harley Higbie, of Detroit, lost to Mrs. J. B. Watson, of Scotland, 6 and 4, and Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, was eliminated by Mrs. J. H. Todd, Irish internationalist, 2 and 1, to complete the American casualty list.

Playing at the top of her game, Miss Van Wie crushed Jean McCulloch, Scottish champion, 8 and 6, and Mrs. Vart, five times United States women's champion, walloped Mrs. George Coats, of Troon, 7 and 6, but the most thrilling victory of the day went to Mrs. Cheney, third American survivor, who conquered Doris Chambers, British title holder in 1923, on the eighteenth green.

Mrs. Cheney 3 Down On Fourteenth.

Mrs. Cheney's cause appeared hopeless as she came to the fourteenth green three down with only five to play. Miss Chambers apparently believing her lead foolproof, went boldly for the pin with a long putt, missed, missed again, and lost the hole. Before she could recover, Mrs. Cheney won the fifteenth and sixteenth to square the match, halved the seventeenth, a one-shotter, and won out with a neat par 4 on the eighteenth.

Enid Wilson, defending champion, defeated Lulu Esmond, 7 and 6, and then went on to play out the 18 holes in 72 strokes.

Miss Van Wie meets Miss Tolhurst in the second round tomorrow and Mrs. Vare opposed Mrs. John Challen, of Blackwell, who beat Mrs. Hugh Percy 3 and 1 today. Mrs. Cheney will play Jean Hamilton with an opportunity for averaging Miss Orcutt's defeat.

Umpire Moriarty Fights Four Chisox, Breaks Hand

Cleveland Players Halt Melee After Gaston Is Felled.

GEORGE MORIARTY.

CLEVELAND, May 30 (A.P.)—George Moriarty, burly American League umpire and product of the old rough-and-tumble days of baseball, battled four Chicago players today before he went down and was rescued by members of the Cleveland Team.

While Moriarty and Bill Dinneen, the other umpire, refused to discuss the battle, Indian players, in a report to General Manager Billy Evans, charged that Charley Berry, Sox catcher, challenged Moriarty to fight after accusing the umpire of "missing a strike."

The Cleveland players, Luke Sewell, Howard Shanks and Bruce Connatser, said Moriarty asked them not to hold him back, offering "to fight the whole White Sox Team."

"Milton Gaston then stepped up," the Indians said, with 'You might as well start with me.'" Moriarty struck twice, knocking Gaston to the dressing room floor and breaking his hand on Gaston's jaw.

In the melee that followed, the Indians said, Moriarity, who once soundly whipped Ty Cobb, was knocked down and pummeled by four or more Chicago players, including Manager Lou Fonseca, Gaston, Berry and Frank Grube, a catcher.

While he was still on the floor, the Indians said, Dinneen came up, but Moriarty warned him not to interfere. The Cleveland men rescued Moriarty before Dinneen could take a hand in the fight.

Moriarty was in a hospital for a while tonight with several spike cuts and bruises as well as a broken hand.

Fonseca charged that Moriarty "deliberately brought on the fight by sneering at the Chicago players all day," and that the umpire issued the first challenge to fight.

Roger Peckinpaugh, Cleveland manager, refused to discuss the fight, as he did not see it, while Evans had only the information given him by the players.

The dispute followed Moriarty's calling a ball on Averill in the ninth inning of the second game just before Averill tripled, breaking up the game and leading to a 12-to-11 victory by

U. S. WINNER IN LAST 2 SINGLES

Rout of Australians Is Completed by Vines, Shields.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30 (A.P.)—America's challengers for the Davis Cup completed their rout of the Australians in the North American zone final by winning the two singles events which remained today, and sending the visitors home without one victory in the five-match tournament.

Frank X. Shields, in brilliant form, turned back Jack Crawford, Australian ace, in a duel that went the full five sets. Then H. Ellsworth Vines defeated Harry Hopman, dropping only one set on the way, and that a 20-game affair.

3,000 Applaud Hopman's Rally.

Hopmar looked much the novice when Shields went through him in straight sets Friday, but he drew frequent applause from the gallery of 3,000 by a turnabout of form today, although Vines defeated him, 6—2, 9—11, 6—4, 6—4.

The Shields-Crawford encounter, which resulted 6—4, 7—5, 4—6, 3—6, 6—2, started off brilliantly with both men in top form. Midway in the first set, however, Crawford's stroking went awry and he failed to recover until late in the second one. The next two sets found the curly-haired blond forcing the play with the American falling into repeated errors.

In the last set, however, Shields snapped out of his slump, attacked behind his powerful service and ran through his opponent in short order.

The 5-to-0 sweep of Australia leaves the United States with its 1932 Davis Cup slate unblemished as it prepares to meet Brazil at Forest Hills, Long Island, next month. The Americans dropped not a match in their previous encounters with Canada and Mexico.

On the basis of the team's play so far there seems litle doubt that it will defeat Brazil and become eligible to play the winner of the European competition, probably England, for the right to challenge the defending French for the trophy.

Carnera Beaten As 70,000 Look On

Larry Gains, Canadian Negro, Outpoints Italian in London Bout.

London, May 30 (A.P.)—Larry Gains, giant Toronto Negro heavyweight, tonight outpointed Primo Carnera in a ten-round boxing match at White City Stadium. A crowd of 70,000, believed to be the largest ever to witness a boxing match in England, saw the fight.

Carnera, swinging wildly, nearly scored a knockout in the seventh round when he landed several blows flush on Gains' chin. The Canadian Negro came back strong, however, scoring repeatedly with left hooks in the final rounds. The decision was loudly cheered by the crowd.

TIGERS WIN 2 TO GAIN 2D PLACE

Get 21 Hits in First Victory, 17-9; Take Second, 4-0.

ST. LOUIS, May 30 (A.P.)—The Detroit Tigers went into second place in the American League by defeating the St. Louis Browns in both games of a double-header today, taking the first game by a score of 17 to 9, and the second, 4 to 0.

The Tigers got 21 hits off three St. Louis pitchers in the first game, three of them home runs. In the second game, Bridges won a pitchers' duel over Hebert, although the Browns outhit the Tigers, 7 to 6.

Richmond Motorcyle Mishap Kills Rider

Richmond, Va., May 30 (A.P.)—Hiram Thompson, of Los Angeles, was almost instantly killed this afternoon in the first motorcycle race of the Memorial Day program here. The motorcycle apparently collapsed as he attempted to make a turn.

At the time Thompson was leading in the race, a 3-mile event. Thompson died before an ambulance could carry him to a hospital. The motorcycle fell on the rider, crushing his head.

A short time earlier Thompson had made the fastest time in the time trials.

survived the strenuous competition of nerve, mechanical stamina and daring speed. One by one the 26 others dropped out of the race because of motor trouble or exciting smashups.

Billy Arnold, 27-year-old Chicagoan and one of today's favorites, escaped dashing to death, just as he did a year ago, when his car, speeding more than 100 miles an hour, crashed into the high retaining wall on the dangerous north turn, torpedoed to the top of the banked turn and hung there, a twisted wreck.

Arnold miraculously escaped with a broken collar bone while his mechanic, Spider Matlock, of Chicago, sustained a broken pelvis bone. It was just a year ago that Arnold crashed almost into the same spot in a smashup that sent him to the hospital for six months.

Today Arnold set out determined to triumph and he bounced into the lead, while the huge crowd of 140,000 to 150,000 gasped in excitement of his daring driving. At the time of the crash Arnold was tearing along on his 150th mile with a comfortable lead to his credit.

Al Gordon, of Long Beach, Calif., was another victim of a crash, but he luckily escaped injury. The race had no sooner started, after Edsel T. Ford, of Detroit, sent the drivers flying on their way, when Gordon's car went over the wall as the racers were starting their second lap.

South American Forced Out.

The only foreign invader, Juan Guadino, of Buenos Aires, met with complete failure. The dashing young South American was forced to surrender, after his car, an American built 8-cylinder, developing trouble from the start, had traveled only 175 miles. Guadino bruised and sore from the bumping he received in jolting over the 2½ mile brick course, was forced to yield his seat to a relief driver after going 66 laps. Guadino was heart broken over the failure of his car to perform up to expectations.

By his triumphs, Frame finds himself in a position to cash in about $250,000. He received $20,000 as first prize and will pick up other thousands racing this season as the winner of the motor classic always is a major attraction on the dirt courses of the Nation.

Frame, a capable, experienced driver, was a dangerous threat every inch of the way and never was worse than tenth at any time. He took the lead on the last 150 miles, snatching it away from Wilbur Shaw, of Indianapolis, who was forced to stop at the pits for supplies and had trouble starting again, losing nine minutes before he could get back on the track.

Last 100 Miles Is Daring Duel.

In the last 100 miles Frame and Wilcox staged a daring duel of driving skill; at one time only eight seconds separated them. As they swung into the 400 miles, Frame was a lap ahead of Wilcox, with Bergere holding down third place. Hall was fourth, two laps behind Frame, and Shaw had dropped back to fifth place, five laps in the rear and then a few seconds later dropped out of the race because of a broken axle.

The position of 450 miles was the same with Frame leading Wilcox by the margin of seconds, Bergere third and Hall fourth.

Frame, driving carefully now and taking no chances, began to slow down his speed in the last 5 miles, tearing along at less than 100 miles an hour, but always with his mechanic, Harry Hauck, keeping an eye peeled over his shoulder for the whereabouts of Wilcox. Frame kept plugging ahead, maintaining a lead of a mile, while the frantic Wilcox stepped on the gas in an effort to overtake him.

Frame Maintains His Lead.

But Frame knows his racing and he kept the youthful Wilcox in the background, while he roared on to victory to the acclaim of shouting thousands.

Frame drove every inch of the way, his powerful hands clutching the wheel and his eyes peering out from his grease-smeared face, always looking straight ahead. He made only three stops at the pits to take on gas and oil and change tires. Before Frame snatched the lead and refused to yield it, the race was a seesaw affair, with a dozen leading. First it was Arnold, then it was Shaw, and then Carey, with Hall edging into the lead for a few laps, and finally Ernie Triplett, of Los Angeles, taking his turn.

QUITE A HURDLER.

George Saling, stellar University of Iowa high hurdler who has tied the world record, recently ran the 220 low hurdles in 23.4 seconds.

Max Baer in Training at Reno For Fight and Divorce Suit

RENO, Nev., May 30 (A.P.)—Max Baer, Livermore, Calif., heavyweight, said today he seeks a divorce as well as a fight with King Levinsky, of Chicago, here in July.

Arriving in Reno to go in training for his match with Levinsky Independence Day, the California battler announced he would establish residence to divorce the former Dorothy Dunbar Well de Garson.

The couple married here last July 8 following Baer's defeat by Paulino Uzcudun in a twenty-round fight.

"Dorothy's a swell girl," said Max, "but I've decided she'll be better off without me."

Baer was 22 years old at the time of the marriage while, according to his mother, who at first objected, the bride was 38. Baer is her third husband.

The fighter and his wife separated several weeks ago in Oakland. He announced then it was a temporary matter caused by poor health of Mrs. Baer. She is living in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Pitching Need Forecasts Nat Deal

Trade Rumors Center on MacFayden, of Red Sox.

Special to The Washington Post.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 30.—There is a strong rumor around Washington Club headquarters here that a deal bringing Pitcher Danny MacFayden, of the Red Sox, to the Nats, will be consummated before the present week ends. According to reports, Manager Walter Johnson has convinced President Clark Griffith that the Nats' only chance of winning the pennant this year depends upon getting another experienced flinger immediately.

Bob Quinn, president of the Red Sox, wants valuable material and considerable cash for MacFayden, it is understood, and for this reason a deal was not made some time ago. Now, it seems, Johnson has convinced the Nats' owner that he should be willing to do a little gambling and that if he does not do it now he might just as well not do it at all.

Nats a Strong Club Except In Box.

Despite their lack of "power" hitting, the Nationals, because of their good defensive and ability to average a few runs a game, are a hard team to beat when they get good pitching, and Johnson believes that just one more capable boxman will give him enough to carry on successfully. Add MacFayden to Crowder, Brown and Weaver, and Johnson thinks his team will finish mightly close to the top of the heap.

Just what Griffith will have to give for MacFayden is not known. It is understood that the Red Sox seek First Baseman Joe Kuhel, but that the Nats are afraid to let him go for fear Judge will give out when the hot weather arrives. And so rumors have Judge tagged to go if the predicted deal goes through.

None of these conjectures can be confirmed, but it is apparent that something is in the air.

Johnson Hard Pressed For Pitchers.

With Carl Fischer ill and Fred Marberry and Bob Burke ineffective, Johnson surely is up against it for flingers. He was forced to use both against teams he rates as the Nats' keenest rivals yesterday and today, and will have to call on Frank Ragland against the Mackmen here tomorrow. Needless to say, he does not consider this an ideal spot to have a rookie make his starting debut, but he has no other hurler available.

Fortunatly for the Nats, the Athletics are using a rookie, Tony Freitas being listed to make his first appearance on the hill for the natives. He is a small southpaw recently obtained from Sacramento for a big roll of bills and Pitcher Jimmy De Shong. He has been one of the best flingers in the Coast League for the past two seasons but was passed up by scouts until now because of his small stature. He is 22 years old and 5 feet 7 inches tall.

ORANGE RAMBLERS LOSE.

Majestic Radio earned a pair of victories at Orange, Va., yesterday, where it defeated the Orange Ramblers, 3 to 1 and 9 to 7, in a double header. Carter and Dixon hurled for the victors.

Marberry and Crowder Victims of 6 Home Runs In Twin Defeat, 13-2, 8-6

Grove Holds Nats to Six Hits as Long-Distance Barrage Wipes Out Lead; Simmons and Dykes Each Hit 2 Homers.

Foxx's Circuit Clout With 2 on in Seventh Wins Second Game; Tigers Climb Into Second Place by Double Win.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Post Staff Correspondent).

SHIBE PARK, Philadelphia, Pa., May 30.—The Nationals and 27,000 fans, 15,000 at the morning game, observed Decoration Day here today and they also observed a flock of Philadelphia home runs which cost them two decisions. The Athletics took the morning engagement, 13 to 2, and then gained an afternoon verdict, 8 to 6.

The American League standings were considerably shuffled by the day's events, the double defeat toppling the Nats into third place, a half game behind the Tigers who assumed second with a twin victory over St. Louis. New York's two wins at Boston increased the Yankees' margin over the Nats to five full games, while the Athletics are but a half game behind Washington.

Eight homers were made during the day. Simmons added Nos. 8 and 9 to his quota in the morning game, in which Dykes also hit two and Coleman one, while Foxx's seventeenth came in the afternoon session with two on. It overcame a Washington two-run lead and practically decided the issue. Bluege and Manush hit round-trippers in this latter game, but no mates were on the runways on either occasion. All that these circuit clouts did for the A's during the day was to drive home eleven runs in the opener and three in the second.

Nats Take Lead In Each Game.

Lefty Bob Grove and George Earnshaw did the Macks' pitching, and each granted the Nats a two-run lead and yet kept plugging away to earn victory. Fred Marberry was soundly pounded in the morning fracas, with "General" Al Crowder knocked off the hill in the afternoon in favor of Lloyd Brown.

Grove held the Nats to six hits, totaling eight bases, in the morning contest, while all the Mackmen did to Marberry was to crack out fourteen bingles for the staggering total of 32 bases. Of these blows, Simmons and Dykes poled out two homers each, and another was credited to Coleman. These blows alone drove in eleven runs, all but two of those scored by the Quaker Cityans.

Two of Washington's six bingles came in the opening round, West tripling after Manush had singled and later scoring on Cronin's useful out. Over the balance of the route Grove yielded but four scattered hits; and, except in the ninth, when he hit one and walked one and let both runners advance at will, only one Nat got as far as second.

Reynolds' Double Scores Two.

The Nats started off by getting a two-run lead in the afternoon game when Myer's opening double, a walk to West and Reynolds' two-bagger came in the first round, but the Macks had the string tied when the third ended. Two good stops by Bluege held the aliens to one run in the second after Foxx had opened with a single and Coleman had tripled, but a wild pitch let the tying run score in the third following singles by Cramer and Simmons.

Round four saw the Nats become 2 up again. Singles by Cronin and Judge and a walk filled the bases with one out, and one runner scored on Spencer's tap in front of the plate, Cochrane getting the ball but failing to get back to the plate in time. The other came when a pass to Myer forced Judge home. Manush ended the round by fanning with the bases still loaded.

Opening the sixth, Bluege added a fifth Washington run when he drove one of Earnshaw's fast ones into the upper stands in left, and the Macks proceeded to get this right back in their half on Coleman's single and Dykes' double.

Nats' Lead Erased By Foxx's Homer.

Unfortunately for the Nats, Foxx picked out the seventh in which to make a homer. Two were on and two down at the time, the result being that the Nats suddenly found themselves on the small end of the score for the first time during the game.

This snatching away of apparent victory seemed to get Crowder's "goat" and he was pounded out in the next round on a single by McNair, a triple by Dykes and a double by Earnshaw, all with none out. Brown relieved him, but the game was lost beyond recall by this time.

Cronin was the only Nat to get more than one hit, being credited with a brace of singles, while Earnshaw helped win his own game with two one-shots and a double. In addition to his homer, Foxx had a single, while Bishop, Cramer, Simmons and Coleman added two hits to their record.

WHITE CLOVER 2D, WORKMAN UP, WINS SUBURBAN STAKE

6-1 Shot First In $12,000 Handicap

Circles Field to Beat The Nut, Outsider, by 1½ Lengths.

Sun Meadow Third; Workman Pilots 3 Winners.

BELMONT PARK RACE TRACK, May 30 (A.P.).—Before the largest and most enthusiastic crowd of the metropolitan season, the Foxcatcher Farms' White Clover 2d, a 6-to-1 shot, raced to an easy triumph in the Suburban Handicap of a 1¼ miles here this afternoon.

The consistent 6-year-old gelding scored by a length and a half over the Warm Stable's The Nut, the rank outsider. A like distance behind came K. E. Hitt's Son Meadow, to beat Mate by a half-length for the show.

Raymond (Sunny) Workman rode the winner, and the feat gave him three winners in as many mounts White Clover 2d earned the sum of $12,250, and covered the ten furlongs in 2:03 2-5, under 115 pounds.

Gallant Knight Fades In Last Quarter.

The Audley Farm entry of Rocky News and Gallant Knight, the latter winner of the Dixie Handicap, was installed favorite at even money, but the pair wound up on the tail end of the trail, with Gallant Knight last. He was well up most of the trip, but faded badly under hard urging in the last quarter mile. The favorite cut his tongue and bled slightly, it was discovered after the race, but this hardly could account for his dull effort.

Sun Meadow showed the way for a mile, closely attended by The Nut, which ran one of his best races. Mate and Gallant Knight were in good positions. Workman brought the ultimate winner around the outside of the leaders. Turning for home, his mount slowly but surely began to wear down his rivals. He won going away. Sun Meadow tired, but managed to remain in the picture.

Hilena Wins $5,000 Washington Stake.

Washington Park, Homewood, Ill., May 30 (A.P.).—The Audley Farm Stables' Hilena, making her second start, today won the $5,000 added Debutante Stakes, feature of Washington Park's program.

Hilena jumped into the lead early and held on to beat Nituma by a half length, with Spartan Lady third, a nose back of second place. Hilena was favorite, but paid $8.06 for each $2 straight ticket.

War Saint, F. G. Haller's crack 5-year-old, took the Memorial Day Handicap, for his sixth straight victory. Burning Up was second, with Supreme Sweet third.

JOE AND ASBESTOS (Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code) —By Ken Kling

Asbestos missed his parley yesterday. Although one horse won, the other lost, so he dropped $2 and the roll is $50.94. Joe's handicap system was off color yesterday, too.

WHAT'S TH' MATTER JOE? Y'LOOK LIKE A RICH UNCLE WHO HAD YOU IN HIS WILL, JUST GOT OVER A SICKNESS!
NAW—I'M LONESOME FOR ASBESTOS! I MISS HIM LIKE A HUNK OF CORNED BEEF WOULD MISS CABBAGE!
I GOT IT FROM BUXTON HIMSELF
HE'S BEING HELD FOR $1000.00 RANSOM BY KIDNAPPERS! I EXPECT HIM TO BE RELEASED ANY DAY—MY BOOKMAKER IS GONNA PAY THE RANSOM!
GEE, YOUR BOOKIE MUST BE A REAL PAL OF YOURS
NO—T'AIN'T THAT— BUT ASBESTOS WIRES ME EACH DAY WHAT TO PLAY—AND WE'LL SOON WIN THE THOUSAND FROM THE BOOKMAKER! HIS MESSAGE TODAY SAYS BET $2 each to win, Magnifico and Partisan at Thorncliffe.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVERGOLD, $7.08, $3.36, $3.38; TWEENY, $3.10, $2.68; SUBTLETY, $9.00.

EVERGOLD went to the front soon after the start and, racing as if much the best, drew into a long lead in the last furlong to win in hand. TWEENY, off rather slowly, made up ground to best the others. SUBTLETY was a forward factor from the start. DARWIN also raced in the first flight at the start. RICCIARDO was off slowly.

SECOND RACE—Five furlongs. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:06½. Off at 3:09½. Winner, Mrs. J. H. Whitney's b. c. (2), by Runantell—Talisman. Trained by G. Lang. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $75; fourth, $25. Time, 0:22 4-5, 0:46 4-5, 1:00 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—ST. CHRISTOPHER, $37.44, $15.12, $10.14; GLORITONE, $4.22, $3.02; LOVELY HILLS, $6.60.

ST. CHRISTOPHER, well up from the start, responded gamely to hard urging in the stretch and, taking a good lead in the final sixteenth, held GLORITONE safe. The latter raced fast through the stretch and was gaining on the winner at the end. LOVELY HILLS displayed good early speed, but tired after engaging in a bumping match with SNORKY in the stretch. SNORKY dashed to the front soon after the start, but weakened. LEE GOLD tired badly. MONK'S DUDE raced greenly and was eased up after going a quarter.

THIRD RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,200; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:44½. Off at 3:45. Winner, E. Haughton's ch. h. (5), by Mad Hatter—Cicuta. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:23 2-5, 0:48 4-5, 1:11 3-5, 1:38 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PROSE AND POETRY, $6.10, $4.12, $2.76; PATRICIA MARIAN, $25.78, $7.40; MAD CAREER, $2.54.

PROSE AND POETRY, well rated in the early running, moved up fast approaching the stretch turn and, holding PATRICIA MARION in the run home, was an easy winner. PATRICIA MARIAN saved ground and, taking a short lead when MAD CAREER bore out, held on fairly well when challenged, but was not good enough. MAD CAREER took a short lead soon after the start, but lost his chance when he raced very wide around the far turn. NACHO saved ground and performed fairly well. Others were never serious contenders.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Memorial Day Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:26. Off at 4:29. Winner, F. G. Haller's b. g. (5), by St. James—War Goddess. Trained by B. E. Chapman. Value to winner, $1,100; second, $225; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:22 3-5, 0:45 3-5, 1:11 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WAR SAINT, $5.46, $3.52, $2.72; BURNING UP, $5.48, $3.66; SUPREME SWEET, $3.92.

WAR SAINT sprinted to a contending position soon after the start and, catching SUPREME SWEET tiring in the stretch, had enough left to hold BURNING UP. The latter raced a trifle wide in the stretch, but finished gamely and was wearing down the winner. SUPREME SWEET displayed the most early speed, but weakened. ERVAST went well. JUSTINIAN was outrun all the way. PAUL BUNYAN made up some ground. DON LEON was in close quarters early and never threatened.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $5,000 added. The Debutante. For 2-year-old fillies. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:10. Off at 5:12. Winner, Audley Farm's b. f. (2), by High Cloud—Felina II. Trained by K. Spence. Value to winner, $5,710; second, $1,000; third, $500; fourth, $250. Time, 0:23, 0:47, 1:00 4-5, 1:07.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HILENA, $8.06, $4.42, $3.06; NITUMA, $5.76, $3.42; SPARTAN LADY, $3.56.

HILENA, off rather slowly, was rushed to the front on the outside in the first furlong, opened up a good lead approaching the stretch turn and saved ground rounding the bend, but seemed to tire slightly in the last sixteenth and was doing her best at the end. NITUMA dropped back after breaking well, but came fast in the stretch and was gaining on the winner. SPARTAN LADY showed good form and raced in determined fashion through the stretch to finish close up. TECHNIQUE closed ground. TWO SLIPPER and MISS CAREFUL tired. GIRL GRADUATE made up some ground.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:54. Off at 5:54½. Winner, D. P. Venziano's b. c. (4), by Pot Au Feu—Miss Palatine. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $750; second, $75; third, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48, 1:13 1-5, 1:38, 1:51 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—GARLIC, $23.80, $10.80, $4.90; COME ON, $5.68, $3.48; SUN FIRE, $2.78.

GARLIC got through on the inside at the stretch turn to save much ground, held on well in the final drive, but barely lasted. COME ON raced wide on the stretch turn, but finished strongly and would have won in a few more strides. SUNFIRE, off slowly, moved up fast on the back stretch, swung very wide in the stretch turn and, taken to the inside at midstretch, met with interference, but was going well at the end. He pulled up slightly lame. BRASS MONKEY was going well at the finish. SCOTLAND'S GLORY and WORLDLY LAD were used up making the pace and both tired. HABANERO was in close quarters while making his run in the stretch.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:37. Off at 5:42. Winner, E. May's b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SOUTH SEAS, $8.10, $5.28, $3.82; PUNISHMENT, $25.54, $11.70; CHUM, $3.40.

SOUTH SEAS, racing well up from the start, continued gamely after being headed by PUNISHMENT and, getting to the lead again in the stretch, drew out in last furlong. PUNISHMENT went to the front after leaving back stretch and took a short lead, but could not hold the winner. CHUM was fairly well up all the way and was going gamely at the end. FREIGHT CLERK made up much ground. BEEKEEPER and MASTER OGDEN tired. RESPOND was bumped on the first turn and was in close quarters on back stretch.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: WASHINGTON PARK.

I'm not complaining Al, but there's a sorry lot of young men at this track posing as jockeys. Jimmy Smith, Elston, Allen and King are fair boys, but beyond them are many who are getting too old to do a horse justice, some who are too green to be backed with a feeling of safety and others who are trying to fool the public into believing they can ride. I'll wager that when the real money is up, such as that wad in the American Derby, they'll be shipping Mills, Robertson, Workman, Gilbert, Hanford and the other boys who carried the chief dough in Maryland, to this track by fast trains. BILL.

FIRST RACE—I'd like to decline the responsibility in this sprint for maiden 2-year-olds, but the scratches may reduce it to a betting proposition. SWEEPMORE looks like the best risk, with FLYING FEET and DON CARLOS figuring next best. There isn't a solid wager in the field of twenty.

SECOND RACE—The consistent SILVERDALE has been leading select company for three-quarters in his recent mile efforts and drops down into this 6-furlong affair with a splendid chance. BROAD MEADOWS, which has not yet shown his New Orleans form, is all over the contender and should not be worse than second. JUDGE PRIMROSE may peep.

THIRD RACE—With GOOD SCOUT coupled with BLACK SQUAW, the THREE D ENTRY appears to have a strangle hold on this number. GOOD SCOUT won his only start and may be even better than that. They have the COE ENTRY of POLYGEN and PRINTEMPS to beat, while HELEN BAB, winner of her last start figures in the money.

FOURTH RACE—Off her last race, ELIZABETH FOX appears the class in this race of 3-year-old fillies at a mile, but she will be asked to beat two others who won their last outings in OUR GRIEF and PARTIES. It looks like a rattling contest between these three. ELIZABETH FOX'S stretch running ability is preferred over the early speed of the other two.

FIFTH RACE—Recent trials indicate the return to form of PANSY WALKER, last year's speed marvel, and a duplication of some of those efforts should bring her home ahead of JEAN LIFITTE AND CHICSU. Should the going turn muddy, JEAN LIFITTE would take on added prestige, but the distance should suit PANSY WALKER.

SIXTH RACE—I'm taking WAR GLOW to knock off TRINCHERA winner of five straight in Kentucky and Chicago. The latter has never been the mile distance and WAR GLOW'S Aurora performances can not be overlooked. He finished second in his last out in a good effort. ROWDY BOY, coupled with TRINCHERA as the THREE D ENTRY, is taken for third. The entry doubtless will be favorite, but WAR GLOW prefers the distance.

SEVENTH RACE—A duplication of WATERPORT'S last win at long odds will win this race. LION HEARTED also was a winner last time out but the top horse appears to be returning to his last year's form. He will be ridden by R. Jones. C. Allen will have the leg up on LION HEARTED. IRENE T., also a winner last time out, figures close up, but WATERPORT'S better odds make me lean his way.

Golfers Swarm D. C. Links In Tourneys at 10 Clubs

Olympic Fund Benefits From Holiday Play; Harvey Wins at Indian Spring; Harmon Is Argyle Winner.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

IDEAL weather and the fact that at ten of the local golf clubs yesterday attractive holiday programs were offered led all the courses to be crowded from early morning until late in the evening yesterday.

At the Columbia Club, where there is parking space for over 300 automobiles, the accommodation was insufficient and numerous cars found shelter in adjoining territory. At nearly all the clubs events with $1 entrance fee were staged for the benefit of the Olympic fund and several hundred dollars were realized.

Harvey Wins Tourney At Indian Spring.

At the Indian Spring Club J. William Harvey, jr., shattered the tradition that the medalist can not win a tournament, for he not only captured the medal in the qualifying round of the miniature tournament which was played Sunday and yesterday, but he also emerged victorious in match play, defeating Dr. L. S. O'Tell in the final round on the eighteenth hole. Harvey, who was two down at the turn, was all even with his opponent on the eighteenth tee and won the last hole. The summary:

First flight—J. William Harvey, jr., defeated Dr. L. S. O'Tell, 1 up. Consolation—Wilson Hayes defeated W. H. Dickhout, 1 up.

Second flight—E. A. Merkle defeated Homer S. Pope, 4 and 2. Consolation—H. H. Shinnick defeated H. A. Mihills, 1 up.

Third flight—J. J. Cullinane defeated A. W. Hoover, 1 up. Consolation—Commander G. K. Stoddard defeated T. O. Nichols, 5 and 4.

Fourth flight—C. J. Mattson defeated R. W. Bolwell, 4 and 2. Consolation—James V. Brownell, jr., aged 12 years, defeated D. P. Swope, 2 and 1.

Fifth flight—F. J. Baker defeated C. H. Willingham, 4 and 3. Consolation—W. L. Reynolds defeated bye.

In the blind bogey contest three numbers were to be selected between 69 and 81. Standing on the last tee Louis A. Spiess realized that unless he wasted a lot of strokes on the last hole his net score would not come within the limit. Reaching the green in four strokes, he putted seven times on the last green and finished with 92, which with his handicap of 22 gave him a net 70, which was the first number drawn. The second number was 69 and the lucky winner was J. W. Reese, with 88—19—69. The third winner was C. H. Willingham, with 102—30—72.

In the match play against par for women the winner was Mrs. R. D. White who was 1 down to par. Mrs. J. V. Brownell, 2 down, and Mrs. B. G. Simpich 4 down, won the second and third prizes, respectively.

J. B. Harmon Scores At Argyle Club.

The flag tournament at the Argyle Club was won by John B. Harmon, who holed out on the nineteenth hole with his final shot. The other winners in the order named with W. H. Flannery, Don G. Dudley, George W. Wood, J. W. Smith, Nolan I. Gibson and N. D. Wooten.

Three eagles were scored on the Argyle course yesterday. Anthony Willmett sank an eagle 3 on the first hole, 502 yards with a 10-foot putt after reaching the green with a drive and a spoon. John B. Harmon and Charles Warner both made eagle twos on the fifth hole, 270 yards.

3 Win in Blind Bogey At Congressional.

A bling bogey tournament for the benefit of the Olympic Fund was the attraction at the Congressional Country Club. There were three numbers, 68, 73, and 81, and the winners were as follows:

J. L. Barnhart, 88—20—68; J. F. Meegan, 102—34—68; Mark Lansburgh, 90—17—73; Dr. Don Johnson, 81—8—73; E. H. Hein, 103—30—73; William Ullman, 91—18—73; Mrs. G. L. Moorman, 156—75—81.

The Olympic Fund also profited by a medal play tournament, less handicap, on the course of the Columbia Club. James W. Beller was the winner with 81—18—63, with John W. Guider winner second prize with 84—18—66.

Howard Nordlinger yesterday won the miniature tournament at the Woodmont Club, defeating Milton Harris in the final round, 2 and 1. The summary.

Second round—Milton Harris defeated Albert E. Steinem, 3 and 1; Dr. S. Dewey Gottlieb defeated Leopold V. Freudberg, 2 and 1; Howard Nordlinger defeated Morris Bildman, 1 up; Henry Kaufman defeated L. E. Harris, 1 up.

Semifinal round—Harris defeated Gottlieb, 1 up, 10 holes; Nordlinger defeated Kaufman, 3 and 2.

Final round—Nordlinger defeated Milton Harris, 2 and 1.

Charles Mackall Wins At Chevy Chase.

The Victor Kauffmann Memorial Day cup competition, match play vs. par, at the Chevy Chase Club, resulted yesterday in a victory for Charles Mackall, who with a gross score of 77 and a handicap of 10, was 3 up on par. The runner-up prize was won by D. D. L. McGrew, who was all even. There was a triple tie for third position, C. B. McVay, W. T. Meredith, F. W. Coleman, W. K. Gilbert and J. P. Lannon each being 1 down.

The miniature tournament at the Washington Golf and Country Club was won by Walter R. McCallum, who defeated Reese Hair in the final round, 3 and 2. Nearly 50 players participated in the event, as follows:

First flight—W. R. McCallum, W. B. McCarthy, Don Dougherty, Reese Hair. Winner, McCallum; runner-up, Hair; consolation, Dougherty.

Second flight—E. W. Cushing, T. J. Montgomery, Dale Drain, Paul V. Keyser, L. D. Underwood, J. T. Barnes, D. R. Elmore, E. J. Doyle. Winner, Cushing; runner-up, Elmore; consolation, Drain.

Third flight—J. M. Keith, A. S. Appel, S. B. Hardwick, W. H. Wenzel, J. B. Herron, R. S. Merryman, Dr. S. T. Noland, W. C. Henderson. Winner, Wenzel; runner-up, Herron; consolation, Noland.

PITCHERS' BATTLE SEEN IN VITAL HIGH SCHOOL GAME TODAY

Western Nine Opposed by Eastern

Payne Hopes to Hurl Western to Series Championship.

Lanahan on Mound for Eastern, Seeking Deadlock.

WILD BILL PAYNE and Dick Lanahan, the two greatest high school baseball pitchers developed here in a decade, will fight it out today at Eastern High Field in the final game of the play-off for the high school series championship, with Western and Eastern the schools concerned. The game begins at 3:30 p. m.

Victory for Western today—and the odds are about even either way—will clinch for the Georgetown school its first pennant in nearly a decade. Victory for Eastern will mean that the entire play-off will be cast into a muddle, with Central, Eastern and Western holding records of one win and one loss. Central beat Eastern in the first game, 5-1, and Western crowned Central 21-8 in the second.

Few if any high school experts are risking reputations by predicting the outcome of today's game. If there is a shadow of a favorite it is the fading Eastern team, which was started on its downhill slide by Western in the last game of the regular series, after a four and three-quarter-year reign as champion.

Eastern Enjoys Better Condition.

Eastern probably is in a little better shape than Western. It has not gone through the gruelling schedule the latter team has had in the last two weeks, and should be fresher. Coach Guyon has been staging batting drills by the hours at Eastern Field, with right-handed pitchers dealing them up to the Lincoln Park bats to accustom them to Payne's slants.

The all-high selection of pitcher will hinge on today's game. The teams are almost perfectly matched, so far as the consistency of their infields and outfields are concerned. Western may have a shade in hitting, mostly the work of Reds Mulloch and "Pepper" Martin, but Eastern probably will make that up by the fact that it is playing on a field where every bump and every hollow is a personal friend.

MORIARITY IN FIGHT WITH 4 WHITE SOX

the Indians. The Indians had won the first game 12 to 6.

The battle in the dressing room climaxed a day of hostility. In the first game, George Connally, Cleveland pitcher, rushed at Elias Funk, Sox outfielder, whom he accused of deliberately spiking him. Connally was pulled away by Eddie Morgan, Indian first baseman.

Late in the second game, Fonseca disputed with Moriarty, who had refused to permit Pitcher Hal McKain to soil new balls. Johnny Butler, Sox coach, was banished temporarily as a result of joining the argument.

In the same inning, Willie Kamm pushed Berry roughly aside as the Sox catcher joked about Kamm striking out.

Dorst-Smith Team Wins City Tennis Doubles Title

Service Netmen Beat Sendel-Staubly in 5-Set Finals; Miss Walker Bows to Mrs. Martinez.

THE Army and Navy may be incompatible in several branches of sport, but in tennis they blended perfectly yesterday when Maj. James A. Dorst, U. S. A., and Lieut. Gerald Smith, U. S. N., won the City of Washington doubles championship, beating Frederico Sendel, former Mexican Davis Cup player, and Alan Staubly, a ranking player here, 6—3, 7—5, 4—6, 6—4.

On an adjoining court Mrs. Ruth B. Martinez, perhaps the most publicized school teacher in Washington, stroked her way into the final round of the women's singles tournament by beating Frances Walker, 6—4, 6—2, in a splendid match.

Smith's Volleying Is Feature.

It was the Navy's spice and the everlasting steadiness of the Army that caused the downfall of the seeded No. 1 team in the men's doubles final. Smith, one of the most decisive volleyers the District has seen in several seasons, "poached" far into his partner's court to kill off the returns of the Staubly-Sendel combination.

Maj. Dorst exerted a steadying influence on his partner throughout the match, returning the fiery shots of the losing side with flawless lobs and nicked the baseline itself and topspin drives that scorched the shoestrings of the opponents as they charged the net.

Staubly and Sendel both suffered from overhitting, attempting to kill off shots long before they jocked their men out of position.

Maj. Dorst and Lieut. Smith succeed Tom Mangan and Bud Markey, who did not defend their title. Dorst is an engineer; ~~Smith, a doctor.~~ Both are members of their respective service Leech Cup teams.

Miss Walker Falters In First Set.

Retaliating the full armed drives of Mrs. Martinez with chop strokes that bit deep into the court, Miss Walker raced neck and neck with her long-standing rival until 4 to 4, when she could not longer stand the pace, and fell prey to the corner drives of her opponent. There was no stopping Mrs. Martinez in the second set, although the rallies were often as long as in the first.

The winner is a Latin teacher at Eastern High, while Miss Walker also is a tutor. Mrs. Martinez will play the winner of a match between Alice Davis, daughter of the donor of the Davis Cup, and Reba Kirson, crack Baltimorean.

Miss Davis and Miss Kirson are scheduled to meet at 4 o'clock today at the reservoir courts in a match that is likely to develop the best women's tennis of the year here. Since she defeated the defending champion, Mrs. Charles Stone, Miss Kerson's stock has risen notably. However she will be pitted today against a girl who can hit harder than any woman player ever seen here.

The finals probably will not be played until next Monday. Mrs. Martinez, Miss Kirson, Mrs. Stone and Clara Tabler have received invitations to try out for the Middle Atlantic Sears Cup Team, which meets teams from New England and the New York district this week-end in Philadelphia.

SANDLOT DUST

By taking a double-header from the Northeast Bricklayers yesterday, the Burroughs A. C. scored its third triumph in two days. The Bricklayers were beaten by scores of 14-5 and 19-5. Next Sunday the winners will play the Virginia White Sox.

Wheaton scored a double victory at the expense of the Union Engineers yesterday, winning the first game by the score of 10-1 and the second 27-4. Methany twirled for the winners in the initial fray, while Hickerson served them up in the nightcap.

The Woodley A. C. won a double-header from the Indian Head Seniors yesterday, winning the first game, 10-5, and the nightcap, 9-8. The winners will meet tonight at 2816 Cathedral avenue, northwest, at 8:30 o'clock.

The St. Aloysius Insects defeated the Black Hawks, 5-4, in an exciting game played yesterday.

Arlington Post turned in a pair of victories over the New Hamper midgets, winning by scores of 22-5 and 11-8. Preston and Brooks twirled for the winners.

Rock Creek Servicenter is seeking a game for Saturday. Call Manager "Snitz" Neu at Potomac 6134.

The Maryland Mac Juniors want a game for Sunday. They have a field. Call Capitol Heights 302.

The Clover Insects hung a 21-5 defeat on the Mount Pleasant aggregation yesterday. Joe Dosh hurled for the winners.

The Capital Midgets defeated Youngs A. C., 8-3, in a well-played game yesterday. For games with the winners, call Lincoln 5431-J.

Naval Communications fell before the Rover A. C. by a 4-1 score yesterday.

The Georgetown Juniors are seeking games with senior teams. Call Manager "Buck" Trundle at Shepherd 1918.

3 All-Star Bouts Promise Action Tonight at Portner's

Winner of Schwartz-Kocsis Fight to Meet Pladner; Strickler and Phelps Primed for Rugged Battle.

A FISTIC card brightly illuminated with prospects of rousing action awaits Capital and Alexandria fans tonight in Portner Arena, where the Day Nursery Athletic Association stages 32 rounds of boxing, including a trio of all-star bouts. The first preliminary opens the show at 8:30 o'clock.

In the headline spot Matchmaker Frankie Mann has brought together a pair of colorful and experienced bantamweights—Benny Schwartz, who has fought three world's champions during an eleven-year career, and Antol Kocsis, young Hungarian champion, whom American experts predict will go far toward the world's title. These little fellows will travel eight rounds, barring a knockout, the same route assigned the principals in the other all-star encounters.

Matchmaker Mann has given them an added incentive by offering the winner a bout with Emile Pladner, French champion, to be held next month at Fort Washington.

Schwartz made an impressive showing in his debut before Capital fans early this month, when he dropped a weird decision to Billy Landers after fairly beating the Norfolk buzz-saw for six of the eight rounds.

In the bout calculated to furnish the real fireworks of the evening, Billy Strickler, rugged local light heavyweight, will make a bid for national prestige at the expense of Cowboy Owen Phelps, of Arizona, ranked among the leading 175-pounders in the game. This is Strickler's biggest chance in five years of boxing and the Capital southpaw is determined to make the best of it.

Joe Fino, Mexican bantamweight, and a stablemate of Phelps, will tangle with Midget Mike Dundee, New York, in the other eight-round bout. Fino pleased the fans several weeks ago in a fast scrap with Baltimore Kid 'Groves.

A pair of four-round preliminaries present Roddy Davis, Washington lightweight, vs. Donald First, Baltimore, and Whitey Saylor, Birmingham (Ala.) welterweight, vs. Oscar Voight, Baltimore.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Schwartz to outpoint Kocsis; Strickler to decision Phelps; Fino to shade Dundee; Davis to defeat First, and Saylor to check Voight.

SCHOOLBOYS FACE TRACK CONTESTS

Central Is Favorite in Titular Meet Tomorrow.

THE last preliminary dash will be run and the last practice discus thrown today as the high school track and field athletes wind up their long season's campaign leading to the annual interhigh meet tomorrow afternoon in Central Stadium.

Since the postponement of the meet last Friday, little has been done to lower the odds on Central, the favorite to win the event without excessive trouble. The Blue and White boasts this year of the four best sprinters in the high schools, Naylor, Price, Ditzler and Smith; the best miler, St. Johns, and the best field performer in Frank Kocsis.

St. John's should be the hardest pressed of the Central stars. Joe Moore, of Eastern, is good for 4:42, which will send St. Johns to the utmost to win.

It is not from Eastern, however, but from Tech that the greatest pressure is expected to be turned upon Central. Eastern has lost too many sure-point winners by graduation to hope for much more than a close third.

Grobmeier Is Rival For Mat Champion

Meets Londos at Ball Park Thursday; Whitefeather Is on Card.

Jim Londos, back East after vacationing on the Pacific Coast while the ringmasters of the Curley Circus were deciding that something should be done about the title he has held for two years, meets the carefully nurtured Fred Grobmeier at the ball park Thursday night.

Grobmeier wrestles almost exclusively with his legs. Painfully thin, the pride of Harlem City (Iowa), has piled his opponents in heaps since being imported here last Fall. His last appearance was against George Manich and was one of the roughest bouts staged since Chief Whitefeather and Tiger Nelson slugged it out in bare knuckles one night.

The pugnacious chieftian is back again Thursday, swapping busts on the nose with Jim Corrigan. Jim McMillen rassles Rough Frank Brunowicz in the semifinal. The fourth match concerns Roughhouse Olsen and George Cochrane. A fifth will be added. The free list has been suspended.

Lincoln Post Victory Deadlocks Spengler

Lincoln Post tied Spengler Post for leadership of the American Legion series by gaining a 7-to-6 decision in the feature of three games played yesterday. Spengler, playing a double header, walloped Stewart Walcott, 24 to 5, in the nightcap. George Washington scored a 9-to-1 victory over Bunker Hill in the other game. Home runs by Baxter, of George Washington, and Frye, of Spengler, featured play.

PILOTS LOSE 2 GAMES TO WOLVES

D. C. Colored League Entry Defeated 5-4 and 9-4.

THE Washington Pilots succumbed yesterday before the Detroit Wolves in an East-West Colored League double-header at Griffith Stadium, 5-4 in the first game, and 9-4 in the nightcap.

The Wolves took the opener with five hits, while the Pilots aggregated ten. Richardson outpitched the cross-firing 18-year-old Hunter, his teammates scoring two runs for him in the second frame. The score was tied in the fourth when, with two out, Creacy hit a line drive to O'Bryant, who made a great stop, but was unable to nab Troupe at second. Then Shepherd hit to short, but Sias crossed over from third and took the play, muffing it, sending Troupe home and Creacy to second, whence he scored a minute later on Hunter's hit to right field.

In the second game Hayes was knocked out of the box in the fifth, after the Pilots had taken the lead in the second. The Wolves made five hits and as many runs in this inning, the entire batting order facing Hayes and McDonald, who relieved him.

35 Boats Compete On Mattawoman Creek

After days of rough weather, the Washington Yacht Club's regatta was run off yesterday on Mattawoman Creek with 35 boats competing.

H. M. York won the 1¼-mile rowing race for men with Paul R. Donley second. John Kidd and Lisle Purcel finished first and second in the ¾-mile back stroke rowing race. Miss Fairchilds and Mrs. Paul R. Donley were one-two in the women's ¾-mile event, while Betty Thompson and Virginia Goodfellow took first and second in a novelty race.

Boys' honors went to Harry Lansenkamp, who defeated Robert Brockhurst in a ¾-mile affair and gained a second in a novelty contest, which was won by Louis Johnston. Prizes were donated by National Service Co., Miller & Dudley and Creel Bros.

Cubs Divide Pair As Hornsby Stars

Manager Hits Homer and Double in 6-2 Nightcap; Cards Win First.

Chicago, May 30 (A.P.).—Rogers Hornsby's bat led the Chicago Cubs to a 6-to-2 victory over St. Louis in the second game of today's double-header, after the world champions had mistreated their old mate, Burleigh Grimes, to win the opener, 6 to 4.

The Hornsby war club cracked Tex Carleton for a home run and a double, the former blow being the first Cubs' score and the latter starting a seventh-inning drive that netted two runs and put the Cubs safely in front.

Grimes sailed along in great shape until the seventh inning of the opener, but the Cards opened up then, and before the side could be retired five runs had scored and the ball game was gone.

Clark and Mungo Pitch Robins to 2 Victories

Brooklyn, May 30 (A.P.).—Watson Clark and Van Mungo each pitched his fifth straight victory as the Dodgers swept today's holiday bill with the Phillies, 13 to 4, and 5 to 3. Each allowed only four hits, and Mungo struck out twelve batters in the eight innings he worked of the nightcap.

The first victory was an easy one, despite the Dodgers made seven errors behind Clark, but it required a four-man rally in the last of the eighth to pull out the second tilt. Klein, with a single and triple, batted in all the runs off Mungo.

Yanks Score Twin Win Over Red Sox

Close First Game Followed by Runaway in Second; Lead by 5 Games.

New York, May 30 (A.P.).—The Yankees walloped the Boston Red Sox twice today, 7 to 5 and 13 to 3, and increased their lead to five full games over the Washington Nationals, who were dropping a pair to the Athletics.

Although he was hit hard, Herb Pennock lasted to win his third victory of the year in the first game. In the nightcap the Yankees pounded four Red Sox curvers for fifteen hits and scored in every inning but the sixth.

Between games, a granite memorial to Miller Huggins, former leader of the Yankees, was unveiled in center field. Among those who participated in the ceremonies were President William Harridge of the American League, Col. Jacob Ruppert, owner of the Yankees, and Mayor Walker.

MRS. MOODY AND WOOD IN FINAL

Beat Borotra-Sigart in French Mixed Doubles Play.

AUTEUIL, France, May 30 (A.P.).—Helen Wills Moody, in typical championship form, qualified with Sidney Wood for her second final in the French tennis championships today as the singles field dwindled down without an upset to a dozen men and sixteen women.

Opening the second week of play, Mrs. Moody, who regained the women's doubles championship with Elizabeth Ryan last week after a year's absence from the tournament, paired with the young New Yorker today to defeat Jean Borotra and Josane Sigart, 7—5, 6—2, in a semifinal match. In the final round they will meet the British team of Betty Nuthall and Fred Perry, who eliminated Henri Cochet and Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall, 2—6, 6—2, 6—3.

Singles play worked into the third round with little more for excitement today than the surprisingly good showing of the youthful Japanese Davis Cup player, A. Kuwabara, who defeated the Frenchman, Paul Feret, 6—1, 8—6, 6—3. Gregory Mangin, of Newark, reacted the men's singles quarter finals with a 6—3, 6—4, 6—4 conquest of the Frenchman, Duplaix.

Tomorrow Wood is destined to test the comeback powers of Rene Lacoste, veteran of the French Davis Cup Team. Lacoste, in action again after three years' of idleness, has been unimpressive in his early victories. Wood is considered the favorite.

"I can't pay my rent, so I decided to have a party before I get thrown out of here."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

SUGGESTIONS FOR PARTY PLATFORM PLANKS.

THE American public having become pretty well bored by planks ignoring the many subjects that touch people in their daily lives, the success of either major party this year would seem to depend on a comprehensive platform embracing the following planks:

1. We pledge the party to shorter cigarette and toothpaste eulogies over national networks.

2. We pledge the party to the abolition of drug store luncheonettes and a statute prohibiting an apothecary from trying his hand at vermicelli soap.

3. We favor legislation compelling Eugene O'Neill to write a play that can be seen at a single sitting.

4. We pledge ourselves to work unrelentingly for the return of the 5-cent bag of peanuts in baseball parks.

5. We appeal to the American voters for support on a platform of No More Championship Contract Bridge Tournaments.

6. We favor Federal control of Ely Culbertson.

7. We stand unhesitatingly for cheaper gasoline stations and limitation to no more than two at any one street intersection.

8. We promise to work for fewer football rules and laws prohibiting the football rules association from monkeying with them every winter.

9. We pledge the party to a limitation of animated cartoons in picture houses and to the abolition of imitators of Mickey Mouse.

10. We favor Federal regulation of radio crooners, and think Tony Wons should occasionally give a credit line for those poems he recites.

11. We favor laws which would make it illegal for any moving picture palace to put on a "presentation" exceeding by more than two hours the time taken for the featured picture.

12. We promise to bar any more books by Eddie Cantor.

13. We pledge our party against the appointment of commissions to consider any matter of vital importance to the public welfare.

14. We promise, if elected, to give the American public 60 days a year without any newspaper mention of Huey Long, Al Capone, Texas Guinan, Mrs. Ella Boole, Bishop Cannon, Secretary Stimson, Benito Mussolini, Kreuger & Toll, Daddy Browning or General Ma.

15. We pledge ourselves to the elimination of ship launchings, Italian army maneuvers, talks by U. S. Congressmen and all swimming girls from newsreel movies.

16. We favor a more comfortable dress shirt.

17. We favor standardization of traffic lights and call upon the various States to get together and agree on whether there should be any turns on red or not.

18. We favor fewer radiator ornaments on American automobiles.

EPITAPHS FOR TOURISTS.

Color-blind was Philip Pim
(His driving was well meant),
To him that red light seemed quite green—
And that's the way he went.

* * * *

"Drive slowly!" was the watchword of James Samuel Lester Grind.
And driving slowly with no tail-light
He met the car behind.

* * * *

He had the newest, trimmest car—
Oh, weep for Edward Jay!
Before he knew he'd gone too far
A lake was in his way . . .

Dorothy Ruth Krouse.

Prof. Piccard, of Belgium, who made a balloon flight into the stratosphere last year, wants to try it again. If he gets high enough up in the air he should meet lots of interesting people.

LITTLE INDUCEMENT.

The bill to legalize 2.75 beer and tax it to help balance the budget was defeated in the House, 278 to 169. Probably many congressmen found the thought of shifting to beer as weak as that very disgusting.

FANS We pay no attention to anonymous letters! Sign your names!
G. SCHIRMER. Yes, you can give AMATEUR performances of any MINUTE MOVIE plots!
REVILO ISAE "Buddies" is a bit too realistic for use in MINUTE MOVIES. However we may be able to use part of it sometime.
LARRY BRANNON Your serial is a little too complicated. Work bigger and use pen and ink. You have ability but must work hard!
DORIS HENNEN-HAEFER— Sorry, Doris, but we have decided to avoid all stories of the world war hereafter. Thanks for your offer tho'!
SCRAP BOOK FANS! JAMES RONOSGHAN 1661 LURTING AVE. NEW YORK CITY has episodes from old serials which he would like to exchange for other MINUTE MOVIE reels..
ALICE GOUVERI Good luck to you and the Blackfriars production of "a Kiss for Cinderella" !!
ROBERT FOX If the paper cannot help, then I'm afraid it's no use!
GENE GORE Thanks for the nice note. There's a mystery thriller coming in a few days!
L. H. McCUE We have had a number of requests for "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" but would rather produce some story which is studied more widely in schools.
ROSEMARY BURNESS Your nice letter received. We want to compliment you on your fine handwriting and thank you for your good wishes!
BILLY HOLMES The sketches of Ralph McSneer were very good but always draw your pictures in pencil before going over them in ink. Good luck!
BRUCE KUBERT No, we have never made a MINUTE MOVIE version of Scott's "THE TALISMAN". "IVANHOE" was such an effort that we are resting from "classics" for a while HELP!! HELP!! FANS, FOR THE TENTH AND LAST TIME, ED WHEELAN BEGS YOU NOT TO WRITE TO HIM FOR BACK EPISODES OF SERIALS! HE CANNOT SUPPLY THEM!! HE WISHES HE COULD, BUT HE HAS NOT GOT THEM !!

UNTERMYER URGES CURB ON EXCHANGE

Veteran Lawyer Says Crash of Kreuger & Toll Stresses Need for Action.

New York, May 30 (A.P.).—In a new attack on the New York Stock Exchange, Samuel Untermyer today stated that the Kreuger & Toll debacle "once again emphasizes the necessity for Federal legislation regulating, supervising, and curbing the uncontrolled power of the exchange.

The attack is contained in a letter which the veteran lawyer has addressed to the exchange as counsel for the independent protective committee for Kreuber & Toll Co. debenture bondholders. It is in reply to a recent communication from the exchange in which it refused to use its power in helping the independent protective committee gain access to a list of Kreuger & Toll bondholders.

"The only parties who have access to the lists of debenture holders are Lee, Higginson & Co. and their allied banking houses, underwriters and members of the selling syndicate by or through whom these debentures were issued and distributed to the public," Mr. Untermyer's letter states.

Statements Called False.

"All of these sales were based on a prospectus signed by Lee, Higginson & Co. and their cosyndicate members that was a mass of grossly false and fraudulent statements. I do not, for a moment, suggest that these gentlemen knew or had reason to believe that the representations were false. Although I have no evidence on the subject I am satisfied that the contrary is the case, but insist that there was unbelievable negligence on their part, amounting to constructive fraud, which renders them liable to the tens of thousands of investors who have been defrauded.

"It is hardly likely that these victimized investors, if they had any alternative, would knowingly place their debentures in the hands of a committee organized by and representing the agencies through which they were deceived."

Mr. Untermyer notes that the exchange is constantly listing new bonds.

"In none of these cases, so far as I know, where there has been a default in the payment of principal or interest, or in any other case of which I know, does the mortgage or agreement contain any provision whereby the bondholders can get into communication with one another for self-preservation, although you are, and rightly so, careful in exacting the inclusion of many other covenants in the public interest and protection.

Sales Literature Cited.

"It would be a simple matter to require, as a condition of listing, that it be provided in these documents, and that the company should stipulate that the trustee through whom the coupons are paid must secure and keep a list of the names and addresses of the owners of the bonds to whom the coupons are paid."

Mr. Untermyer furnishes samples of sales literature which he contends were used in furthering the sale of Kreuger & Toll securities to the public.

"If the exchange were under Governmental supervision does anyone imagine that it would be permitted to place upon its official list securities that are marketed by such methods or without evidence of the measures that had been taken to verify the representations made to the public? The Government authorities would doubtless demand that the exchange require from all selling or distributing syndicates a copy of all literature on which investors are induced to rely."

Referring to the stock exchange's refusal to help the independent protective committee gain access to the desired bondholders' list, the lawyer expresses regret "that your exchange has again lost the opportunity to perform an important service in the public protection and that you have again emphasized the necessity for putting an end to a situation in which your great power is uncontrolled."

LaGuardia Charge Denied by Whitney

Stock Exchange President Says He Did Not Misrepresent Facts.

(Associated Press.)

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, denied yesterday in a letter placed in the Congressional Record by Senator Copeland (Democrat), New York, a charge by Representative LeGuardia (Republican), New York, that he misrepresented facts before congressional committees in comparing American and British taxes on stock transfers.

Whitney said he compared the proposed stock transfer tax with the British stamp tax, and not with the English transfer tax, because the latter was not comparable.

The letter from Whitney to Representative Chindblom (Republican), Illinois, said in part:

"The exchange did not in any way misrepresent the facts. I can not help feeling that Congressman LaGuardia, in charging the exchange with having misrepresented the facts, is attempting to confuse the issue."

Abernethy Is Improved; Illness Due to Overwork

(Associated Press.)

Representative Charles L. Abernethy, North Carolina, was reported yesterday by Dr. George W. Calver, Capitol physician, to be improving from illness due to overwork.

He has returned to his hotel residence here after spending a period at Cape Lookout, N. C. Dr. Calver said he would be able to resume his duties at the Capitol within a few days.

When Gar Wood, dean of American speedboat builders, drove the Miss America IX faster than any power boat had ever been driven before, on January 27, 1932, he outstepped the Miss England II's record by such a small margin that it was not recognized by the International Yachting Union.

Wood drove over a 2-mile course on Indian Creek, Fla., at an average speed of 110.785 statute miles per hour on that day. The record of the Miss England II of 110.223 remained unbroken, however, because of the rule that the existing record must be beaten by at least half a nautical mile per hour in order to displace it.

On that occasion, Wood missed the world record by 0.03 of a second, or 5.2 feet. A few days later, on February 5, Wood succeeded in breaking the record by 1.489 statute miles an hour. His two runs over the nautical mile averaged 111.712 statute miles an hour, or 97.013 nautical miles.

Charles Hammye's Easter morning breakfast of 55 eggs in a Toledo, Ohio, restaurant, resulted in two things: It made him uncrowned champion egg eater of Ohio, and rendered him so helpless that he had to be carried from the table.

TRIPLE AUTO CRASH FATAL TO MAN, 26

W. E. Early, in Examining Own Car at Roadside, Is Hit by Another.

Walter E. Early, 26 years old, of the Westchester Apartments, 3900 Cathedral avenue northwest, was injured fatally yesterday in a triple collision at Hyattstown, Md. He died several hours later at Frederick City Hospital.

Mr. Early had engine trouble on a trip to Frederick. He parked his car in front of Burdette Bros.' garage in Hyattstown. He alighted and raised the hood of the car when he was struck by a heavy sedan belonging to Paul F. Myers, 102 East Melrose street, Chevy Chase, Md., operated by a colored chauffeur, Karl W. Brown, 1704 T street northwest.

According to police, Brown attempted to pass a car operated by W. V. Manion, of Hyattstown, when the latter put out his hand for a left turn. Manion swerved to the right, but the Myers car collided with his car and then struck Mr. Early.

Mr. Early was taken to Frederick City Hospital by a passing motorist. His leg was amputated in an effort to save his life, but internal injuries caused his death within two hours. The body was removed to the funeral home of Warner E. Pumphrey, at Rockville, Md., where an autopsy will be performed today at 10 o'clock.

Brown was arrested and taken to the Rockville headquarters of the Montgomery County police by Detective Theodore Vollten of the Montgomery County Identification Bureau. He is being held on a technical charge pending the result of the inquest.

Mrs. Early was seated in the car and was a horrified witness of the accident. She became hysterical and required treatment also. A young son of Mr. Myers, who was a passenger in the Chevy Chase car, was uninjured.

Midget Ill in Hospital; Other Actors Carry On

All good troupers know that the show must go on. But it is not so easy for the Royal Russian midgets, now appearing with the Model Shows of America at Fifteenth and H streets northeast. One of their star members is ill in George Washington University Hospital.

Miss Marie Filimina, one of the six midgets in the troupe, was taken to the hospital on advice of Dr. William E. Whitson. Other members, despite their brave front at show time, are constantly in attendance at her bedside between performances.

4 Women Injured As Car Overturns

Federal Employes on Way to Wakefield as Auto Leaves Road.

Four women, all of them Government employes, were injured yesterday when the sedan in which they were riding overturned a mile south of La Plata, Md. They were treated at Emergency Hospital, and two of them were admitted. They were on their way to visit Wakefield when the accident occurred.

Miss Maggie L. Moody, 54 years old, of 3043 Fifteenth street northwest, suffered a fracture of the right arm. Miss Grace Donaldson, 50 years old, of 1460 Irving street northwest, was admitted to Emergency with injuries about the back and a possible fracture of the right leg. Miss Mary McNutt, of 3700 Massachusetts avenue northwest, and Miss Alice Haggerdy, of the same address, left the hospital after treatment.

They said the automobile overturned in a ditch, then righted itself after a rear tire blew out on a straightaway stretch of the road to Colonial Beach ferry.

9 UNION VETERANS IN CAPITAL PARADE

Only Two From Washington Are Included; Crowds Applaud Them.

There were only two Union veterans from the District of Columbia to answer roll call for the annual Memorial Day parade yesterday. But reinforcements were coming from other areas. With their aid the representation of the Grand Army of the Republic reached nine as the parade started moving up Pennsylvania avenue.

The nine veterans were placed in three large automobiles and received rounds of applause as they moved up the Avenue.

The first of the reinforcements was an elderly colored man who had the only blue uniform to appear in the parade. He said he came down from New York.

A 90-year-old veteran of the 142d Illinois Infantry, who missed seeing Washington during the Civil War days because he was campaigning in the South, fulfilled a long cherished ambition to see the Capital as he always wanted to see it, from the head of a parade.

The veteran, D. P. Barker, of Sparta, Ill., was warmly greeted by the other veterans when he joined the party.

"I've always wanted to see Washington, but somehow things turned up to prevent," he chuckled as parade officials hurried him to a waiting automobile.

"At last I told myself, if I don't see it now, I'll never see it a day younger.

"This is a good way to see Washington," he repeated.

The local veterans were glad to welcome the reinforcements, F. J. Young, of Washington, who fought through the war with the Second Illinois Artillery, declared. Most of the five Washington veterans who turned out last year were missing this year.

Janitor at Apartment Saves Victim of Gas

A janitor at an apartment building at 1736 Columbia road northwest yesterday saved the life of an elderly tenant and broke in to find him overcome from gas fumes.

The janitor, Merritt Jones, traced the fumes to the apartment of Charles E. Dawson, 70 years old. He broke in and found the elderly man unconscious. Jones called the fire rescue squad and a physician who lived in the apartment house. The man was taken to Emergency Hospital, where his condition was reported last night as undetermined.

Vassar Will Graduate Six Washington Girls

Six Washington young women are members of the 1932 graduating class at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie, N. Y. They are Helen Virginia Cheatham, Marguerite Ruth Foos, Margaret Louise Jameson, Louise MacCracken, Jane Kline and Mary Eunice Thacher.

Washington stands second of cities represented in the class. Graduation exercises will be held June 13.

Holy Cross Play Tomorrow.

Members of the dramatic society of the Holy Cross Academy will present their spring play, "Janice Meredith" and a Bicentennial program at 8 o'clock tomorrow night in the school auditorium.

Military Mass in Stadium Pays Washington Homage

Catholic Rites Are Attended by Nearly 60,000; Great Character of First President Founded on Roman Church Principles, Dr. Guilday Declares.

Upon Catholic principles instilled in his youth was founded the great character which made George Washington the Father of His Country, Dr. Peter Guilday, church historian, told nearly 60,000 Catholics gathered to do homage to Washington and the illustrious dead of the Nation yesterday at Catholic University Stadium. Millions of others heard the address over the radio.

"George Washington always cherished one relic of his boyhood days which we of the Catholic Faith will ever hold sacred—a little tattered notebook in which he had copied, at the age of fourteen, the 110 directions of a French Jesuit manual of conduct for schoolboys, entitled "Rules of Civility," Dr. Guilday said. "Of these 110 rules, one may be cited as predominant in his character: 'Learn to keep alive in your breast the little spark of celestial fire called conscience.'"

The rules "nurtured in him during these impressionable years of his moulding the outstanding characteristics of his later life: consideration for others, simplicity, modesty, truthfulness, courtliness and elegance of manner, common sense, capacity for friendship, the spirit of tolerance, supreme courage and a profound Christian understanding of the providence of God," Dr. Guilday stated.

Tolerant Views.

The Bicentennial Celebration and memorial service was Catholic America's homage to the memory of Washington, whose tolerant views had much effect in securing the freedom of worship which a hitherto intolerant land had denied to Catholic, Jew and Quaker, Dr. Guilday declared.

With the Most Rev. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, pontificating, the church paid its homage through its most solemn ceremony, the sacrifice of the mass. Assisting Archbishop Curley on the raised altar which occupied most of one end of the stadium where the highest dignitaries of the archdiocese.

The responses to the mass were sung by a massed choir of 6,000 children from the churches of the archdiocese. The choirs were seated in a specially constructed stand in back of the altar.

In the gigantic audience were diplomats, members of the President's Cabinet, members of the judiciary, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, senators, representatives, high ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, leaders of Catholic thought, Mayor Howard W. Jackson of Baltimore and representative groups from every church in the archdiocese, as well as Representative Sol Bloom, director of the National Bicentennial Commission.

High Military Mass.

Prior to the celebration of the pontifical high military field mass was staged a colorful procession participaetd in by the various church groups, schools and religious organizations. Each group was caparisoned in gayly colored uniforms and interspersed through the procession were more than a dozen bands.

Led by the marshal, Brig. Gen. Michael J. Lenihan, and his military aids, Capt. Edward Reynolds and Lieut. Joseph H. Rosenberger, of the Maryland National Guard, the parade passed in review before the box in which sat the archbishop and his court, Gov. Ritchie, Mayor Jackson and the other dignitaries.

The procession required nearly two hours to pass the reviewing box and then to wend its way about the stadium to seats reserved for its members. Children, men and women, white and colored, marched into the bowl to offer homage to Washington and the Nation's illustrious dead, and to pledge themselves anew to the sentiments expressed in a telegram from the Most Rev. William Cardinal O'Connell, Archbishop of Boston and dean of the American hierachy:

"On behalf of the Catholic bishops of the United States, over 25,000 priests and over 20,000,000 Catholic citizens, I wish to join in tribute paid by Catholics of the Archdiocese of Baltimore to the Father of Our Country. We pledge, as ever, uncompromising loyalty to the perpetuation of unselfish patriotism such as was characteristic of our first President. We shall ever support with our prayers and sacrifices those who administer our government honestly and fearlessly."

Cable From Vatican.

A cable from Vatican City was read, as follows:

"Holy Father, desiring to participate in some appropriate manner in the solemn religious commemoration of the second centenary of the first President of the United States of America, the illustrious George Washington, which is to take place in the Catholic University, established in the Capital City, which bears his glorious name, willingly bestows a special apostolic bessing on the Archbishop of Baltimore, present at the observance, and all prelates, clergy and other persons attending these commemorative exercises.

"CARDINAL PACELLI,
"Papal Secretary of State."

Dr. Guilday cited the contributions which Catholics have made to the founding of the Nation, foremost among whom were Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Cathloic signer of the Declaration of Independence; Thomas FitzSimons, "equally responsible with Robert Morris and FitzSimons' father-in-law, another Philadelphia Catholic, George Meade, grandfather of the victor at Gettysburg, for the successful financing of the war;" and Commodore John Barry, "father of the American Navy, whose exploits equaled those of John Paul Jones;" Col. Francis Vigo, who sacrificed a fortune to enable George Rogers Clark to carry out the conquest of the Northwest; Timothy Murphy, one of the most romantic of Revolutionary soldiers; Patrick Colvin, "humble Catholic ferryman" who guided Washington's boats to safety across the Delaware to the victory at Trenton; Orono, Catholic chief of the Maine Indians, who held the balance of power against Canada for the American cause; Kosciuszko and Pulaski and Lafayette.

Gov. Ritchie, accompanied by his aids, Maj. Gen. Milton A. Reckard commanding the Maryland National Guard, and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, Democratic leader, marched in the closing procession, as the dignitaries left the stadium. As he passed before the massed stands he was the recipient of prolonged applause which conveyed the gratitude of the assembly for his tolerant ideals.

Assisting Archbishop Curley in the celebration of the mass were the Very Rev. Cuthbert Dittmeier, O. M. C., assistant priest; the Rev. W. Carroll Milholland, master of ceremonies; the Very Rev. Louis B. Pastorelli, and the Rev. Leo G. Burke, deacons of honor; the Rev. Milton King, deacon, and the Rev. Herbert T. Rimlinger, subdeacon.

DEWEY'S COMRADES PAY HONOR AT TOMB

Four Who Served at Manila Bring Floral Tributes to Admiral and Wife.

Four comrades at arms of Admiral Dewey in the Battle of Manila Bay who are members of the Capt. Joseph Coughan Chapter, No. 4, Dewey Congressional Medal Men's Association, of Philadelphia, came to the National Capital yesterday to place a floral tribute on the graves of Admiral and Mrs. Dewey, in Bethlehem Chapel of Washington Cathedral.

The delegation from the chapter, which has a membership of about twenty men, were Anthony F. Coan, U. S. S. Concord; John J. Schmitt, U. S. S. Boston; F. J. Meade, U. S. S. Boston, and Edward Smelgrove, of New Jersey, who served on the U. S. S. Baltimore during the historic battle.

Their floral tribute for the admiral was in the form of an admiral's flag with a field of blue flowers, on which were superimposed four floral white stars. A sheaf of roses was placed by the same delegation for Mrs. Dewey.

A squad of enlisted men from the receiving ship in the local Navy Yard, under the command of Chief Quartermaster Martin, acted as guard of honor and stood at attention as Taps was blown by W. J. Bowle, U. S. N.

The delegation was received by James Berkley, head verger of the cathedral, and Canon John W. Gummere offered prayers at the Dewey Tomb in the brief ceremony.

With Mr. Coan, who was powder boy on the U. S. S. Concord during the Battle of Manila Bay, were his small sons, Anthony J. Coan, 11, and George Dewey Coan, 3. A group of 100 pilgrims who were inspecting the cathedral at the time formed the congregation for the ceremony.

At the same time the service was taking place before the Dewey Tomb in Bethlehem Chapel, a memorial service was being held on board the U. S. S. Olympia in Philadelphia Navy Yard. Bishop James E. Freeman sent the following message to those in charge.

"I count it a real privilege to add a word of high praise to what is being said on the U. S. S. Olympia today in recognition of the very distinguished services rendered by George Dewey, Admiral of the Navy. His name will stand in American history among its most notable achievements."

The Admiral Dewey Camp of the Spanish-American veterans also placed a sheaf of roses on the Dewey Tomb. The Women's Auxiliary formed a color guard for the ceremony and the wreath was placed by Charles A. Lyon, vice commander of the camp.

Safe Robbed of $400; Checks Also Stolen

About $400 in cash, checks to the amount of approximately $600, and business papers were taken from a safe at the plant of Carpel & Co., 2155 Queens Chapel road northeast, early yesterday by safe thieves, who worked the combination of one safe and hammered another.

The robbery was discovered by Benjamin Carpel, a member of the firm. He said there was a possibility the safe looted might have been left open.

Woman Hurt as Auto Hits Pole.

Miss Mary E. Wilson, 65 years old, of 4729 Georgia avenue, received a severely lacerated scalp wound yesterday when the automobile in which she was a passenger, operated by John D. Torrey, sr., 73, of 1207 Delafield place northwest, crashed into a center trolley pole in front of 6323 Georgia avenue.

Peary's Child To Transport Flag to Arctic

To Mrs. Marie Ahnighito Peary Stafford, the "snow baby" daughter of the North Pole discoverer, Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary, will go the honor of carrying the flag of the Society of Woman Geographers on its first voyage.

Tomorrow the society will send its flag to Mrs. Stafford, who will sail early in June for Cape York, North Greenland, where she was born. She will go on the ship Morrissey, with Capt. Robert A. Bartlett as skipper.

Mrs. Stafford will take her two sons on the expedition to the upper end of Melville Bay, where a monument to Admiral Peary will be erected. She is the wife of Edward Stafford, of Washington.

The flag is a blue and white pennant with a sphere showing the eastern contour of the Western Hemisphere and the western contour of the Eastern Hemisphere, the North Star, the Southern Cross and the letters S. W. G.

Fire Causes $6,000 Loss to 7 Homes

Sheds and Roofs in 900 Block Second Street Southwest, Burned.

Damage aggregating $6,000 was caused by a fire early yesterday in the 900 block of Second street southwest. A passerby turned in the alarm and aroused occupants in the block.

The fire is believed to have originated in a shed in the rear of 917 Second street, southwest. Sheds in the rear of seven dwellings were demolished. Roofs of several of the houses also were burned.

Two alarms were sounded for apparatus to fight the blaze, which at times threatened the entire block. The homes damaged are owned by Bernard Leonard & Co., real estate dealers, with offices at 532 Four-and-One-Half street southwest.

Boy Is Injured at Game By Flying Baseball Bat

Reid Taylor, 16 years old, of Kensington, Md., was struck on the head with a bat which slipped from the hands of a batter on the Columbia Heights Team at a baseball game between Kensington and Columbia Heights yesterday.

Taylor was picked up unconscious and taken to the office of Dr. Katherine Kapman, of Kensington, where several stitches were taken in his head. He then was taken to his home. His condition is believed not serious.

Pocketbook Snatcher Gets $4 From Woman

Mrs. Agnes Winn, 1734 N street, of the National Education Association, lost her pocketbook containing approximately $4 and personal belongings, last night to a young man who snatched it from her as she walked near her home.

Police were informed by Mrs. Winn that the thief was about 25 years old, slender and good looking and wore a neat gray suit and straw hat. He ran east on N street after seizing the pocketbook, she said.

40 Watches Stolen in Store.

Theft of 40 watches from the Castelberg Jewelry Co., 1004 F street northwest, since May 29, was reported to police yesterday. The total value of the loot was said to be $60.

MANLOVE IS SPEAKER AT SOLDIERS HOME

2,000 Hear Legislator Plead for Firmer Adherence to Heroes' Ideals.

Memorial Day was fittingly observed yesterday at the Soldiers' Home Cemetery by an impressive ceremony given before an audience of more than 2,000 persons, most of whom were veterans of the battlefield. Representative Joseph J. Manlove (Republican), of Missouri, delivered the principal address.

Speaking from a flag-draped pavilion in the natural amphitheater, Representative Manlove pleaded for a firmer observance of the ideals of those who died on the bloody slopes of Chickamauga and the Argonne—that this country might remain a Nation. "Let us continue to hold high the torch of liberty and freedom which those who sleep here bequeathed to us," he continued. "Lack of faith in recognized representatives has caused the fall of ancient civilizations."

After an impressive plea for greater confidence in the Government and the Constitution which our forefathers died to defend, Representative Manlove concluded his address by paying tribute to the heroic women who unselfishly gave their sons to the Nation.

The exercises, presided over by Patrick J. Callan, senior vice department commander of the District of Columbia Spanish War Veterans, began at 9 o'clock. The amphitheater at the cemetery, adjacent to the Soldiers Home grounds, was filled to capacity. Bugles sounded the assembly, after which a short service was held at the tomb of Gen. John A. Logan, who first issued the order for the observance of Memorial Day in 1868.

Presentation of the colors was then made by Commander Callan. Following the allegiance to the flag was given by the assembly, and the invocation pronounced by the chaplain of the Soldiers Home.

At the completion of a vocal solo by Mrs. Elsie J. Reilley, the order establishing Memorial Day was read by Mrs. Mary Logan Tucker, daughter of Gen. Logan. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address was read by William I. Jenkins, Civil War veteran, after which the United States Soldiers Home Band entertained with a selection.

The ceremonies were concluded with the singing of the National Anthem by Mrs. Reilley and the playing of taps by the band.

Man Killed in Quarrel Over Shutting of Door

William Roy, 60, colored, of 426 Q street northwest, was shot and instantly killed last night during an altercation in the hallway of his home by another colored man who police said is Alonzo Taylor, 26, of Ridgeway, N. C.

Taylor escaped and police broadcast a lookout for him. He was later arrested by Policemen Dodson and Salmon at 208 H street southwest. They said the shooting was the result of a quarrel beginning when Taylor refused to shut a door after being asked to do so by Roy.

Catholic Meet Tomorrow Night.

The third of a series of conferences on "Catholic Action" will be given at Nazareth Social Service Center, 200 I street northwest, at 8 o'clock tomorrow night, by the Rev. R. A. McGowan, assistant director of the social action department, National Catholic Welfare Conference. The talk will be followed by benediction.

CAR MERGER ACTION IN SENATE FORECAST

Austin to File Majority Report for Consideration This Session.

Senate action on the District traction merger bill, despite the legislative blockade caused by the revenue, relief and appropriations measures, was confidently predicted yesterday by Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), of Vermont.

Senator Austin was placed in charge of the favorable Senate District committee report on the bill after Chairman Arthur Capper dissented. Senator Capper joined with Senator John J. Blaine (Republican), of Wisconsin, in a minority report extensively revising the measure.

Senator Austin said leaders of both parties had promised cooperation in getting time for the measure. Under ordinary procedure the Senate would devote only five minutes to a bill called up on the calendar.

"I am going to ask for more time, and I don't see any reason why I should not get it," Senator Austin said.

"For myself, I want only sufficient time to present the majority's case concisely. Of course, Senator Blaine and Senator Capper will want to be heard in opposition. But this matter has been pending for so many years and has at last come so near to a vote, I think we should proceed with it before adjournment."

The merger bill was passed by the House early this month and the Senate District committee substituted the House bill for the Senate measure over the opposition of Senators Capper and Blaine. The latter two want universal transfers and power provisions more liberal to the public written into the bill.
